29 Men To Roads, 5 To State Prison.

Three Other Men Were Sent to Roads During Term Which Closed Saturday but Appealed—Out of Large Number of Cases Tried There Was Only One Verdict of Not Guilty.

MARRIED MAN IN THE TOILS LAYS BLAME UPON THE WOMEN

The regular term of Robeson Superior court for the trial of criminal cases which convened here last Tuesday with Judge N. A. Sinclair at Fayetteville presiding adjourned Saturday night after a large number of cases had been tried.

Out of the large number of cases disposed of the jury returned only one verdict of "not guilty," while two cases were not passed. Twenty-nine men were sent to the county roads and 5 to the state penitentiary. Three others were sent to the roads but appealed to the Supreme court.

The jury was out only three minutes in the case against Henry Hunt, Indian, who was charged with assaulting a female with intent to rape. After the foreman had announced the verdict of "guilty" in this case, Judge Sinclair thanked them for their faithful and splendid service. Hunt was sentenced to not less than 4 years and not more than 6 years on the county roads. It was in evidence that he attempted to criminally assault a 14-year-old Indian girl, the assault taking place last May. He is a married man and told Judge Sinclair that he had 5 children. He admitted having lived a life of immorality, but charged that the women were responsible for his conduct. Before rendering judgment, Judge Sinclair told him that his actions during the past few years had not been made known, possibly because the women would not "turn him up," but now it had gone so far that he was a dangerous man.

Bill Hammonds was given an indeterminate sentence of not less than 3 years and not more than 5 years on the roads after he was found guilty of an assault with deadly weapon with intent to kill. It was in evidence that he assaulted W. R. Courtney, a white contractor, near Pembroke several months ago. Jealousy over women, and liquor, were the principle causes of the assault. Courtney was assaulted and left in a dying condition in his car about a mile from Pembroke, and it was several weeks before any arrests were made. Jake Hammonds, also charged with assault in this case, was acquitted.

The grand jury returned a true bill against Mary Dial, and Ed. Cummings Indians, for the murder of Wise Locklear, and against Haywood Locklear, Ed. Cummings and Mary Dial for the murder of Anderson Maynor. The indictments followed the fatal shooting that occurred at an ice-cream supper on the night of August 6th. The grand jury also returned a true bill against John Thomas for the murder of his wife Hattie Thomas which took place in Rowland several months ago. A true bill against John Henry McKinnon et al, for the murder of Cliff Hamilton on September 1st, was also returned by the jury. Deceased came to his death as the result of a beating administered by these men, according to the verdict rendered by the coroner's jury.

Will Ray was taxed with the costs for burning woods after he pleaded guilty and agreed to pay to A. D. Evans the sum of $25 for damages.

Fred Worley had judgment suspended upon payment of the costs when he waived the bill of false pretense, and pleaded guilty to trespass.

J. R. Thomas was sentenced to 8 months on the roads for possessing and retailing whiskey.

J. P. Watson pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and received a 6 months sentence on the roads.

John Brooks went to the roads for 12 months when found guilty of retailing and possessing whiskey.

Andrew Taylor was found not guilty of burning a barn, but was found to be insane and was committed to the criminal insane department of the state prison.

Ernest McNeair pleaded guilty to an assault with deadly weapon and was sentenced to 30 days on the roads.

Bill Jackson pleaded guilty to larceny and was given 4 months on the roads.

John Barnes pleaded guilty to possessing whiskey and was sentenced to 12 months on the roads.

Will Warwick was sent to the roads for 12 months when he pleaded guilty to manufacturing whiskey.

Bud Gardner was found guilty of larceny and sentenced to 6 months on the roads.

Nelson Johnson pleaded guilty to larceny and received 8 months on the roads.

Andrew Hamer pleaded, guilty to store-breaking and was sentenced to not less than 5 years and not more than 10 years in the state penitentiary.

Mr. J. T. Graham of R. 1, St. Paul, was among the visitors in town Friday.

Series of Meetings at Presbyterian Church.

Services 10 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Daily This Week—Rev. Stewart Milne of Alamance is Doing the Preaching.

A series of meetings began at the Presbyterian church yesterday morning and will continue throughout the week, services being held at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. daily except Saturday. The pastor, Dr. G. E. Moorehouse, preached yesterday morning. Rev. Stewart Milne of Alamance preached a strong sermon last evening. He will do the preaching throughout the week.

"The Power of the Gospel" was the subject used by Mr. Milne last night. His text was Romans 1:16—"For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek."

"We are sometimes confused on account of so many interpretations of the gospel," said Mr. Milne as he appealed to his hearers to manifest the gospel of Christ by their every action. "God gave a demonstration of his handiwork in the western part of this state and the great Atlantic ocean. There is nothing that promises anything better in the beyond, except the gospel. In order to be a leader in this world it is necessary to be a Christian, and one can only be a Christian by belief in the gospel. So many people listen to their preacher and accept his theory of the gospel, but they never investigate for themselves the truth to be obtained, and have never applied the gospel personally."

