DEMOCRATIC RALLY SATURDAY A BIG SUCCESS

GOV. STUART PLEASES

Virginia Executive Delivered Great Political Speech in Lumberton Saturday—Brought to Minds of Many the Days of Vance—Party Leaders Well Pleased With Success of Day Saturday was indeed a red-letter day for the many who gathered in Lumberton for the Democratic rally. It was a day that will be long remembered by many—a day that meant much to the Democratic party in Robeson county. It was a rare treat for those who heard the brilliant address of Governor Henry Carter Stuart of Virginia in which he told in glowing terms of the great achievements of the Democratic Administration during the time it has been at the head of this great Republic. It was a political feast; and fortunate was Robeson county in securing so distinguished a man as Governor Stuart as the speaker. It has been many, many years since the people of this section had an opportunity of hearing so great a political address. As one man remarked, "it was a vote getter". He told of the important constructive legislation that has been enacted under the leadership of President Wilson by the Democratic party. Many old veterans remarked that it was the greatest political address they had heard since the famous Vance-Settle campaign.

The number of visitors was estimated at from 2,000 to 3,000. Party leaders were well pleased with the success of the day. By the time the folks began to come in during the early morning one could see that the "spirit" was in evidence. The town was most tastefully decorated in holiday attire and the patriotic feeling was abroad. A speaker's stand had been erected on Chestnut street just beyond the court house square. Around the stand were placed a number of seats for the convenience of the crowd. The stand was draped in red, white and blue and on the front was a large sign on which was written in large letters "Safety First Means Democracy First". Above this sign was a large golden eagle entwined in the stars and stripes. Never was a speaker's stand more tastefully decorated for a similar occasion in Lumberton and never before was the town more beautifully decorated. The decoration of the streets was under the direction of Mesdames J. A. Sharpe and D. D. French and Mr. J. P. Newman, while Mrs. Sharpe, Miss Irene McLeod and Mr. Newman decorated the speaker's stand.

The parade, in which quite a number rode mules and horses, started from the graded school building at 10:30 o'clock a. m. and proceeded down Seventh street to Chestnut and down Chestnut to Second, thence across to Elm and up Elm to the court house. The parade was headed by the East Lumberton band, which furnished splendid music for the occasion.

Before the speaking began Rev. G. E. Moorehouse, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, offered prayer. Mr. S. McIntyre then introduced Mr. A. W. McLean who in a most fitting manner introduced the speaker of the day. In his introduction Mr. McLean declared that Governor Stuart came from a most distinguished family, of which many of the audience had read. He spoke of him as one of the noblest public men of the nation. Mr. McLean paid glowing tribute to the memory of the immortal General J. E. B. Stuart, the famous Civil War cavalry leader, who was an uncle of Gov. Stuart. Gen. Stuart, the speaker declared, was the right-hand man of Gen. Lee. His tribute to Gen. Stuart, brought hearty applause, especially from the veterans in the audience who had known him during those bloody days. With all this the speaker said that Governor Stuart was not depending upon his ancestors, noble as they were, for his fame. He declared he was the most beloved Governor Virginia ever had and that he was responsible for much great and important legislation being enacted in that State. Resides being Governor of Virginia, the speaker said he was a big farmer, that he not only owned the largest farm in his home State, but that he owned the largest cattle ranch east of the Mississippi river. Governor Stuart, he continued, owns 57,000 acres of land, 30,000 of which are in blue grass, upon which are grazing 5,000 head of short-horn cattle and other stock in comparison, Mr. McLean said that to show how the people of Virginia regarded him a Governor they nominated him in a Democratic primary without opposition and then elected him without the Republicans putting out a man against him.

Maj. W. A. Graham, State Commissioner of Agriculture, welcomed Governor Stuart to the State on behalf of Gov. Craig, who was unable to get here. Maj. Graham was sent by Governor Craig to extend a warm welcome to Governor Stuart. In his remarks Maj. Graham took occasion to say something about the conditions of the State agriculturally. He declared that the people of North Carolina have much to congratulate themselves upon, especially the conditions brought by the Democratic Administration. He declared that North Carolina was coming to the front along agricultural lines. While this has been a bad year for growing crops he declared that the farmers of North Carolina as a whole are today in the best fix they have ever been in. He said that farm products grown in this State in the year 1915 were worth $60,000,000 more than those grown in the year 1910. He urged the farmers to use brain as well as muscle in farming.

