several sent boquets from the different sections. The cars moved out enroute for White Hill cemetery at 9:45, reaching the cemetery which held the body of Mr. Thomas, who died at Camp Jackson Nov. 1917. The grave was worked up afresh and almost covered with boquets. Leaving White Hill, we were headed for Old Prospect, reaching there at 11:15. There the grave of Mr. Löcklear, who fell in Flanders field, was beautifully decorated by the party, also was ly decorated by the party, also was met by several of his friends with boquets which were placed on the grave. Leaving Prospect, we moved on for St. Anna, where we found the graves and decorated them of Mr. Edwards, who fell upon the field of battle, and Mr. Lowry who died of wounds received in battle. At 12 o'clock we were back in Pembroke, spent one hour for dinner and refreshments; 1 p. m. we were on the go again for the Cummin's cemetery, which was made the resting place of the remains of Mr. Garfield Lowry, who fell upon the field of battle while engaged in a severe attack against the Germans. There we found his mother and several friends awaiting with beautiful wreathes to lay upon their beloved one's grave. Leaving there, we were headed for The Burnt Swamp cemetery, which held the body of Mr. Russell Oxendine, who fell in the famous 42nd division while engaged in an infantry attack. There we found several friends with boquets. Leaving there, we moved on to the family cemetery of Mr. N. A. Lowry, where the grave of Mr. Brooks Lowry, who died in Camp Stuart, Va., was made, and was Camp Stuart, Va., was made, and was completely covered in flowers which was given by his many friends who met us at the cemetery. From there we went to Old Eurnt Swamp church to lay the wreaths on the last of the graves for the day which was being celebrated, this being the grave of Mr. Preston Locklear, who died of discase in England. This ended our day's work. We were decorating graves but work. We were decorating graves, but those who were sleeping undisturbed had already placed several boquets on life's pathway that will never wither and fade away. Such boquets vere good deeds and the cause for

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF LAND Under and by virtue of the power and authority conferred in a certain mortgage deed dated November 1st 1915, and registered signed.

A Hodgepodge

The following, composed and sung by Mr. K. B. Lamb, who lives in the eastern part of town, has been handed The Robesonian with request to publish:

"Next town election coming on, candidates riding 'round, they'll tell us if we'll elect them, they'll dry our part of town. Soon as the election is over, they forget the pledge that they've made, they never thought no more of the shovel or the spade. Long in November, Chief Barker comes 'round, collecting up the taxes down in our part of town. He'll take it back up town, they'll caucus for about a week, and every dollar that they spend is on Second and Third streets. A. E. White resigned his office, Evander Britt wanted his place, and by the help of the people, Johnson gave him a race. Raced him around the court house square, up inauthority conferred in a certain mortgage deed dated November 1st 1915, and registered in Book 48, at page 298, in the office of Register of Deeds of Robeson County, the undersigned mortgage will, on Friday, the 28rd day of June 1922, at 12 o'clock Noon, at the court bouse door of the Town of Lumberton, offer for sale, at public auction, to the jail, anywhere but on the side-walk, where the boys can give bail. On Monday morning he'll take 'em around before the recorder's court, Fuller sitting back there, wanting to lay the fine. Six months, it's in the chain gang, sometimes twelve or more, the boys they hate to hear it, though they have to go."

between the oil well and the gasoline service station. It takes a whole lot more than the best of refining apparatus and crude oil to make a satisfactory gasoline.

Skill and experience are the big factors in refining. It is largely the knowledge of men who have learned the refining business from the bottom up with this company that has made the improved "Standard" Gasoline possible.

"Standard" is as uniform and dependable as the water supply of a great city—it is tested just as carefully. It is dependable under every condition because it is balanced, with the right proportion of light, intermediate and heavy fractions. You can't go wrong with "Standard."
