Rose From the Ranks

Governor Bickett was another of the State's great men who worked their way to the top from an humble beginning. He was born in Monroe, Union county, February 28, 1869, the son of T. W., and Mary Covington Bickett. His father was a physician. He died when young Bickett was 13, paralysis having also caused his

He attended the Union county schools and then worked his way through Wake Forest college. In college he distinguished himself by his gift for oratory, a gift for which he was widely noted in the later years of his life. In fact, Mr. Bickett was considered by many as the best speak. er of recent years in North Carolina.

He studied law at the university of North Carolina, but for two years after leaving college he taught school in Winston-Salem. Taking up the law, he went to Stokes county and there opened his first office. When Judge Timberlake, then of Louis-burg, went on the bench in 1895, Mr. Bickett moved to that town and took over his practice. There he resided until 1916 when he came to Raleigh to enter the governor's office.

Governor Bickett first gained Statewide prominence as a speaker and a public man at the famous mocratic convention in Charlotte in 1907 when he nominated for gov-ernor Col. Ashley Horn. His eloquence and his sincerity attracted wide at-tention and at that early date predic-

MISS OPHELIA WATSON,
Admrx. of E. C. Watson, deceased.

E. J. Britt & Company,

WHY THEY ARE

The business man who rolls up bank accounts in bad times as well as in good times is the business man who advertises all the time, but harder and and stronger than ever in bad times. That's because he THINKS.

His thinking tells him that when times are good everybody has money and it isn't hard for his ad to reach as many customers as he needs to buy his stock of goods say 50 out of every hundred people, or 50 per cent.

But when times are bad, perhaps only 50 people out of ever hundred spend easily. He knows that where his average advertisement reached 50 spenders out of the hundred in good times, in hard times the same advertisement, with the same reaching power, will still reach 50 per cent of the 50 spenders, or 25. But that's only half of what he is accustomed to and needs; now he must have all or nearly all the 50 spenders in order to equal his good times business. So he girds up his loins, fixes up a bigger ad, a wallopingly attractive ad, and if he doesn't reach all the 50 spenders, he comes pretty near to it.

That is the system of the biggest, shewdest advertisers in America. You didn't see them cutting their ads last year. You just simply saw them making their advertisements bigger, stronger, more intelligently drawing.

That's why they are rich-John Wanamaker, for instance,

And mind this: The figuring and the principle involved takes no account of whether the advertising is done in New York or Lumberton, The figuring is done on percentages of people. The principle is the same whether your business has been accustomed to deal with 1,000 people around you or whether you have been accutomed to deal with one million people around you.

If you did a satisfactory business in a community of 1,000 in good times, you can do a reasonably good business in poor times. When few people have money, you must get a greater percentage of that few than you got before of the many. You do it by---THE PERSON OF
