

DISLOYALTY ACTIVE

And it Must Be Absolutely Crushed, Declared President Wilson in Flag Day Speech—Foreign-Born Citizens Are Trying to Levy Political Blackmail

A charge that foreign-born citizens of the United States are trying to levy political blackmail and to undermine the influence of the National Government was made by President Wilson in a flag day speech in Washington on the 14th. His assertion sounded the keynote of one of the foremost issues on which he will go before the country for reelection, and touched upon a platform declaration submitted by the Administration to the St. Louis convention.

The President spoke before a crowd of thousands gathered at the foot of the Washington Monument, after he had reviewed for five hours a great preparedness parade at the head of which he himself had marched down Pennsylvania Avenue. He declared that not since the Civil War had it been tested as it now is being tested whether the Stars and Stripes stood for any one united purpose.

"There is disloyalty active in the United States and it must be absolutely crushed," declared the President, speaking emphatically. "It proceeds from a minority, a very small minority, but a very active and subtle minority.

"It works underground, but it also shows its ugly head where we can see it; and there are those at this moment who are trying to levy a species of political blackmail, saying 'do what we wish in the interest of foreign sentiment or we will wreak our vengeance at the polls.' This is the sort of thing against which the American Nation will turn with a might and triumph of sentiment which will teach these gentlemen once for all that loyalty to this flag is the first test of tolerance in the United States."

The President's words were taken as an open challenge to foreign-born Americans, who, he has learned from foreign language newspapers and other sources, are opposing him for reelection. Officials close to him said he was outlining his stand on what he has determined to make a predominant issue in his campaign.

While the Democratic convention was being opened at St. Louis Mr. Wilson devoted the entire day to the flag day and preparedness demonstration. Carrying a large American flag he walked from the Capitol to the White House at the head of more than 50,000 marchers, including many high Government officials, Civil War veterans, employees of all the Government departments and of the local business houses, companies of cadets and National Guardsmen. Union and Confederate Veterans and Sons of Veterans marched close together and were constantly cheered.

The Sons of Confederate Veterans, including commands from Virginia and Maryland, were grouped with the Southern Society of Washington as the "Sons of the South" and composed a division of more than 1,000. They included Senators and Representatives and other men of prominence. Ernest W. Baldwin of Roanoke, National Commander-in-Chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans; W. W. Olds of Norfolk, Dr. Clarence J. Owens, past commanders-in-chief, and Everett B. Mann, commander of the Washington camp, headed that organization.

The parade started from the Capitol grounds and as its head passed the White House the President dropped out and took his place in the reviewing stand. He was joined there by Secretaries McAdoo, Redfield, Lane and Wilson, Postmaster General Burleson and Attorney General Gregory, who had marched at the head of employees of their departments, and by Secretary Lansing. As soon as the last marchers passed the stand five hours later the President went to the Monument grounds, where his address formed the principal part of an hour's patriotic exercises.

The program began with a National salute of 21 guns and the marine band played the Star Spangled Banner, while a huge flag was drawn slowly to the top of the white monument, 555 feet above the ground. Secretary Lansing presided and in introducing the President emphasized the duty of present-day Americans to preserve unsullied ideals handed down by the founders of the Republic.

WILSON RENOMINATED

Marshal, Too, Renominated, But Some Tar Heels Did Not Want to Vote For Him—Wild Cheers for Bryan—Demand to Hear Him

St. Louis Special, June 15, to Greensboro News, by Parker R. Anderson. With the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for another term as President, the North Carolina delegates are preparing to leave for home on early trains tomorrow. Every Tar Heel delegate here voted for the President and Vice-President Marshall. There was, however, considerable sentiment against Mr. Marshall and had they been allowed to vote their convictions there is little doubt that Governor Major of Missouri, would have been given a strong North Carolina vote.

If anyone believes that the Democrats want war they should have seen the demonstration here today when Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, defended the policies of Mr. Wilson in dealing with the foreign situation. The climax was reached when the stalwart Kentucky senator shouted "Without orphaning a single American child, without wounding a single American mother, without firing a single gun, Woodrow Wilson wrung from the most militant spirit that ever brooded over a battlefield, acknowledgement of American rights."

The whole convention of some 10,000 of men, women and children went wild. They shouted "repeat it," and then the band played "America," "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Dixie."

The applause continued for 11 minutes, and when a semblance of order was again restored the vast audience asked for the commoner until Chairman James finally promised that they should have an opportunity to hear the three times defeated candidate for President on the Democratic ticket as soon as he could be reached. "Colonel Bryan," said the Kentucky senator, "is not in this hall now. But I promise you that he will be given ample opportunity to speak and you to hear him." The demonstration that followed was conclusive evidence that Mr. Bryan is not a "dead one" by any means, and that he is yet a powerful influence in the party.

While this wild demonstration was going on some one in the North Carolina delegation seized the state's banner and marched through the hall. Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia followed and soon the coliseum was a mass of human beings moved as if by magic.

The friends of Britton were not able to land him the place as permanent secretary of the convention. Mr. Britton's backers said tonight, however, that he had been made "associate secretary."

