shoulder blade broken this morning when his mule became frightened at a truck on Fifth street, beyond the out of his cart and a wheel ran over him. He was taken to the home of Mr. W. L. Parham and Dr. H. T. Pope

Message on Second Coming of Christ Correspondence of The Robesonian.

Tonight at 7:30 in the Gospel Ta-bernacl, by special request Rev. Luke Rader will give a second message on the Second Coming of Jesus Christ and the signs of the times that refer to it. He has been requested to do this in order that the large number of people who were unable to get into the Tabernacle last night, and that those who are especially interested, as well as those who were unable to be present last night might have the privilege of hearing Mr.
Rader on this most interesting subject. He will give the interpretation of Man's number-666, as noted in Revelation 13:18, as well as some recent fulfillments of prophecy. Mrs.
Rader will sing also.

The public is cordially invited. Admission is free.

Broad Ridge Baptist.

Mr. J. P. Russell delivered an address at the Broad Ridge Baptist church yesterday at 11 a. m. Mr.

Samaritan and applied it to the generous gift of that congregation to the destitute people of Europe. Mr.
Russell was accompanied by Mr. D.
W. Biggs.

Series of Meetings

At Chestnut Street Methodist church on March 26 will begin a series of meetings in which the pastor, Rev. Dr. R. C. Beaman, will be assisted by Rev. J. H. Shore, presiding elder of the Rockingham district.
This will follow immediately after the second quarterly conference for this church. Rev. A. S. Parker of Biscoe will have charge of the music during the meeting.

B. Y. P. U. Play.

A play, "The Trial of Robbers," ions of the First Baptist church in the Sunday school auditorium Wednesday evening of this week at 7:30.

The public is invited.

SERIES OF SERMONS ON BOOK OF ROMANS

Eighth Chapter—Unconditional Surrender.

Paul, in this eighth chapter, sums up the argument he has been giving in the sixth and seventh chapters.
Namely, the absolute necessity of ceasing from our own way and yielding unconditionally to the control of the Spirit of God. He opens the chapter by saying that when a Christian has passed through the crisis of dying to his way and becoming alive to God's will by yielding absolutely to Him, then there is no condemnation to him, because "the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus has set me free from the law of sin and death."

Perhaps we can grasp this thought more quickly if we seek an analogy and comparison in nature. Take a blade of grass. The chemical combinations in it are opposed to the chemical combinations in the mineral kingdom. But the law of life, unseen and invisible, working in that little plant, tho' it is planted in the mineral kingdom, completely sets it free from the law of the mineral kingdom. However, let something occur to disturb and stop that little plant from obey-ing the law of life, and the law of the mineral kingdom begins to work in that plant both death and destruction, and the very elements that were its friends when it was obeying the law of life now turn to be its enemies.
The sun withers it, the air decays it, the water rots it. And so with the Christian when he yields obedience to the fleshly nature: the very thing that was meant for his blessing turns out a curse and works death in him, and the Gospel becomes the savor of death to him.

But again, it is an absolute impossibility, in so far as the law of gravity is concerned, for me to walk around on two feet with the bulk of my weight above the center. Yet as long as the law of life is being obeyed I walk around unconscious, nearly, of there being such a law. But let me disobey the law of life and I sprawl headlong.

So "the minding of the flesh (that is, the natural self.) is death, but the minding of the spirit is life and peace, because the fleshly mind is enmity with God; for it is not subject to the law of God neither indeed can be.
Therefore, Paul sums up the entire argument, "as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God" (For "if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His.") "And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together."

Jesus suffered, being tempted and learned obedience through the suffering. Brethren, shall we not slip our hand into His, Who is the Light, to walk with Him in the light, that suffering with Him, we may learn of Him to be meek and lowly in heart?
"For I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us." Amen.