The gospel was not intended for any certain class of people, the preacher made clear, but it is essential for everyone. The rich man needs it to show him that there is a better home prepared for him above; shows him how to utilize the blessings God has bestowed upon him to the best advantage. The poor man needs it equally as much, for it shows him the way to bigger and better things in this and the after life. God is no respecter of persons, and Christ was compassionate to the poor. The statesmen, scientists and all big men of the world need the gospel.

"It is sometimes sad and vexing to hear some people say they believe and claim that is faith," he declared, and said that all vessels must be thoroughly cleansed before it is possible to realize the power of the gospel.

Shepard Case Again Continued

Crowded Out by Cases Previously Set for Trial—Case Will not be Reached Before January Term—Luke Britt, Has Made a Signed Statement.

The case of State vs. F. M. Huggins and Dock Rozier, charged with being implicated in the murder of E. R. Shepard last April, which was expected to come up Thursday afternoon, was again continued and will not be tried before the January term. It is understood that the continuance was acquiesced in by all parties for the reason that important cases previously set for trial consumed the time until nearly noon Friday, and it was conceded that this case would consume 3 days.

Mrs. E. R. Shepard of Thomasville, Ga., wife of the slain man, and his sister Mrs. H. M. Broach of Putney, Ga., were here for the trial, also Luke Britt, who was brought from the State prison farm near Halifax as a State's witness.

It will be recalled that Luke Britt, who was indicted jointly with Huggins and Rozier, at the July term was allowed to enter a plea of murder in second degree and was sentenced to the State prison by Judge Sinclair for 10 years. It is understood that he has now made a signed statement implicating Huggins and Rozier. While the entire statement is not available for publication now, it is understood that Britt claims not to have participated in the murder but that he was at the home of Dock Rozier on the afternoon Shepard disappeared and saw Huggins, Rozier and certain others leaving the home of Giles Rozier. Dock's father, with Shepard's body, Britt claims that a man living about 3 miles beyond Fairmont, a tall slender man named Atkinson, who drove a Chevrolet car, was with him at Rozier's home, Britt buying liquor from Dock. It is not alleged that Atkinson is in any way implicated in the killing, but Solicitor McNeill is trying to locate him for a witness.

Messrs. Johnson & Johnson have been employed by the Shepard family to assist in the prosecution, while Messrs. McIntyre, Lawrence & Proctor and Messrs. Britt and Britt represent Huggins and Rozier.

Stores Closed for Armistice Day. Business is at a standstill in Lumberton today, practically all business houses being closed in honor of Armistice day.

Home-Talent Play Next Friday Night—Annual Visit of Orphanage Singing Class—Social and Personal.

By Mrs. H. G. Inman

Fairmont, Nov. 9.—The Sewell Lyceum & Producing Co. of Atlanta, Ga., presents "The Microbe of Love" next Friday night, 16th, at Fairmont school auditorium, under the direction of Miss Caryl Brigham of Augusta, Ga. Miss Brigham does not come to us as a stranger, having several friends in town, and, too, she has worked in North Carolina so much that she feels like a Tar Heel. She recently presented plays at Fayetteville and Fort Bragg and last Tuesday night "The Microbe of Love" was given in Radford to a packed house, many being turned away for lack of standing room. Besides North Carolina and her home State of Georgia, Miss Brigham has worked in 14 different states in the North, South and West. She is not only talented but a woman of great personal charm and dignity. Rehearsals are proving the capability of the fifty five members of the cast. Great interest is being shown and it is predicted that "The Microbe of Love" will be the best home-talent entertainment ever given in Fairmont. You'll miss the laugh of your life if you miss this attraction, which is brim-full of wit and humor from the first number until the dainty damsels of Fairmont throw their good-night kisses to the audience. This play is given under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher association, funds being used for the benefit of the school. Reserved seats will be on sale at one of the drug stores.

The Oxford orphanage singing class made its annual visit to Fairmont Thursday. They gave a very delightful and pleasing entertainment, which was entirely up to their high standard. Almost every seat was taken long before the appointed time for the curtain to rise. A silver offering was taken just before the last number on the program, at which time Mr. Frank Gough of Lumberton made a short talk complimentary to the class, our town and handsome auditorium. Lumberton could not invite the class there this year on account of lack of room large enough to hold an audience that would go to hear these children. He stated that he had not missed hearing the children in so many years he could not stay at home when they were so close by. The class was grouped and entertained in the following homes: Mr. E. W. Alderman, manager—Commercial hotel; Miss Myrtle Muse, teacher; Mrs. Alice Britt; Ora Bell Mathis and Laura Fields—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Grantham; Martha Williams and Nina Cottrell—Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Floyd; Mabel Day and Ada McGowan—Mrs. C. P. Grantham; Addie Presnall and Helen Schenk—Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Stubbins; James Compton and William Hardy—Mr. and Mrs. H. Weinstein; Mack Barge and Carrie Odum—Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Floyd. The box receipts and silver offering amounted to $214.65.