When he rose to his feet amid applause Governor Stuart asked that a flag which was between him and some of his hearers be removed, remarking that he did not want even the flag of his country between him and a North Carolina audience. He declared that he was glad to be here, Virginian's and North Carolinians, he said, feel very close to each other. They are bound by the ties of neighbors, the ties of blood, aspiration, sacrifice and common suffering. They stood shoulder to shoulder in the Civil War. They have kept the faith up to this glad hour, a prosperous and united people.

Getting down to politics, the speaker declared that the time once was when he wanted to make a Democratic speech he did not know what to say, but now since the Democratic party has been in power four years he did not know what not to say. He declared that now he could point with pride to the great accomplishments of the Democratic party and that he was willing to sing on it. He said when he started to mention the Republican party that he almost spoke of it in the past tense. The speaker asked where the Republican party came from and in answer to his question declared it came riding on a proud wave of war destruction and soon became consolidated with the interests and money bosses of the country, that the legislation it enacted was not for the good of the masses, but rather for the good of special interests of the country. The laws enacted by the Republican party were so much in favor of the interests of the country that they soon became more powerful than the people. The Republican party became so rotten—no other word to use—that it piled a record of iniquities upon it so high that in the year 1912 they killed it.

Here the speaker addressed his hearers as fellow Democrats and remarked that he could look at them and tell they were Democrats and those that were not were at the mourner's bench.

What claims have the Republican party on the people the speaker asked. They claimed to feed the people on a protective tariff, gold standard and many other good things—only Republicans could give—and the worst of it, they actually made the people believe what they said for a long time. They declared that if they would give the Democratic party rope enough it would hang itself. Has this proven true?

Speaking of panics, Governor Stuart declared that the only thing the Democratic party ever inherited from the Republican party was panics, that every panic known in the United States was a Republican panic. He continued, President Wilson rule the country has staggered from panic to panic. The remedy for all this was found at last, however, and that remedy was the Democratic party, which has rendered the country immune from panics.

The Mexican Question

What happened when Woodrow Wilson was elected President? Mr. Wilson who inherited the Mexican trouble from the Republican party. The trouble with Mexico was begun while Taft was President. Taft left it for Wilson to solve the problem. The Mexicans are bad neighbors, but Wilson has dealt with them as he would have been dealt with—as a great nation should deal with a weak nation. He, however, has given them to understand how far to go. To illustrate this the speaker told of an old Methodist circuit rider in the days when the preacher had to be both preacher and policeman. On one occasion when bad young men disturbed the service, after words failed to stop them he came down out of the pulpit, pulled off his coat, rolled up his sleeves and told them that if he could not preach Christ into them he could knock hell out of them. Some Republicans criticize Wilson for his Mexican policy. Why, just think of sacrificing the young manhood of our great country—just because a few Mexican property owners want Uncle Sam to protect their ill-gotten property rights. This property was bought in a revolutionary country and most of it at revolutionary prices, if bought at all. Many of the property owners got it by concession. Ask the same Republican who criticized Wilson what he would have done and he cannot answer you. He only says he would not have done what Wilson did, but he would have caused war. Theodore Roosevelt loved the people of his country more than he loved power.

Hughes Can't Find an Issue

The speaker declared that Hughes was a good fellow, but could not find an issue. He said he was actually surprised that Hughes allowed himself to be put up by the Republican party, knowing Wilson's record. He said that Hughes reminded him of a woodpecker running up and down a tree trying to find a soft place to peck, but so far had not found

GRADED SCHOOL OPENS TOMORROW

Children Should Carry Their Old Books Tomorrow

The Lumberton Graded School will open tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. It had been intended to have an educational rally at the opening of the term, but the auditorium has not been seated and it was decided to hold the rally later. Prof. R. E. Sentelle, superintendent of the school, and family returned Wednesday night of last week from Mr. Sentelle's farm, near Waynesville, where they spent the summer. All the teachers are here and it is expected with the new building in readiness the school will have one of the biggest openings in its history. Prof. Sentelle and family are living in the McNeill house, Sixth street, where they lived last year.

Prof. Sentelle says he is anxious for the children to carry all their old books to school tomorrow as many of the old books will be used this year.

TOBACCO WAREHOUSE OPEN THIS WEEK

Managers of Farmers Tobacco Warehouse of Lumberton Decide to Keep House Open This Week for Benefit of Farmers

The managers of the Farmers Tobacco Warehouse of Lumberton had advertised that they would close the house last Friday, but the amount of tobacco brought in last week was so much larger than expected they decided to keep open through this week. While there is not much tobacco in the country—not enough to make it a paying proposition for the managers of the house—they decided to keep the house open in the interest of the farmers who failed to get their tobacco out early on account of the drought last spring.

