POETRY.

NOVEMBER.

Once on a time, to forest wild;
Borne from public view,
An aged sire his favorite child
In infancy withdrew.

That, peaceful and secluded thence,
Amid the silent grove,
The boy might shun each female stare,
And never learn to love.
But soon is years had rolled away,
And fancy's power began,
Impatient of paternal sway,
He sought the haunts of man.
The youth beheld the varying scene,
In joy and wonder lost:
But man's soft attractive mien Be guided his eye the most.
"What beauties form is this?" he cried;
"That looks so heavenly sweet!"
"A bird, my son," the sire replied,
"Unknown in our retreat."
"Oh! would it," said the youth, "but flee
To our sequestered cell:
And there is solitude with me
For evermore would dwell!
Together through the woods we'd stray,
And build the self-same nest;
I'd woo it all the live-long day,
And clasp it to my breast!"

FROM MRS. COLVIN'S MESSENGER.

DREAMS.

O! life is like our morning dreams,
One little hour of bliss,
Where each bright passing moment seems
All fraught with happiness:
And when the light which Phœbus throws, Breaks the soft spell of our repose,
We vainly strive with closed eyes
To grasp their fading phantasies.
So have my youthful prospects been Too fanciful to last—
And pleasures now but dimly seen,
Are shadows of the past:
Tho' all my hopes so bright! so fair!
Like these dreams dissolved in air,
Still, still my waking spirit clings
To mem'ry of departed things.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Magnolia.—Near Fish Creek, in Virginia, ten or twelve miles from the Ohio, there is a grove of the lolly magnolia, and in the season of flowering they fill the wilderness with delicious fragrance for several miles around. The leaves are more than three feet in length, and of proportionate width. There are no other trees of this kind within 500 miles. It has been stated that the flowers of the magnolia in Florida, have been smelt at the distance of sixty miles.

Trees.—The American Quarterly

Review says, trees may be dug up, their branches be cut off, and the ends of branches remaining be placed in the earth, with the roots in the air; yet in a short time what were lately roots will begin to bud, and eventually be covered with leaves, while the branches set in the earth will gradually send forth radicles, and ultimately assume the offices of roots. A gentleman of Philadelphia caused a row of willows to be thus interred, and the trees soon resumed their ordinary appearance.

Deafness.—It is observable, that deaf persons, and several others thick of hearing, bear better and more easily, if a loud noise be raised at the time when you speak to them; which is owing, no doubt, to the greater tension of the ear-drum on such occasion.

Dr. Wills mentions a deaf woman, who, if a drum were beat in the room,

could hear any thing very clearly; so that her husband hired a drummer for a servant, that by this means he might hold conversation with his wife. The same author mentions another, who living near a steeple, could always hear very well if there was a ringing of three or four bells.

Converted Jews.—A correspondent of the London (English) Jews' Society states, that in Berlin, Prussia, in the year ending Feb. 1826, above one hundred persons of the Jewish persuasion had renounced Judaism, and professed Christianity.
