

POETRY.

THE RETROSPECT.

Days of my youth! ye have glided away:
Hairs of my youth! ye are frosted and gray:
Eyes of my youth! your keen sight is no more;

HAPPINESS.

I have drunk the cup of happiness
Till pleasure's fount was dry:
The streams of joy soon waste themselves:
Its springs our search defy.

I have drunk the cup of bitterness,
And still it overflows:
In broken hearts the spring is found,
Eternal spring of woes!

Now let me taste another cup,
Oblivion's blessed draught!
Ah! 'tis like that of Tantalus,
Forbidden to be quaff'd!

THE THREE DOTTED STATEMAN.

ST. IVES.

How well I believe the brightness of our lives had been bright,
Before the rain had opened half its petals to the dew.

How well I believe the brightness of our lives had been bright,
Before the rain had opened half its petals to the dew.

How well I believe the brightness of our lives had been bright,
Before the rain had opened half its petals to the dew.

Mr. Editor: Lovers often quarrel:
This is a lamentable fact. I have never seen a song adapted to such an occasion.

SONG.

Tune—"Auld Lang Syne."

Think not of wounded feeling, love!
Nor doubt my faithful heart,
For think but time shall always prove
I fact a lover's part.

In every tender glance, or kiss,
In every pulse that beats,
In all my acts of playfulness,
My heart its tale repeats.

Then think not of thy broken rest,
But let my actions prove
I hold thee sacred in my breast,
And only claim thy love.

TO THE DOCTORS.

Ye doctors, I tell you, to us, (and tis true,)
The women prefer more important than you:
For without them to live, any man I defy,
But without your advice, we can all of us die.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Selling a Wife by Auction.—One of those scenes deservedly recorded as a reproach even to a barbarous age, but doubly disgraceful, whatever the alleged misconduct, in a country with the slightest pretension to civilization, took place a few days since, in the market place of Hinton, England, where the town crier having previously give public notice, a wretch in human shape, of the name of Henry Broom, of the parish of Buckerell, after enumerating her various qualifications, in the language and style of a jockey, put his wife up at auction.

Invention.—A model of an ingenious machine for making horse shoes, invented by Mr. Robert E. Hobart, of this place, has been deposited in this office for the inspection of the public.

Arabian Method of building Arches.

At Bassorah, the inhabitants of which have no timber but the wood of the date tree, which is not thicker than a cabbage stalk, they make arches without the help of any frame-work. The mason, with a nail and bit of string, describes a semi-circle on the ground; lays his bricks, fastened together with a gypsum cement, on the lines thus traced; and, having thus formed his arch, except the crown brick, it is carefully raised, and in two parts, placed upon the walls. They proceed thus till the whole arch is finished. This part is only half a brick thick, but it serves them to turn a stronger arch upon.

They who are easily flattered are always easily cheated. Silence is the best remedy for anger. If you say nothing, you will have nothing to unsay.

When I see a man suffer a simple wife to run into debt at a store for whatever she fancies, I guess he will soon wish he had never been married.

When I pass by a house, and see the yard covered with stumps, old hoops, and broken earthen, I guess the man is a horse jockey, and the woman's a spinner of street-yarn.

When I pass a house and see the windows broken, a bundle of rags in one end, and a hat in another, I guess the mistress is a slut, and the master loves rum.

Vegetable Food.—A little work entitled Beta Depicta, has just appeared from the pen of Mr. Newby. Its author advocates cultivation of subterranean roots for vegetable food, and states, that they furnish more animal subsistence than those above ground.

Mixture for Silvering Looking-glasses.—Two parts of mercury are to be dissolved with three of lead, and the mixture then poured upon glass, which has been previously polished and heated. This composition is found to adhere to the glass with great firmness, and to cast a very pure reflection.

Capt. Doane, of the revenue schooner Marion, has favoured us with a sample of the Extract of Logwood, which is now prepared in larger quantities on different parts of the coast of Honduras and Yucatan. It is a new article; is used in dyeing, painting, writing, marking, and as a Medicine.

