On the night of the 11th ult. one of the city watchmen having rather rudely obtruded himself into the house of a peaceable citizen of the Northern Liberties of the city of Philadelphia, and high words and a scuffle ensuing, the watchman sprang his rattle which assembled all the other watchmen in the neighborhood, and the friends of the citizen having also assembled, a scene of riot and blood ensued, such as was never before witnessed in that city of brotherly love!

From our correspondent who obligingly favored us with the state of the poll in Rutherford, we learn that James Graham, Esq. one of the members elect from that county, repeatedly declined offering for the situation; but his friends, not content to be deprived of his services in the legislature, resolved, on Monday preceding the election, in despite of his refusal, to vote for him.

We committed a typographical error in giving the state of the poll for Stokes county; the number of votes received by Mr. Shober, for the Senate, was 549, instead of 649.
