ANNUAL MEETING OF ROBESON MISSIONARY UNION OF R. B. A.

Helpful and Inspiring Session Held With Church at Rennert.

Correspondence of The Robesonian. The Women's Missionary union of the Robeson Baptist association met in annual session with the church at Rennert, on Wednesday morning, October 5th, at 10 o'clock with Mrs. H. T. Pope of Lumberton as superintendent, who called the meeting to order.

Devotional exercises were led by Mrs. H. M. Baker, Scripture lesson Phil. 4, followed by prayer, Hymn, "Jesus Calls Us Over The Tumult." The address of welcome was given by Mrs. W. A. Graham. Societies responding to roll call showed most of the organizations represented, and the reports from all were very gratifying indeed, and showed much interest in the work. Mrs. Pope, our efficient superintendent, then gave us a splendid address, which was eagerly listened to.

"The Standard of Excellence and How it May be Attained", was discussed by Mrs. L. R. Stephens. "Our Training School at Louisville and North Carolina's part in W. M. U. Work" was then given by Miss Lois Miller, who has been a student at the training school for some time. Miss Miller's address was very interesting and instructive, and made us feel more deeply interested in the work of training our young ladies for service of the Master both at home and in foreign lands. Mrs. Alf. H. McLeod gave us much new food for thought on the interesting and vital subject "The Progress of Education in our Denominational Life." "What the Missionary Society Should Mean to Our Church" was discussed by Mrs. K. G. Kendrick very helpfully and showed the great need and importance of the women's work in the individual church. In a very unique way Miss Lillian Proctor gave a splendid remedy for "missionary ruts", and the proper method of treating this disease so often found in the organization. "Our New Territory" was then discussed by Rev. C. H. Durham, who brought to our mind, in a very forcible manner the great opportunities opened up to us by the new countries allotted to the Southern Baptist convention in Europe. Miss Elizabeth Briggs, of Raleigh, State Junior superintendent, gave an unusually timely address on the vital subject "The Testing-Time," laying special stress on the Seventy-Five Million campaign pledges, basing her remarks upon the Scripture teaching of giving to God as He has given to us, and emphasizing the paying of our vows to the Lord; for even though our country is in a different financial condition from what it was when these pledges were made, still God knew that all this was coming when he gave us the grace to make these pledges, and now he is testing our faith, power of sacrifice, and whether or not we are really His children in the Christian sense of the word; for "Blessed is the man who makes a vow and fulfills it, even though it be to his own hurt when he pays."

After the appointment of committees we adjourned for dinner, which was bountifully served by the ladies of the church in picnic style, and fully enjoyed by all present.

In the afternoon session election of officers for another year was first taken up, resulting as follows: superintendent, Mrs. H. T. Pope; associate superintendent, Miss Lillian Proctor; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. L. R. Stephens; junior superintendent, Mrs. I. P. Hedgpeth; R. A. superintendent, Mr. B. M. Sibley; personal service superintendent, Mrs. L. R. Stephens; Mission Study secretary, Mrs. C. H. Durham.

A Sunbeam program was then carried out, with Mrs. I. P. Hedgpeth, our most capable and efficient superintendent of the Robeson association Sunbeam work in the chair. Devotional exercise, led by a Sunbeam, followed by prayer for the Rennert Sunbeam leader, who is ill in a hospital in Baltimore. The importance of the Sunbeam and junior organizations of the church were all discussed; interesting reports given. Awards, consisting of seals, stamps and mission study books were presented. This proved to be one of the most interesting features of the entire program. "Blessed be The Tie That Binds" closed a very helpful and inspiring session of the W. M. U. of the Robeson Baptist association.

The next meeting will be held with the church at Baltimore, in October, 1922.

THREE HUNTERS KILL 45 SQUIRRELS IN A SHORT MORNING

That Happened in Bladen, Where Squirrels Do Much Abound. Messrs. Alex Prevatt and Tom Culbreth, who live near Pembroke, blew into Lumberton Friday afternoon with a bunch of squirrels, that was a sight to behold. They had enough squirrels to stock the children of Israel and the horsemen thereof. They said that bunch was only part of the fruits of a hunt in Bladen county, where the law, they say, places no limit on the number one may kill. They went into Bladen, 13 miles below Elizabethtown, Thursday afternoon and whetted their appetites by killing a few squirrels, and the next morning Messrs. Prevatt and Culbreth, with another man, killed 45 squirrels by 11 a. m. and decided to call it a day. Never saw the like of squirrels in all their born days, they said, and wild turkeys and other game abound also in that region, they say. Messrs. Prevatt and Culbreth must have known that the open season for squirrels began on the 1st inst. in Robeson had about concluded that Robeson county must be about as barren of squirrels as Ireland is barren of snakes, for in the kindness of their hearts they shucked off four hefty squirrels from the large pack they carried and made him a present of them. If these hunters didn't in a morning kill more squirrels than there are in Robeson county then the Bladen county squirrels are lots more accommodating about coming out where they may be shot at.

