

UGH! ACID STOMACH, SOURNESS, HEARTBURN, GAS OR INDIGESTION

The moment "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches the stomach all distress goes

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into acids and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down: "Pape's Diapepsin helps neutralize the excessive acids in the stomach so your food won't sour and upset you. There never was anything so safe, quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is upset you usually get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it helps to regulate your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapepsin" is positive in neutralizing the acidity, so the misery won't come back very quickly.

You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia, or any stomach disorder, due to acid fermentation.

HOW PEABODY BROOKS SPLIT THE KNOT

Do You Know How to Split a Light-wood Knot?—This is the Story of a Boy Who Learned How and It Helped Him to Split Other Knots Along the Pathway of Life

Correspondence of The Robesonian.

Gadysville (Fairmont, R. 1), Feb. 23—Your crusty old uncle promised a time ago to tell the fellows how Peabody Brooks split the knot. While our time is somewhat limited to-night, we will tell you briefly how he performed the stunt.

Some time ago our friend Lucy Edens loaned us a little book written long ago by a very good woman who had the keen insight to see and know that all people in search of service and road to fame have knots to split—hard knots at that. They are all over our path. Now we country boys as well as some of our city cousins know that a lightwood knot is a hard piece of wood and is almost impossible to split. But the knots in our pathway if we travel on must be split.

Peabody didn't know how to split a knot the first time he tried it, but he soon learned, or the doctor taught him a lesson. Peabody is the hero in the story of the "Hard Knot". While he was a young fellow he had the wise old Dr. Peabody as his only friend outside his family circle. The little ragged fellow would swear, altho he had a heart of gold. He worked for other people, saw their comforts. He loved his mother and said she should have as good fire as her neighbors. One evening as the snow-drift was piling high and beating him blindly in the face, he came to his mother's little shack from his work. She didn't have the best of health, so she could not go out in the storm to gather wood to build herself a comfortable fire. But Peabody didn't mind, so he went out to split up a very large lightwood knot. He didn't place the knot on a very firm foundation; he didn't ever think about that. He seized his axe and gave it some of the hardest blows he ever struck right in the middle; then another, and another. He swore hard and cut away again. But to no effect. He looked up and saw standing right there before him was the

HOTEL PROPRIETOR GIVEN UP BY DOCTOR

"In conversation with a representative of your Company today, I could not help expressing my feeling of gratitude at the good your medicine had done for me. For three long years I suffered untold agony with what they said was a severe case of Rheumatism. After the best Doctors had exhausted their knowledge in regard to my case, I consulted an Osteopath and after an examination he said the hip joint had become irritated and it would take a long time to cure it, if it could be cured at all. I felt so discouraged over my condition, for I had spent hundreds of dollars in the vain pursuit of ease, for my suffering was terrible. Hearing of the good effects that Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy had on others, I decided to try it. I bought a dozen bottles, thinking that if I took it at all, I would go at it right. And wonderful, yes it is wonderful, the cure it made of me, as my friends can testify. I began to improve on the first bottle and by the time I had finished the course I was a well, strong man and have had no symptoms of the disease since.

I would feel that I had neglected my duty to my fellowmen if I did not tell them of my wonderful cure and I advise any sufferer to give Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy a trial. T. C. BRYAN. Grange, N. C., Jan. 31 1916.

old doctor. "Don't you know you will never split that knot, my friend," said the doctor. "Why," Peabody asked. "Because it has no foundation and your axe is bouncing wildly over the wood to no effect. Give it a good foundation," continued the doctor "and then split off little pieces at the time, also hit in the same place till you get something off". Peabody did as the doctor told him and soon had a whole pile of knots turned into excellent fire wood.

"Now," said the doctor. "I hope you have learned a lesson. You will have many knots to split in your future years. First, you must get a good foundation and then concentrate your blows. Do not expect to split it at one lick or two. You cannot accomplish it all at one blow or in a few moments. You must break down the barriers little by little, as you did the knot."

Peabody grew up to be a great man. He quit swearing. Splitting the knot taught him a lesson.

Occasionally we run across a man that tells us he doesn't read his newspaper, even care for a paper of any sort. Now that man just opens his mouth unknowingly to expose his ignorance. We believe some who claim they are of the no-paper type—likes to read and loves his paper just as the rest of us, but too "dignified" to confess it. If they do read they'll see this, but if they come back on us for telling on them they will have to play crooked rows.

I Am Mighty Proud of My Home—And For Very Good Reasons!

A Rooster that Crowed—

A Dog that Barked—

and a Youngster that never was Still—

The big factory on the hill—how well I remember it—the brook, the mill, the tree with the robin's nest in it!

There was a rooster that crowed every morning, a dog that barked every night, and a youngster that never was still—Me—SOVEREIGN.

I remember the soft south wind that blows gently over the tobacco fields,—the long rows of waving plants of tobacco—and how carefully they are tended, and raised, and cured, and stored—all for the sake of me, SOVEREIGN!

You bet you—I'm proud of my home here down South,—of my old Virginia and Carolina stock! No cigarette in the world ever had such good blood and breeding,—nor such a fine family,—nor such a clean, white, wholesome home.

That's me, SOVEREIGN, a Southern gentleman, and one of you-all and a part of you, because—

You Folks of the South KNOW good blood! You folks of the South KNOW good tobacco!

I'm going to spend all my days right down South here among my good friends like you—and I am proud to say this, too—

I am guaranteed by The American Tobacco Co. —Buy me. If you don't like me return me to your dealer and get your money back. I have said it. A Southern gentleman is known the world over for keeping his word, and I have given you mine.

Messrs. Whit, Dewey and Carlie Stone didn't get very much wetter Tuesday p. m. than they would if they had fallen in the river. They took a rain that reminded us very much of a young flood for a while. Any old thing for a change in the People are going to have to stop going from Rowland to Lumberton, it looks like, unless something is done, as they can't cross Burnt Bay, if it gets much worse; and other places besides this one.
