

disposed to venture in the market. They suspect, and not without reason, that the war between Russia and Turkey will raise the price of our stocks; and, therefore, they are resolved to hold on, and not let their property be worried and mauled at pleasure.

The Liverpool Mercury says, that business is so dull at Hamburg, and money so plenty, that it can be had for one and a half per cent. per annum! One of our Wall-street Insurance Companies will send out an agent offering to give six per cent. per annum for as much as we require to shave with, provided the Jersey Bank folks are not beforehand with us. BALTIMORE, MAY 16.

Captain Atkinson who came passenger in the schooner Cordelia, from Gonaives, reports that President Boyer arrived there the day he sailed (29th of April) from the Cape, and was received with evident marks of joy and satisfaction. On the principal bridge of the canal which runs through the town, the citizens had erected a triumphal arch, decorated in the most beautiful and appropriate style. The whole street from the arch to the President's House, (formerly the King's palace,) was strewn with green bushes and flowers.

St. Marks the citizens were also erecting a triumphal arch, and the reception of the President at Port au Prince, it was thought, would be equally imposing and satisfactory. [Red. Gaz.]

SALISBURY:

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 4, 1822.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

"John Poorman," we suspect, would not be libelled, should we attach alias to his name. It is true, our acquaintance with John is but slight; yet we think we ought to know him; and we cannot discover in the present character the least resemblance of him. If misfortune has thus destroyed his identity, from our hearts we pity him. But he is John, or he is not, we have given him a birth so snug, that the "pelting of the pitiless storm" will never more hit him.

"A Farmer" shall not be neglected.

The present number closes the second volume of the CAROLINIAN. If its pages have been instructive and interesting; if, while they sought to inform the head, they have contained nothing which might corrupt the heart; if in advocating the rights, they have met the approbation, of the people: if they have thus answered, though very imperfectly, the important ends of a public journal, we have some cause to felicitate ourselves. That we have realized the expectations of all, we have not the vanity to believe; that we have not come up to our own wishes, humble as they are, we frankly acknowledge: but that what we have done falls very little short of our means, is perhaps no less true.

To give respectability and permanence to a newspaper, it must be well supported, and well paid. Mere patronage, unaccompanied by that which gives value to it, is like the true stamp on base coin; it destroys the hopes, and ruins the prospects of him who trusts in it. Those, whose only capital is their business, and whose ability to prosecute it, and means of subsistence, depend upon its regular income, are of all persons the least able to live upon empty promises, which are to them like an estate in reversion to a person dying with hunger. Prompt payment gives to them, as moisture to plants, a healthy and thrifty appearance; and they wither and droop without it.

These few hints, it is hoped, will be sufficient. Without regular payments, the editors frankly avow, they cannot conduct the Carolinian with profit or credit to themselves, or advantage to their subscribers.

The friends of this establishment, and particularly those who have contributed to the circulation of the paper or the usefulness of its pages, have our sincere acknowledgments. A continuance of favor on their part, will excite to renewed exertion on ours.

The bill farther to regulate the Post-Office Department, which passed the House of Representatives, was indefinitely postponed in the Senate. We do not regret this. Though the bill was as unlike Mr. Meigs' project, as open undisguised friendship is to insidious, covert enmity, yet there were some exceptionable features in it which we would like to see removed before it becomes a law.

Mr. Meigs has no doubt the thanks of all the Printers, for his good will towards them, so emphatically expressed in his famous report; and he has probably ere this become fully sensible of their gratitude. But this one expression of his kindness is sufficient: for "over much care," on his part, would doubtless have the same effect on the Printers, as it did on "Lucky Christie's chickens"....it would kill the greater part of them.

We observe in the last Compiler that there are already three candidates on the carpet, to represent the Mother of the commonwealth....the town of Halifax—in the next General Assembly of North-Carolina. Leaving out the black citizens, (without meaning any offence to them, however,) about one-third of the votes of this famous town are candidates! Old Sarum itself can but just beat this.

The State Bank of North-Carolina has declared a dividend of four per cent. for the last 6 months.