Frangibility of Copper.—M. Cagniard Delatour has recently reported to the Academy of Sciences at Paris, a series of observations made by him on copper and brass wire, which he has found, after an exposure to the open air for some days, (but more particularly in damp weather) to break readily if bent at a sharp angle, so much so, that its state of frangibility prevented him from twisting it round the pins of a piano forte, after having made the above experiment.

A correspondent of the Baltimore Gazette states it as his opinion, that the disease known in the South by the name of Dengue, although a rare is not a new one. That Dr. Rush, in describing the peculiar remitting fever that appeared in the city of Philadelphia in the summer and autumn of 1780, lays down among its symptoms all that distinguishes the Dengue.

A London hatter advertises having invented a porous hat, to remedy complaints made against water proof hats, of preventing the escape of perspiration and causing head ache. The inventor had better cut a hole in his shoe to let the water out,

Singular effects of Lightning.

The Ship New York, on a late voyage from New-York to London, encountered a severe storm of thunder and lightning.

There was a passenger on board, very old and very corpulent, whose legs were so paralyzed, that for three years he had not walked half a mile, and who, since his embarkation, had not been able to stand.

After the discharge of the lightning, which passed close to the place where this poor cripple was lying, every body was astonished to see him rise, pace up and down the deck, and walk about for a long time, as if nothing had ever ailed him. At first his head was a little affected, but that soon went off, while the benefit which he had experienced in his limbs remained.

Promenade at Washington.....The terrace extending around the west front of the Capitol, is now the resort of the fashionable for an evening promenade. In a moonlight evening the scene presented view is said to be beautiful. The rich woodland prospect in the distance, and the giant proportions of the Capitol at hand, under the silver light of the moon, from a picture chastened beauty that would chain the admirers of nature and art, even if a delightful breeze did not almost invariably add coolness and fragrance to the Promenade.

On the 22d of March, last, the Rev. Dr. Scott read to the Wernerian Society of Natural History, in Edinburgh, a paper on the great fish that swallowed up Jonah, and, after three days and nights, cast him out on dry land. The object of the reverend gentleman was to show that it could not be a whale, as often supposed, but was probably a Squalus Carchuias, or white shark.

Dr. P——, an Irish rector, and in person very ordinary, having a neat parsonage-house, very curiously furnished, was one day shewing it to Dr. Berkley, bishop of Cloyne; "Well, my lord," says the doctor, after they returned to the dining-parlour, "you see what a nice marriage-trap I have got here."—"Why, yes, doctor," says the bishop, "I see you have; but I am afraid you will not find a lady that will relish the bait."

A French emigrant, having been but a short time in England, was invited to partake of a bowl of punch—a liquor he had never tasted before, and which not at all agreed with him. Speaking of his entertainment next day, but forgetting the name of the beverage, he asked, "Vat de calls that liquor dat be all contradiction; where is de brandy to make it sour?" "Punch, I suppose you mean." "Aye, punch, (said Monsieur,) it almost punches out my brains last night."

A sad mistake.—A young man entered a wine shop, in the Place de Greve, and asked for a glass of white wine. In serving him, the wine dealer gave him by mistake, a glass of spirits of wine, which he took at a draught, and fell down dead immediately.

A bull.—I desired my men one morning to form two deep; an Irish lad immediately replied, "Oh then, your honor, we are too deep already," alluding to the great depth of the mud in the roads, which was sometimes up to their hips.

A Jacob Whip of Maryland, advertises his wife, Betsey Stonebraker, as having run away. Jacob says she has acted so four times without cause. She must have had enough of whip, that's all.

Canadian government.—We are informed, that Sir James Kempt, has been sworn in as administrator of the Government, and not as Governor.

Olympias, the mother of Alexander, said of a young man in the court of Macedon, who had married a beautiful woman, but of doubtful character, that he had indeed consulted his eyes, but not his ears.

A country apothecary has written over his door—"All sorts of drugs and drying stuffs sold here."
