MORAL and RELIGIOUS.

Selected for the Western Carolinian, from Dr. Dwight's Sermon on the last Judgment.

Our Saviour has taught us, that many who are last will be first, and that many who are first will be last. On this solemn day, the declaration will begin to be wonderfully accomplished. On this day, those who were wise men after the flesh, whose talents astonished mankind, and whose researches entailed on them the admiration and applause of a world, will descend from their envied elevation to contempt and infamy...

blind; and with falling eyes, and broken hearts, will follow their children rising to the heavens, and bidding them an everlasting farewell. Such will be, such in some respects has already been, the separation between Jeroboam and his son Abijah. Brethren and sisters also unspeakably beloved here, and such of them as were devoted to sin, warned, reprov'd, and borne to heaven on the wings of prayer by those who consecrated themselves to God, will be parted asunder to meet no more. No longer brothers and sisters, but strangers and aliens, some of them will be vessels of mercy, usefulness and honor, in the house of their Father, and others vessels of wrath in the mansions of woe.

Most distressing of all; husbands and wives here united in the nearest of all earthly relations, and in the tenderest of all human attachments, will then not unfrequently be seated, one on the right hand, and the other on the left. One will ascend with the Judge to the world of glory; the other, lost in the host of evil beings, go down to the regions of despair. One will advance, in wisdom, worth, and joy, throughout endless ages; the other, make a dreadful and melancholy progress in guilt and sorrow forever.

MORAL CONDITION OF PERU.

We have been favoured with the perusal of a letter from an American gentleman in Lima, to the Rev. Abner Morse, late of Nantucket; from which it appears that the state of religion and morality in that country, is lamentably low. Men of principle and talents, who engaged in behalf of the Patriots, are often frustrated in their benevolent designs, by the envy and jealousy of those whom they seek to benefit. "Much of the influence of the Roman Catholic priests is lost; but where they have influence, they exert it to the utmost in defence of all the superstition and bigotry of the Church of Rome." Generally speaking, the clergy are profligate men; and do little or nothing to discountenance the alarming vices which every where prevail.

Mr. Lynch received a quantity of Testaments from England, and distributed them among the people in Lima; "who," says the letter "thronged his house while he had any, and were very anxious to obtain them."

He was in consequence very much abused by the Catholic priests; who "endeavoured to persuade the people, that, unless their own notes and explanations were affixed, the Bible could not be understood aright. Thus souls are deceived to their own destruction."

A number of Bibles have since been sent to Lima from this port; but in consequence of the obstacles in the way of distribution, they were afterwards brought back as far as Buenos Ayres. At present, the establishment of missionaries here would be far more difficult than in Pagan countries.

FROM THE TRENTON EXPORTER.

WHAT I'VE SEEN.

I have seen worth humbled, and unworthies exalted; yea even so, that the last was first, and the first was last.

I have seen men of little intrinsic merit, rising on the tide of fortune, and running with the popular current of the day, until by dint of impudence and perseverance, they've grown into consequence.

I have seen persons far more attentive to the concerns of their neighbors, than their own, and prying into private affairs for the worst of purposes.

I have seen stupidity allied to wealth, producing a display of splendid ignorance highly disgusting to a sound judgment.

I have seen an affectation of benevolence covering the lowest cunning and darkest intrigue; yea, verily, a wolf in sheep's clothing.

I have seen a little animal so inflated with pride, as to be almost full to bursting. It resembled a man, too!

I have seen men put on airs of war and blood shed, who would almost run from a lizard.

I have seen men who were "all things unto all men," and I have seen all men suspicious of them.

I have seen men strive to exalt one who they knew to be unworthy, merely for the purpose of depressing a rival.

I have seen enough of this wicked world, its acting and doing, to cause me to exclaim, in the language of the black man, "white folk very unsartain."

New Leather, BUT OLD WORKMEN!

BENEDEK DICKSON again presents his compliments to old customers and new friends, and to all others who want shoes; and respectfully informs them, that he has just received, "all the way from Philadelphia, a supply of a good Leather as ever covered the soles of men in Salisbury; this leather he is prepared to make up into boots, shoes, shoes, pumps, &c. &c. in as handsome a style of workmanship, and on as low terms, as any shoemaker in North-Carolina. At the subscriber constantly works in his shop himself, and will keep none but the best of workmen, he can pledge good work to those who may favor him with their patronage. His shop is on Main street, opposite the Bank, with a big host before the door, as a sign. The public are invited to try the new leather; and if they are not then satisfied, why they can try another shop. K. DICKSON. Salisbury, July 20, 1824. '17

Tailoring Business.

In part of John Utman's house, situated in Market Street, a few doors from the East corner of the Court-House; where he is prepared and will be happy to accommodate any gentlemen who are disposed to patronize him in his line of business, in the neatest and most fashionable style, or to please fancy. He flatters himself, from his long experience, that there are but few, if any, in the country, that can surpass him in the execution of his work. A fair trial is all he asks, to prove the above assertion. The changes of fashion shall be strictly attended to, as he has left a correspondent in the District of Columbia, (where he is at present) who will send him the fashions on, in their regular seasons. He hopes by strict attention to business, to receive a liberal share of public patronage, as he is determined nothing shall be left undone to render general satisfaction. Salisbury, May 5, 1824. 206

Those that may please to call on the subscriber, no doubt will be as well pleased as in any other shop in the town of Salisbury. Also, cutting and repairing will be duly attended to. N. B. Ladies pelices can be cut, or made, in the neatest fashion, at the subscriber's shop, opposite the State Bank, in Salisbury. SAMUEL PRICE.
