LITTLE DWELLERS OF THE DREAM.

Little dwellers of the dream, Now your eyes with rapture gleam; Ye that hear and ye that see, What we make believe to be, Who are older grown, but still, Children in our lovelier will— Grant us grace of thine to know All the magic in the Glow!

Woods are dead and trees are bare, But your fancy clothe them there With celestial lights that gleam In the protals of your dream: Lights of stars and palace lights, Elfins shimmerings through the nights In which Christmas fairies come To the tambour and the drum!

Every street is now in turn Something more than heart could yearn,

For that on them you have built Palaces and domes of gilt, Shining brightly for your sweet Eyes to glimpse and make complete With light imagination born Of Saint Childhood's fairy morn.

Time that travels stands for you At the door of derring-do, Turning with love's subtle grace All the crude and commonplace Into something that is far In its glory as a star Shining on some crib to keep Unknown Christs in gentle sleep.

HERMAN PHILIP HEVENER.

RECIPE FOR HEALTH TAUGHT TO STUDENTS

"Take One Average School Girl Then Daily:— Three Wholesome Meals, Eight Glasses of water, Ten hours of sleep, At least two hours of play, and An abundance of H2O in form of Baths Mix ingredients with regularity and care; Sprinkle with plenty of fresh air and sunshine; Garnish liberally with snow or green grass; and Season well with smiles; Serve in happy surroundings as a well-browned, rosy-cheeked American Girl." That is a recipe for health as it appeared in a news letter issued from the school of home economics at the North Dakota Agricultural college. This health recipe is also posted on the bulletin boards of many of the high schools of that state, reports Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon, State Agent in charge of Home Demonstration work for the State College and Department of Agriculture. "The question of health is being stressed in all of our work this year," said Mrs. McKimmon. "In each unit of work the item of good health is brought up as being very important. In clothing classes the subject of hygienic clothes is discussed and in cooking and nutrition classes the question of healthful foods receives attention. All of the Smith-Hughes school's and many others in the State are stressing more and more the question of health. We feel that this is an important part of home demonstration work as conducted in North Carolina."

CHRISTMAS

The birth of Jesus Christ was the world's greatest event. It meant exactly what the angels said in their song, "Joy to the World," and it offered peace to a sin-cursed and turbulent world. The world was in gloom, it knew not the meaning of joy. He brought good tidings, for He was the Savior, and is the Savior of the world. He came to scatter the gloom, to break the bonds, to lift the burdens, to loose the cords and set the captive free. Joy to the world.

There wasn't peace, there isn't peace today, and there never will be peace until Jesus Christ comes to reign in power. The individual may have peace of soul if he accepts Jesus Christ as his personal Savior. There will come to him the sweet, calm peace and satisfaction which only Jesus can give.

Christmas morning brings to the world the light of the gospel, the joy, the happiness and the peace that only the Christian can experience and can dispense. Let every home respond to the music of His Birth. Let every friends glow with the light and warmth of the happiness He bestows. Let every stocking be filled with gifts, making glad the hearts of children, renewing the youth of the aged, and bringing the sweetness, the mirth and the laughter which heaven offers to suffering and depraved humanity.

Joyous Christmas, glorious Christmas, the best Christmas morning in the history of the world, because all of the blessings that the previous Christmases have brought are focused upon this one, and this Christmas will send its rays of light, and love, and promise, and prophecy across the ages to come, and again the angels' song shall be heard around the globe. "Joy to the world," peace and good will to all men who accept Him, who was born this day to be the Savior of men. Christmas, glorious Christmas, bestow your benedictions upon all

SAMPLES OF REPUBLICAN SQUANDERING.

By Wallace Bassford.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—Several acres of plain sod surround the Washington monument; the War Department asks Congress for $29,000 to care for this plot for one year and to "improve the drainage." The plot consists almost entirely of a gentle knoll; this writer has been over and around it scores of times and has never seen a quart of water standing on it. That is a sample of Republican squandering which anyone can understand. Here is another: Two thousand dollars are asked to paint the little old red brick house on Tenth Street, where the great Lincoln died. Any painting contractor would take the job at one-fourth of the sum asked.

The War Department asks Congress to hand over $400,000 to repair and fire-proof the central portion of the White House. It is doubtful if there is a contractor in Washington who would not be glad to have the contract at one-fourth the sum, for the entire building could be reproduced at present day costs for less than the amount asked for repairs. The Secretary of War says it is in danger of collapsing, but surely it will have to deteriorate at a rapid pace to fall before the present occupant takes his departure.