THE DEATH RECORD

Mrs. G. C. Taylor of East Lumberton. Mrs. G. C. Taylor died last night at 11 o'clock at her home at the Lumberton cotton mill of uremic poison. The funeral was conducted from the home this afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. N. L. Seabolt, pastor of East Lumberton Methodist church, and interment was made in Hollywood cemetery.

Thelma, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mard Phillips, died at the home of her parents at the Lumberton cotton mill last Thursday. Death was due to colitis.

Judge Winston Defeated

Judge Francis D. Winston, who resigned as United States district attorney of the eastern N. C. district to accept appointment by Gov. Craig to succeed the late Judge R. B. Peebles, was defeated in the Democratic primary in the Third judicial district Saturday by a majority around 1,500. John H. Kerr of Warrenton won the nomination.

Stamp Taxes Still in Force

The impression prevailed that the War Stamp act of December, 1914, requiring stamps on bank notes, telegraph and telephone messages, etc., was automatically repealed by the new Emergency Revenue act recently passed by Congress. Senator Simmons has pointed out that these taxes have not been repealed and will be required until December 31, this year.

Maxton Scottish Chief Unavoidably Delayed

Editor Harker asks The Robesonian to state that owing to the illness of his foreman and to another of his printers getting tangled up with John Barleycorn the Scottish Chief for last week has been delayed in publication. He hopes to get the paper out tomorrow.

Triumph for the woman suffrage cause "in a little while" was predicted by President Wilson at Atlantic City, N. J., Friday night in a speech before the annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association. "I have come here to fight with you," the President declared. Immediately the 4,000 women present stood and cheered.

—Miss Josephine Breece's millinery opening will begin Tuesday of next week, September 19.

—Mr. and Mrs. Regan McIntyre are moving today into their new home on East Fifth street.

—Miss Amanda McDiarmid will go tomorrow to Tarboro, where she will teach domestic science in the Tarboro High School.

—Miss Agnes Britt of Boardman arrived this morning and will attend school here during the session which opens tomorrow. Mr. Forest Hamilton of Marietta will arrive this evening and enter the Lumberton High School tomorrow.

—Mrs. Sue A. McLeod returned last night from Dillon, S. C., where she went a week ago last Friday on account of the death and funeral of her daughter Mrs. W. L. Bethea, mention of which was made in last Monday's Robesonian.

—Miss Rosamond Waddell went Friday afternoon to Lester, S. C., on account of the death of her grandmother, Mrs. L. A. Graham, whose death occurred at 4 o'clock Friday p. m. Deceased was 83 years old and had been in ill health for several months, and her death was not unexpected.

SUPERIOR COURT

E. S. Walters Loses Case Against Butters Lumber Co.—Jim Deese Gets $170 From Town of Lumberton

Superior court for the trial of civil cases closed Friday afternoon and Judge Thos. J. Shaw, who presided, left Friday evening for his home at Greensboro. Practically the entire term was taken up with the case of E. S. Walters vs. Butters Lumber Co. This case was started from a dispute about where the edge of a swamp began. A land line between Mr. Walters and the defendants was listed as the edge of a swamp and the plaintiff claimed the swamp's edge was at one place and the defendants held that it was another. The court decided in favor of the defendants. Notice of appeal was given by the plaintiff.

The case of the Town of Lumberton vs. Jim Deese was tried. This case started when the town condemned a street through Mr. Deese's property some months ago. The case was tried at a previous session of court and the jury gave Mr. Deese $400. The presiding judge, F. A. Daniels, set the verdict of the jury aside on the ground that he thought $400 too much. In the trial last week Deese was allowed $170.

A number of judgments were signed during the week.

Cutting Scrape in East Lumberton

Ernest Thompson, a young white man, was badly carved up with a knife by David Britt, another young white man, near the Dresden cotton mill last night. A gash was cut in Thompson's face and he was stabbed three times about the breast. While he was painfully hurt, it is not thought the wounds are serious. Dr. T. C. Johnson was summoned and dressed the wounds. Britt had not been arrested at noon today.

$584.88 Per Acre From Tobacco

While many Robeson tobacco growers realized from two to three hundred dollars per acre from their tobacco crops this year, perhaps no farmer in the county sold his crop for more per acre than Mr. J. A. Edmund, who lives on R. 4 from Lumberton. Mr. Edmund sold the crop off two acres for $1169.76, or $584.88 to the acre. Mr. Edmund sold his crop at the Farmers Tobacco Warehouse here.

