Cotton and Tobacco Damaged by Rains-Corn Good

Mr. R. R. Barnes of Barnesville is among the visitors in town today. Mr. Barnes, besides conducting one of the biggest mercantile establishconditions in his section, Mr. Barnes said corn crops are generally good, judging from present prospects. Speaking of the tobacco crop, he says the acreage about Barnesville is near norm., but in many places the to-bacco has been drowned.

Already many of the houses in the lowlands about town are surrounded by water and the occupants can only get out by using boats and wading in water several inches-even feet-deep in some places. Heavy rains are said to have fallen up the river from here both Tuesday and yesetrday and it is feared the water will again reach the high-water record made in August in the year 1908.
