Ye editor preached a good sermon in his editorial about the old preacher. This scribe is not destined to over be full-handed, but he sincerely pend on the charity of the churches. He has become acquainted with the attitude of the people on this question. He has made appeals for the poor old worn-out servant of God aw were callers at the home of Mr. from his pulpits a great many times. and taken offerings for him, only to Mr. She ton Prevatte was a caller be disappointed in his effort to help. at the home of Mr. J. W. Davis Sun- Just one contributor very of en should give more on such occasions than the whole congregation puts in There is too much discrimination and lopsidededness as a rule. It has not been many years ago since he knew a certain man to give ten times as Mr. James Chason was a caller in much to one object, and that object en thousand miles away, as he gave to his pastor for his support and that of his family. Perhaps he should not have given less to the object of his heart's delight, but he should have been more liberal with, the man Mr. and Mrs. George Wilkins and through whom the Lord was breaking the bread of life to him and his famitors at the home of Mrs. Wilkins' ly. We wish the church people parents. Mr. and Mrs. Cliver Kinlaw, might come to have a conscience in behalf of the old messenger of hope