More Wives Than the Law Allows

Quince Wilson, who lives near Long Branch, was arrested and placed in jail here Saturday by Rural Police W. C. Britt. Wilson has a wife in Columbus county, it is said, and about four months ago married Miss Bettie Wilson of the Long Branch section. Wilson's Columbus county wife swore out the warrant upon which he was arrested.

Advertising in The Robesonian Pays

Does advertising in The Robesonian pay? Sure it does. Read what Mr. E. G. Johnson of St. Paul, R. F. D., has to say about it. Mr. Johnson recently ran an ad in this paper—only a small ad—advertising cows for sale. He said he sold three cows and had enquiries about another almost before the print got cold on the paper in which the ad appeared.

—Miss Amelia Linkhauer returned Friday from New York, where she spent ten days buying goods for the millinery department of Messrs. R. D. Caldwell & Son's store, of which she has charge. She was accompanied by Miss Mary Steffy of Baltimore, who will be with Miss Linkhauer this season. This is Miss Steffy's fourth season a trimmer with Miss Linkhauer.

PARKTON PARAGRAPHS

School Opens September 20—Cotton Gins Busy—Wholesale Slaughter of Pigeons—Abundance of Hay—Death of Mrs. Frances Blount—Work on Baptist Church—Personal Correspondence of The Robesonian.

Parkton, Sept. 8—Mr. Henry B. Culbreth, one of our town's live wires, spent last Saturday at Ease High School, Moore county, where he delivered an address on education. Mr. Culbreth is a former student of that school but has spent the last two years at Davidson College. He left Tuesday morning for Davidson. Mr. Culbreth is a young man of much ability and his future seems bright. He is one of those young men that means to get an education. We bid him God's speed.

Miss Annie G. Williamson left Monday morning to enter the Southern Conservatory of Music at Durham.

The Parkton Graded and High School will open Wednesday, Sept. 20th. The faculty for the year is as follows: Prof. H. W. Doub, principal; assistant in high school, Miss Annie Davis, Guilford College; Miss Stella Rutherford, Bowling Green, Ky., elementary; Miss Marjorie Jackson, Mr. Airy; Miss Ella Doswell, New Canton, Va.; Miss Mary L. Culbreth, Parkton; Miss Elise Ellison, Ninety Six, S. C. You will observe that the above-named faculty embraces four States, and no doubt all are well qualified for their positions. Success is sure. Our principal thinks by starting the twentieth that a good attendance will start and as cotton is somewhat early and short that the scholars may be able to attend regularly from start to finish.

Mr. Laurin McArthur, former cashier of the Bank of Parkton but now of Bennettsville, S. C., was a welcome caller Wednesday.

The cotton gin of Cobb & Johnson is humming regularly these days, also the gin of Mr. J. G. Hughes, a mile away, is running. The Parkton Mercantile Co.'s gin is not quite in readiness, but will start soon. Mr. J. M. Johnson will operate this again this year.

Rev. H. B. Porter and A. B. Williamson made a business trip to Fayetteville this afternoon.

The following attended church last Sunday at Taber M. E. church from the east side of Cape Fear. T. W. Thompson, A. M. Stubbs, C. L. Beard, C. D. and A. B. Williamson. They motored over in Mr. Thompson's car and all report a great day and a good time. Rev. A. B. Crumpler preached both morning and at night.

Mr. J. B. McCormick decided this morning that he could not afford to allow his pigeons to devour his fall crop of seed that he had first sown, so he proceeded with his gun and in a short time had succeeded in detaining a half hundred, and divided liberally with his neighbors.

Hay cutting and harvesting is the order and will continue for quite a while, as there is an abundance in the neighborhood and very fine.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Perl H. Fisher, on the 5th, a fine boy. Both mother and baby are doing well.

Died, Tuesday morning at ten o'clock, Mrs. Frances Blount, wife of the late J. A. Blount, who preceded her a few months ago. Mrs. Blount was 64 years old and was making his home with his son, Mr. W. E. Blount, who lives in the southern part of town. Deceased is survived by four children as follows: one son, W. E. Blount, and three daughters, Mrs. Mattie Butler of Rutherford, Misses Hattie and Annie of Parkton. The funeral was held at Lumber Bridge Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. Deceased was a consistent member of the Baptist church and was a devoted mother. Truly she will be greatly missed by her family and neighbors.

We are billed for Lumberton Saturday by a big majority. We are anticipating a great time.

The brick laying on the Baptist church has moved steadily on this week, only need a few more bosses. Mr. O. Stanley is general superintendent of this work and a good one, but he needs more assistants. You understand.