The delegates make no effort to conceal their feelings with reference to the failure of three of the delegates at large to attend the convention after being honored by the State. Only one of the "big four" General Carr, of Durham, is here. The other three failed to show up. A delegate from Senator Simmons' section said tonight that the delegation is in anything but a peaceful state of mind over the failure of the others to attend. "I know of plenty good Democrats who wanted this honor," he said, "but the word was passed along that it would never do not to send the gentlemen selected because of their high places in the Democratic party, and they were selected. But none of them attended."

A. W. McLEAN'S CAMPAIGN BUTTON ADOPTED

The Democratic national committee at St. Louis adopted a design for a campaign button suggested by National Committeeman A. W. McLean of North Carolina. The design bears a picture of President Wilson, with the motto "America First" in bold red letters.

SELECT RIGHT MEN FOR SCHOOL COMMITTEEMEN

County Board of Education Appoints School Committeemen First Monday in July—Patrons of Schools Should See to it That Best Men Are Selected

To the Editor of The Robesonian: The first Monday in July is the time when the county board of education appoints district school committeemen. Next to good teachers, good school committeemen are the most important factors in the success of a school. The average parent doesn't consider the importance of the right type of men serving on the committee, and still fewer committeemen realize the importance of the position they hold.

The sort of men that should serve as public school committeemen are men who have the interest of the whole community at heart—men who will take enough interest to look after the welfare of all the boys and girls in the district. To be a school committeeman means more than to hold the office—or at least should mean more. I very often hear folks say the committee in my district don't seem to care how things go. They don't take any interest in the welfare of the school. All they do is to sign the teacher's voucher.

One of the things for which the Farmers' Union stands is a better educated rural citizenship. This being true, and knowing that the committee has much to do with the success or failure of the school, I take this method of urging the patrons to see to it that the right sort of men compose the committees in the various districts.

Make it known who you want as committeemen. Don't keep silent until the board has made the appointment and then abuse the board. If you don't make it known who is the best men the board may not be in position to know. You owe it to your children to provide the best possible for them in the way of an education—then you owe it to them to see that the three men who take the most interest in education and schools in your district serve as committeemen.

Look after this matter now while you have a chance. Don't put it off. The State Farmers' Union is making a plea to the fathers of the State at large to be careful in selecting the best committeemen possible. Hear the appeal all act.

F. GROVER BRITT, Sec.-Treas. Robeson County Farmers' Union.

Rank and File Satisfied

Raleigh News and Observer. The Lumberton Robesonian says it is well satisfied with the results of the primary. "Whatever the people determine suits us," says the Lumberton paper. "This is the idea. It is the people's business who shall hold office and when the man can go on their mind, the average man can go long about his business. In a State as overwhelmingly Democratic as North Carolina is, the people would have little word in the selection of officeholders if the convention plan prevailed in place of the best scheme ever devised to leave the plain folks satisfied. Talk about opposition to the primary, and dissatisfaction with the primary, why, if the rank and file of the Democratic party in the State had an opportunity to say whether or not they wanted the primary or the convention plan of nominating officers, the vote against would be the merest sort of bagatelle. The rank and file of the Democratic party in North Carolina is sitting in the seat of authority and it is not they whom you hear lifting a mournful wail because of the inconvenience of the primary.

He Should Have Won

NORTH CAROLINA GOOD ROADS CONVENTION

Some Items of Interest Regarding the North Carolina Good Roads Convention, Wilmington, Wrightsville Beach, June 21-23.

Correspondence of The Robesonian. All the railroads are cooperating with the Association in advertising the convention along their lines. Beginning June 20th, Wrightsville Beach cars will be run up to the station to meet all trains. Baggage can be rechecked direct from Wilmington to Wrightsville and will be put off at local stations at the Beach near the boarding house or hotel desired.

Among the prizes which are to be offered at the road convention is a silver cup to the owner of the automobile which travels the longest distance in coming to the convention. Other prizes are to the county for the largest number of delegates in proportion to the distance; to the city for the largest number of delegates in proportion to distance from Wilmington and population; to counties for the best exhibits, including pictures, maps, charts, etc.; and to parties exhibiting the best road photograph.

Among those who are to address the good roads convention at Wrightsville is Dr. H. M. Rowe of Baltimore, president of the American Automobile Association. Dr. Rowe has some very interesting data in regard to the use of the automobile tax in Maryland, and will undoubtedly give us some ideas which will be of very great value to the road cause in North Carolina.

Mr. Henry Ford has been invited to address the North Carolina good roads convention, and has not definitely refused. An address from him will be of great interest and value to North Carolinians, as the Ford is a very popular vehicle in this State.

Already 4,000 delegates have been appointed to the good roads convention, and it is believed that a great many of these will go. Letters are constantly being received from various sections of the State saying that automobile parties are being made up to attend the convention, special Pullmans are being arranged for, and in some cases special trains.

One feature of the convention which will be very pleasant for the delegates is a luncheon to be given by the Carolina Metal Products Co. of which Mr. George P. Galvin is manager. Mr. Galvin has assisted in the advertisement of the convention, and is contributing a great deal to its success.