West India trade.—The following is an extract from a letter, dated London, April 6, to a gentleman in New York. The writer is a member of Parliament:

"I conclude, the termination of non-intercourse between the United States and our colonies, will be an acceptable measure on your side; as all West India produce is to be permitted to be sent direct to the United States, it may lead to an intercourse of some importance. Your produce is to be subject to a moderate colonial duty, to afford some protection to the produce of our North American Colonies; but it will be the same in American as in British bottoms. I hope it will lead to a better state of things in the West Indies, and a better understanding with your government. It is also probable there will soon be an increase of duty here, particularly on foreign cotton; which, in that case, will be all drawn back on goods of yarn, when exported. The amount is not settled, but it may be considerable."

AMERICAN NAVY.

The following is a comparative view of our Navy in 1801 and 1822.—It will be perceived that we have now only two more vessels, and one hundred and fifty-eight more guns, than we had at that period.—An increase scarcely any thing like commensurate with our national growth and prosperity, our extended commerce and naval reputation. Yet it is proposed to reduce the Navy, small as it is! and, in furtherance of a paltry economy, unworthy of liberal statesmen, to dismantle the bulwarks of our rights and liberties.

ANOTHER BREACH OF PROMISE.

At the circuit court held in Dutchess, New-York, last week, before Judge Platt, the trial of the cause of Sally Sleight vs. Stephen Barnes, both of Clinton, for breach of promise of marriage, took place. The defendant had courted the lady for nine years.—The jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff of 1500 dollars.

John Randolph, Esq. arrived at Liverpool on the 6th of April, in the Amity, in 20 days from New-York, and set out the next day for London, in fine health and spirits.

A Liverpool paper in describing the powers of Madame Catalani's voice, says—"Such was the torrent of sound she emitted at one moment, that the glass globules pendant from the central chandeliers, were powerfully agitated and struck against each other."

STEAM-BOAT ENGAGEMENT.

PITTSBURG, MAY 10.—It is reported by persons on board of the S. B. Velocipede, that the captain of the S. B. Providence has for some time past harbored a hostile disposition toward the S. B. Gen. Clark, in consequence of her superior running, and to gratify a feeling of jealousy, which we had supposed could only have been fostered in the breast of the untutored savage, did wilfully and maliciously run his boat against the Gen. Clark, whereby he carried away her guards, wheel room and part of the cabin, and killed two persons on board the same boat. We learn also, that the captain of the Providence is in the hands of justice, and hope if found guilty, will receive the punishment due to such an inhuman outrage.

DIED.

On the night of the 24th ultimo, Col. JAMES OVERTRETT, of Barnwell District, S. C. after a short but painful illness. He was returning from Washington City with his lady, (whom he had recently married,) to his seat in South-Carolina, after having discharged his duty as one of the representatives of the people of that state during the first session of the seventeenth Congress, enjoying in anticipation the pleasures of home, and the society of intimate friends and relatives. On the Saturday morning previous, he reached Salisbury; after eating breakfast, he resumed his journey; but ere he had travelled ten miles, he became seriously ill. Having reached Mr. Partee's, ten miles from Salisbury, on the road leading to Charlotte, he was unable to proceed farther; and then death, that inexorable monster, terminated his mortal career. His remains were decently interred, in a neat country church-yard, not more than one quarter of a mile from Mr. Partee's residence. The affliction of a disconsolate widow may be imagined, but not expressed. Remote from her friends; widowed in a land of strangers; destined to a community where she is herself a perfect stranger; all those flowering prospects of future happiness, which seemed already to have bloomed around her, at once destroyed by one wide withering blast—those only who have shared like ills, can manifest a correspondent sympathy. An acknowledgment is due to Mr. Partee and his family, for their very kind and prompt attention to the deceased, during his illness.

400 Dollars Reward.

Samuel W. Lindsay,

LATE a Merchant of Mecklenburg county, N. C. left his family the latter part of February last, and is supposed to have gone to some of the south-western states. Lindsay is about 29 years of age, red complexion, sandy colored hair, has had one of his legs broken near the ankle, and writes an excellent hand. The last accounts from him, left him in Charleston, S. C. on the 30th of March: he left there on that day, in a new gig, and has not since been heard from. He has forfeited all claims to confidence among his friends; has made a default in the payment of his debts, of several thousand dollars; and has probably taken a large sum of money with him. He may probably change his name to that of Wilson, or Carson.

The above reward will be given to any person who will give me information of his place of residence, so that I get him in four months; and half the above sum if found in six months. It is confidently hoped that all friends to honesty and humanity, will use some exertions to discover the residence of said Lindsay, and communicate the same to me, or any other knowledge they may have of him.