THE PASSING SHOW

M. MONTE.

Your job is hard or easy, just as you make it. Depending largely on whether you smile or frown. The man who climbs the ladder with the brick May think his job the very best in town. When he remembers that half the time he's loafing And merely coming down.

We take it that in future days the Republican gentry will shy suddenly and strenuously at anything that sounds like Ferniford, and when it is seen in conjunction with the surname Simmons there is likely to be a panic. It may be there is nothing in a name, but take it from us, the gents in the Senatorial Mausoleum know a great deal better. They had never run up against a Ferniford before. Hannibals they had met, likewise Caesars and Gamalial; but Fernifords? No, and they are a bit sorry they have done so in their somnolent days. And it all came around about this tax and revenue business.

A tariff that is so very dead, that skeletons can slip through without notice is a choice piece of legislation. About the only other thing the Senate lets in free appears to be Mr. Newberry, and he had been plucked before they got to him.

But since bootleggers and gunmen and things like that are allowed to run loose, we assume that skeletons cannot be placed under the head of infant industries, and foreign competition cannot lower the value of the skeleton crop, and so they are placed on the free list. There are sundry of us, however, to whom the tax-free skeletons do not appeal, we shall not order any job lots this season, and we are not relieved of any tax burden. But if there were any particular line of commodity which we should like taxed, it would be these foreign-born skeletons. How would the immigration officers be able to pass on the question as to whether a skeleton did not exceed the quota? It's difficult enough to tell a Kenoffski from a Venizelos when inhabiting a comfortable amount of flesh and clothes. Certainly the trouble will be enhanced when appears only the framework.

'Twas said that Mary had a lamb
That followed her about.
But observation makes us believe
'Twas calves, without a doubt.

The papers of Mr. Also-Ran-Dolph Hearst continue as purveyors of the enlightening biography of that prince of egoism McCombs. We have seen long since that he, alone and unaided, forced a certain Mr. Wilson on the people of these United States, and that his is the responsibility for Mr. McAdoo, but it now turns out that he told the Republicans, all by himself, that if they ran Mr. Harding instead of Mr. Hughes, the Hon. Woodrow would be no more. This was in 1916. It is evident that Mr. McCombs was playing solitaire with promising politicians as cards, a kind of modern Warwick, the kingmaker.

To handle one political party has ever been a perilous undertaking, but this young gentleman with the gayest abandon in the world took two of them to his bosom and played them one against the other. Fity he overlooked Debs. It would have been a great juggling act to keep three candidates in the air.

Further than this, we learn that Mr. Wilson had ambitions tending to a life tenure as President. We doubt it, but accepting as much of this biography as one pleases as true, there are a whole lot of us who are conscious of the nauseous stealing over us at an attempt to blacken one whom we have erstwhile lauded on occasions. And a thought strikes us anent the Hearst purveyor of printed things that visionizes a dark-browed bird that swings patiently over places from where odors rise to taint the breeze.

It dawns on us that a whiskey still is the easiest bird to capture out of captivity. Also that they are fitted with exceptional wireless facilities, that warn of approaching enemies. Prices on copper and tin should soar, at the destruction that abounds. But what about the human biped who steams 'em up? Who arranges that he gets on a siding when officers are due to pass?

Frank Henderson, Madison county wife slayer, paid the death penalty in the State prison at Raleigh Monday. The crime was committed on the night of August 23, 1920. Henderson admitted shaking and choking his wife but claimed her death was due to goiter. Whiskey and another woman, for whom he had deserted his wife and with whom he had been living in adultery, were said to have been the cause of the murder.

Lewis Edwards of Danville, Va., was sentenced by Judge Webb, in Guilford court at Greensboro Monday to 10 years in the State penitentiary following his conviction of murder in the second degree in connection with the death of Policeman W. T. McCuiston in Greensboro last May when he attempted to stop a liquor car.

Governor Morrison Monday pardoned Robt. L. Hutchins, Rockingham county, sentenced in May, 1920, to 12 months on the roads for larceny of an automobile, and Henry Yoder, Lincoln county, convicted in July, 1920, of having illegal possession of whiskey and sentenced to 6 months on roads.
