CURE MALARIA IN THE FALL

Human Beings Are Winter "Carriers" of Malaria-Mosquito More Sinned Against Than Sins.

State Board of Health Bulletin. The best way to prevent malaria in the spring is to get every body completely cured of malaria in the Stephen McIntyre, R. C. Lawrence

McINTYRE, LAWRENCE &

Atternoon of Completely cured of majaria in the summer time but human being are the winter "carriers". They get it from infected mosquitoes and unless they take a sufficient quantity of summer time but human being are the winter "carriers". They get it from infected mosquitoes and unless they take a sufficient quantity of quinine to kill the malaria organism in their systems, they carry the infection from one season to enother fection from one season to another. When the first warm days come in the spring, they have their first "touch of malaria" and are ready to infect the first mosquito that bites them. Thus malaria is always with us. Man infects the mosquito and the mosquito in turn infects man.

In the spread of malaria, the question is, who is sinned against most, man or mosquito? If man got rid of malaria in the winter as the mosqui-Land titles and law of executors to does, the charges against both would be equal. But as man becomes the agent that carries over malaria from one season to another and he himself infects the mosquito, he sins more than he is sinned against. As a matter of fact, if every malarial person should cure himself of this disease in the fall there would be neither infected mosquitoes nor in-• fected human beings the next spring and summer.

Quinine is the only cure for malaria. But the trouble is persons with malaria will not take enough to get completely cured. They take a few doses and feel so much better that they consider themselves cured, and take no more quinine. Consequently they go all fall and winter only half cured to have chills and fever again next summer. Everybody who has had an attack of malaria this summer should see his physician and know how much quinine constitutes a sure cure for malaria and proceed to take it without let or hindrance.

Banking in New Hanover has always been a prosperous enterprise. In 1915 the business in bank loans and discounts amounted to 7.4 dollars for every dollar of capital invested in bank capital.

The demand for bank credit is manifestly brisk in this area.
