 error, who added:
 "We should not by law abridge a man's right either to labor or quit his employment. However, neither labor nor capital should take action that would put in jeopardy the public welfare."
 "We need a definite and precise statement of policy as to what business men and workmen may do by way of combination and collective action. The law is now so nebulous that it almost turns on predictions of the judge or jury. The rules of business should be made more certain so that on a stable basis men may move in confidence."

Disputes between capital and labor are inevitable, Gov. Cox said, and public opinion settles prolonged strikes. Declaring that "public opinion should determine in America," he said the government should occupy an impartial position, protect lives and property and, possibly at times, inquire into facts of a tie-up.
 "But facts and not conclusions," he said, "should be submitted."

Agricultural subjects formed another extensive feature of the candidate's speech, many expedients for agricultural development being advocated, including reduction of tenantry, increased production, co-operative selling as well as purchasing by farmers, establishment of municipal markets and "modern state rural school codes," and increased acreage by irrigation development. He also declared for government regulation of cold storage and a time limit on storage products.

Advocating more home owners, Gov. Cox said that under Democratic rule "the prosperity of the country had been widely diffused."
 Praising American youth for its war service, Gov. Cox declared that the nation owes a debt to those who died and their dependents and to the wounded, who should be trained and rehabilitated. Also, he said, "we must realize that considerable compensation is due those who lost much by the break in their material hopes and aspirations."

The Mexican situation, the Governor stated, has been "trying our patience for years," but now begins to show signs of improvement.
 "Not the least of the things that have contributed to it," he continued, "is a realization by the people of that country that we have neither lust for domain, nor disposition to disturb their sovereign rights."

On the railroad question, Gov. Cox advocated giving "a thorough test to private ownership" under government regulation, the latter now being accepted, he said. Financial credit for the roads, he stated, should be provided. Discrediting of government operation of the carriers was deplored as "unfair" and "insincere."

A pledge for "heavy" and immediate reduction of federal taxation was made by the nominee, who said that, with economy, $2,000,000,000 could be lopped off. He advocated repeal of "annoying consumption taxes" and said incomes of wage earners, agricultural producers, and salaried, professional and small business men should be "sharply modified." He suggested, in lieu of excess profits taxes, "a small tax, probably of one or 1-2 per cent. on the total business of every going concern." He also urged "making the holders of hidden wealth pay their share (of taxes) with those whose property is in sight."

Advocating reform of federal agencies and activities, including establishment of a budget system, the Governor said the government could be run on $4,000,000,000 annually including sinking fund and national debt interest. Disarmament provisions of the League of Nations, he added, constitute "an appalling fundamental" and its loss a surety of armament burdens.

The Federal Reserve Act was commended at length as the greatest factor in America's war efforts next to personal sacrifices of the people. The law is a democratic achievement, he said, enacted "against the protests of the bitter Republican stand-patters." In its development he recommended establishing foreign banks in trade centers and urged Americans to guard the law, declaring it should be "kept from the hands of those who have never been its friends."

Repeal of war laws restricting freedom of speech and assembly and liberty of the press was advocated, together with Americanization of alien residents and extension of education work "without encroachment by the federal government on local control."

Conservation of children by prevention of child labor, adequate pay for government employees, short shift for anarchistic agitators and development of waterway transportation were other affirmative policies the Governor enunciated.

"I accept the nomination of our party," he said in conclusion, "obedient to the Divine Sovereign of all peoples, and hopeful that by trust in Him the way will be shown for helpful service."

A throng of cheering Democrats, estimated variously at between 40,000 and 75,000, witnessed Governor Cox's acceptance of party leadership in the presidential contest, following formal notification by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, chairman at the San Francisco convention, of its choice.

To the ceremonies at the Montgomery county fair grounds Governor Cox with Franklin D. Roosevelt, his running mate, at his side, marched for a mile in a broiling sun at the head of a parade of Democratic delegations reviewed at the grounds. The parade, line alone, sprinkled with two score of bands, was estimated to contain 20,000 marchers.

Keeps Crowd Cheering.
 For two hours the Governor, in his address of acceptance, kept the vast throng cheering as he gave, with emphasis his campaign policies.
 With pointed forefinger to vigorous arm thrusts, the Governor got more applause as he emphasized his indictment of the Republican platform and leadership. The crowd also voiced its approval of his declaration that the loss of the league would mean more armament expense.

Tribute to President.
 The candidate's tribute, to President Wilson, and his depreciation of Republican "discourtesy," given in lowered voice, were given further rolls of applause. A prolonged demonstration followed his assertion that Republican "sleuthing" had failed to unearth dishonesty in the administration direction of the war. This he hammered in, pounding his table, in clenched fist.

Notes cheers approved the candidate's pledge to aid ex-service men.
Demonstration for Suffrage.
 Several demonstrations marked his declarations for consideration for women, including ratification of the equal suffrage amendment.
 Repeated thumps of his fist punctuated the Governor's criticism of Senator Harding's stand on "party government," and the audience evidenced its sympathy frequently.

Chairman White, of the Democratic National committee, opened the program of the notification ceremonies of Governor Cox.

 Mrs. L. R. Breece, Fourth and

Walnut streets, says: "Several years ago I began to suffer with severe pains in my back and was in constant misery and always felt tired and run down. If I would stoop over sharp twinges would shoot through me and I could hardly straighten. Often black specks came before my eyes and mornings I was lame and sore and could hardly go. My ankles swelled, and my kidneys were all out of order. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills I got a supply at McMillan's Drug Store. I only used a few when I felt a great deal better. Continued use entirely relieved me of this complaint."
