Gen. M'Clure, the author of the Bachelor tax hill in the New-York legislature, has capitulated to the Bachelors,-ov, in common parlance, has published a reconstrien, and promises to let the subject rest in the legislature, provided the nchelors will cease their denunciations of him. and discontinue their correspondence with him on the schiect, or pay the pastage on their letters. That the gallant general has cause of complaint on the last score, may readily be inferred from the fact, that four hundred letters were mailed at the post-office in the city of New-York in one day, directed to him at Albany :- the postage on which, at 124 cents each, (the rate between those two cities) amounts to fifty dellars ! Fifty dollars a day, for postage !! Most emphatically, then, does the general complain, that this " is a serious draw-back on his per diem sllowance" as a member of the Assembly. He will doubtless hereafter be cautious of disturbing the hachelors; for he might as well have run his head into a hornet's nest.

From the Washington papers, it appears that a challenge has passed between Gen. Saunders, of this State, and Mr. Wright, of Ohio, both of the House of Representatives. On the same day, Mr. S. addressed him a note by Mr. Archer of Va. wishing to know if Mr. Wright held himself personally responsible for such expressions used by him. as he (Mr. S.) might deem of an offensive character. In the reply of Mr. Wrights which was quite laconic, not three lines in length, he informs Mr. S. that his note is of a character that requires no answer. Mr. Saunders immediately transmitted a challenge to the gentleman from Ohio; but Mr. Wright in an epistle of four lines, informs Mr. S. that the very rude note. he thought proper to send him the day preceding, altogether forbids his giving him the desired interview; and thus the

A few weeks since, a meeting of the stock-holders was held; from which, it appears that the most active measures have been used by the officers, since they stopped specie payments, to collect their debts and discharge demands against the institution. The Bank has redeemed upwards of $80,000 since it stopped pay ment. The Bank has a large debt due next month, payable in Specie, which will enable them to redeem $70,000 more of its notes.
