SOME 3,000 ROBESON FARMERS HAVE PLEDGED TO REDUCE COTTON ACREAGE 1-3

This is About Half the Farmers of the County—Reports Received From 18 Townships at Meeting Saturday—Reports Are Encouraging.

Around 3,000 Robeson farmers have pledged themselves to reduce their 1919 cotton acreage one-third, according to the reports made by the committees appointed to canvass the various townships in the county. According to Mr. O. O. Dukes, county farm demonstrator, this is about one-half the farmers in the county. Committees from 18 of the 25 townships in the county made reports at the round-up meeting held here Saturday and it is expected that the committees from the other seven townships will send in their reports at an early date. The amount of funds collected from the farmers for financing the campaign turned in to Mr. Dukes, secretary-treasurer of the Robeson Cotton association, totaled $225. One-half of this will go to the State organization and the other half will go towards paying the canvassers for their work, advertising, job work and other necessary expenses of the campaign in the county. While the amount collected by the canvassers did not defray all the expenses, many promised to contribute later. These should send their contributions to Mr. Dukes at Lumberton. A statement will be published in what way the money collected is disbursed.

The townships which made reports in full or partial reports Saturday were: Lumberton, Raft Swamp, Back Swamp, Thompson, Gaddy, Fairmont, Orum, Britt, Wishart, Howellville, Sterlings, Red Springs, Smith, Burnt Swamp, Maxton, Alfordville, Pembroke, and White House. Those that failed to send in reports: Shannon, Saddletree, Rennert, Lumber Bridge, St. Pauls, Parkton and Rowland.

Members of the committees from the various townships told of how they were received by the farmers in all many townships the farmers signed the pledge card almost to a man.

The reports as a whole were most encouraging to the officers of the association and indications are that Robeson county will do itself proud in the matter of cotton acreage reduction.

Chairman Frank Gough presided at the meeting Saturday and after calling the meeting to order read a most encouraging letter from the State Cotton association. He then introduced State Senator H. E. Stacy, who told the farmers of the bills passed by the recent Legislature that most effect the farming class. Among the bills mentioned was the cotton warehouse bill, the six months school term, the compulsory school attendance law, the juvenile court law, State-wide road law, the property valuation bill and the dog law. Senator Stacy explained the bills in detail and his address was most inspiring to those present.

WEAVER'S THE MORE VALUABLE VINDICATION

His Re-election in 1918 by People of 10th District Was an Unquestionable Vindication of Congressman Weaver.

To the Editor of The Robesonian:

With considerable interest I have read the comments in your paper on the decision of the Republican members of the 65th Congress which gave to J. J. Britt about $21,000 for a term in Congress served by another man. Twenty-one thousand dollars for less than three days service certainly seems to be "some pull."

My home is in the 10th Congressional district, and I am well acquainted not only with the history of the contest, but also the decision of the people of the district in regard to it. The election of 1916, which was contested, was indeed close. Mr. Weaver being elected by a majority of less than a score of votes. As Mr. Weaver's majority was so small, Mr. Britt hoped, by contesting the election, to push Weaver out and push himself in. Weaver and Britt were again the candidates last election, and Weaver was elected by over a thousand majority. It is barely probable that Mr. Britt thinks he was elected in 1916, but the result of the 1918 election was an unquestionable vindication of Mr. Weaver, and vindication at home is vastly more valuable than an organized movement at Washington.

Mr. Weaver now represents the district, and will continue to give valuable service to the people of the district who elected him and for whom he has earnestly, faithfully and loyally performed the duties of the office of Congressman during the last two years.

Respectfully,
T. C. WENDERSON.

INFLUENZA WIPES OUT SPITBORNE DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

Precautions Used Against Spread of "Flu" Almost Wiped Out Whooping Cough, Measles, Diphtheria and Other Spit-Borne Disease of Children.

Correspondence of The Robesonian.

Figures based on reports to the State Board of Health show that the precautions used against the spread of influenza almost wiped out whooping cough, measles, diphtheria, and other spit-borne diseases of children. The Board of Health states that during June, July, August and September, preceding the epidemic of influenza, there was an average of 2,498 cases of whooping cough, measles, diphtheria, and other diseases of children. In October, during the height of the influenza, a sudden drop in the other diseases occurred, and from October to February 1st, the period in which the greatest number of cases of diseases of children usually occurs, there was an average of only 848 cases a month. It is also noted that as the influenza subsides the other diseases increase. During February there were more than twice as many cases of whooping cough, measles, diphtheria, etc., as in November, following the height of the influenza epidemic.

This sudden drop in the occurrence of diseases of children was due to the fact that the fatality of influenza and the rapidity of its spread put into the hearts of the people fear, which made them exercise personal precaution more than ever before. They coughed and sneezed into their handkerchiefs and used their own towels, drinking cups, etc. Children were kept from school when unwell, and unnecessary exposure avoided. These precautions not only retarded the development of influenza, but prevented thousands of cases of other diseases.

We must conclude from the above that the number of cases of the diseases of children can be materially decreased by proper precautions. Knowing this fact, it becomes the duty of everybody to learn more about the spread of diseases and to make as great an effort to protect the children against diseases all the time as were made during the great epidemic of influenza.

The following diseases were reported in the county during February: Measles, 6.

Assistant Collaborating Epidemiologist.

Those were the happy days when romance blossomed into fruitfulness on the farm, along with the big juicy apples, and red ears of corn. If the Department of Agriculture professors can restore this phase of farm life, long years neglected in many communities, those who have recollections of that blissful period will rise up and call them blessed.

McLendon Meeting at Washington a Great Success.

Many Robesonian readers will be interested in the following dispatch to the Raleigh News and Observer, Evangelist McLendon having conducted in Lumberton recently the most successful evangelistic campaign in the history of the town:

Washington, N. C., March 12.—The greatest evangelistic campaign ever held in Eastern North Carolina came to a close Tuesday night in a manner which will never be forgotten by the huge crowd that was present at the warehouse and heard Evangelist McLendon's farewell message to Washington. Mr. McLendon has been preaching in the city for the past five weeks.

The warehouse was packed and jammed with thousands of Mack's admirers. At 7 o'clock, before the doors were opened, hundreds were standing outside waiting admission. A steady stream of people flowed toward the warehouse from all directions, up and down all the streets until after eight o'clock. It was a great and memorable occasion. Before preaching his closing sermon a committee presented Mr. McLendon with a cashier's check for $2,176. A committee of ladies also presented him with $100 in gold for his wife. Mr. McLendon left here Wednesday morning for Bennettsville, S. C., to spend a few days with his family. He expects to open a revival at Rocky Mount next Sunday. Arrangements are being made in Washington for operating a special train to Rocky Mount a week from Sunday to hear him.

Whether Inebriating or Not Dependent Sayeth Not.

Rural Policeman Frank A. Wishart located a barrel of "drinkables" at the home of Luther Bass, near Barnesville, Friday. The "mess" was made of dried peaches and sugar, with water added. Mr. Wishart also found a keg of like "drinkables" at the home of Henty Lee, colored, near Lumberton on the same day. Not being sure that the "stuff" contained sufficient power to "throw" the drinker, Mr. Wishart destroyed it and let the offenders off by promising to act differently in the future.