Rev. W. F. Trawick leaves Monday for conference, which is held in Elizabeth City this year. While Mr. Trawick is away Mrs. Trawick will visit his parents near Radford.

The Sidney Lanier Book club members were entertained by Mrs. C. A. Floyd at her home on Iona street Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. As the guests arrived they were met at the door by a ghost and conducted to the living room, which was decorated by numerous witches, black cats, goblins, bats and things pertaining to Halloween. After the assemblage of guests and discussions of business, Miss Ruby Carpenter delighted her hearers with a delightful vocal selection, after which Miss Helen May gave an interesting reading, Mrs. Wiggins of the Cabbage Patch. The color scheme of orange and white was carried out in the refreshments served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Mackie. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. A. Byron Holmes December 13th.

The 12th district meeting of women's federated clubs was held in Fayetteville last Wednesday. Mrs. H. Williamson of Fayetteville was elected president for the following year. Those from here representing Tuesday Afternoon Book Club were Mesdames F. J. Barber, Mayme K. Pittman, C. E. Grantham, G. H. Cole, T. C. McIlhenny, W. T. Sledge, E. G. Floyd, G. W. Thompson and J. Pender Mitchell. Those representing the Sidney Lanier Book club were Mesdames George L. Grantham, E. J. Chambers, A. Byron Holmes, Sam Webster, Charlie Baker, James Galloway, O. L. Floyd and C. A. Ashley.

Mrs. Ben S. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Floyd and Mr. G. W. Thompson also spent Wednesday in Fayetteville.

Little Miss Louise Singleary entertained a number of her friends Thursday afternoon, celebrating her sixth birthday. Games dear to the hearts of children were played, but the refreshments, "the party" to the children was the feature most enjoyed. Children were seated at the table, which was prettily decorated for the occasion. The following children participated in this joyous affair: Mildred and Annie Davis, Esther May and Margaret Lanier, Ernestine Rouse, Philip Jones, Mabel Pittman, Valier and Venson Leggett.

The filling station recently built by The Lumberton Oil Co. opened for business Wednesday morning with Messrs. Albert Inman and Gary

Wilson Says U. S. Course Since War Ignoble, Cowardly

Former President Says France and Italy Also Have Scrapped Treaty—Only Way America Can Show True Appreciation of Armistice Day by Putting Away Self Interest and Acting Upon Highest Ideals.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Woodrow Wilson, addressing the American people directly tonight for the first time since he left the White House, declared America's attitude after the world war was "deeply ignoble, cowardly and dishonorable."

France and Italy, Mr. Wilson also declared in a discussion of world affairs, have made "waste paper of the treaty of Versailles."

The former President said the only way in which the United States could show its true appreciation of the significance of Armistice day was by resolving to put self-interest away and to formulate and act upon the highest ideals of international policy.

Mr. Wilson spoke exactly five minutes into a radio instrument at his house here and his message was broadcast to every section of the country.

"The anniversary of armistice day," he said, "should stir us to great exaltation of spirit because of the proud recollection that it was our day, a day above those early days of that never to be forgotten November which lifted the world to the high levels of vision and achievement upon which the great war for democracy and right was fought and won, although the stimulating memories of that happy time of triumph are forever marred and embittered for us by the shameful fact that when the victory was won—won, be it remembered, chiefly by the indomitable spirit and valiant sacrifices of our own inconquerable soldiers—we turned our backs upon our associates and refused to bear any responsible part in the administration of peace, or the firm and permanent establishment of the results of the war—won at so terrible a cost of life and treasure—and withdrew into a sullen and selfish isolation which is deeply ignoble because manifestly cowardly and dishonorable."

"This must always be a source of deep mortification to us, and we shall inevitably be forced by the moral obligations of freedom and honor to recognize that fatal error and assume once more a role of courage, self-respect and helpfulness which every true American must wish and believe to be our true part in the affairs of the world."

"That we should thus have done a great wrong to civilization, and at one of the most critical turning points in the history of mankind, is the more deplored because every anxious year that has followed has made the exceeding need for such services as we might have rendered more and more manifest and more and more pressing, as demoralizing circumstances which we might have controlled have gone from bad to worse until now—as if to furnish a sort of sinister climax—France and Italy between them have made waste paper of the treaty of Versailles, and the whole field of international relations is in perilous confusion."

"The affairs of the world can be set straight only by the firmest and most determined exhibition of the will to lead and make the right prevail."

"Happily, the present situation in affairs in the world affords us an opportunity to retrieve the wrong and to render to mankind the incomparable service of proving that there is at least one great and powerful nation which can put aside programs of self-interest, and devote itself to practicing ideals of disinterested service, and the constant maintenance of exalted standards of conscience and of right."

"The only way in which we can show our true appreciation of the significance of Armistice Day is by resolving to put self-interest away and once more formulate and act upon the highest ideals and purposes of international policy. Thus, and only thus, can we return to the true traditions of America."
