

Salisbury: JULY 3, 1830.

We are authorized to announce Col. JOHN DAVIDSON, as a candidate to represent the county of Mecklenburg in the State Senate.

We are authorized to announce Mr. JAMES BEAN, as a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Iredell county.

When we look back into the calendar of former times, and find all the important events of ancient and modern occurrence, reflected in the luminous mirror of history, we can then, with unwarped minds, and with the justice and equity of an impartial umpire, examine into the merits of party and political dissensions and decide upon them with wisdom and allowance.

In the existing state of affairs in this country; in the present contest between the members of the confederation, how does the case stand? Which party looks upon the causes, that gave rise to the dissensions which have shaken the very pillars of our national edifice, and almost undermined its foundation, with a mind untrammelled, and most open to the convictions of justice or the calls of humanity?

That which is in fact nothing but a high-wrought feeling of patriotism, is represented as the spirit of rebellion, which is spreading itself through the Southern States, whilst the deliberate, insulting tyranny of the North is loudly proclaimed as the germ of a new nation.

When the immediate cause of the division of the two parties in the Union, shall have ceased, and the jealousies between them give place to general and reciprocal good feeling, then, and not till then, will the South have the part she has acted in relation to the Union, represented without disparagement, and with the impartial and liberal expression of Justice, like when she reigned in the Golden Age of the poet.

It will be recollected, we published some time since, a communication made to us, one tenus, that Mr. Wilson, in a moment of mental alienation, had hung his wife to a sapling, and had left her swinging, dead, upon the tree.

The Charleston Mercury contains the proceedings of a numerous assembly of the citizens of that City, who convened for the purpose of making some preparations, to greet their distinguished Representatives in Congress, Messrs. Linn and Clayton, on their return home.

Party excitement.—That turbulent feeling is spreading itself among a certain class of people in New York, that are operated upon by designing and declamatory men, who seek to stir up a commotion, by persuading a portion of the population, that they have been disfranchised.

The Editor of the Courier & Enquirer has charged the Southern states with fostering a rebellious spirit—what has he to say for the character of his own state? Admit the fact, for the sake of argument, that the feelings of the Southern community have been aroused, and that their sentiments were disloyal and threatening in their aspect, but is there any analogy of causes which have produced these turbulent feelings to the North and South?

Now how does the case stand with the State of New York? Have her citizens any just cause of complaint? Have they been oppressed by the unjust tendency of partial legislation? Or is it an innate predisposition, in her citizens, to rebel against the well regulated order of society, and the over due distribution of justice?

Can the Editor of the Courier & Enquirer, dive into the secret causes of the Anti-Free-Masonry spirit, and unfold them to us? Will he tell us wherein that good and orderly society of masons have interfered with, or violated the social compact, or made inroads upon the political immunities of the people?

We, or the former Editor of this paper have been chided with considerable acrimony, for a misdirection, and sometimes a failure to send papers to subscribers. We must request, in such cases, that information be lodged with us, setting forth the character of the complaint, and we will not fail to have all mistakes corrected.

We, really, feel grateful to our friends, at home, as well as abroad, for the lively interest they take in our success. We mean well and we shall try to do well—should we therefore, in our zeal for the cause of constitutional liberty, utter a harsh epithet, or give offense to those, who are opposed to us in principle, we can say, once for all, that it will be undesignedly done.

Melancholy casualty.—Mr. JOHN DAVIS, a young man, aged about 24, much esteemed by his acquaintances, was killed in Davidson county, on the 11th inst. by the upsetting of a cart while driving from Widow Hanes' mill to Mr. Wm. G. Beard's. The oxen were going at a moderate rate, down a hill; when, by one wheel striking a stump, the cart was turned over; and the railing of the body striking the young man on the head, he was almost instantaneously killed.

(COMMUNICATED) FOR THE WESTERN CAROLINIANS. President JACKSON against Internal Improvement. Messrs. Editors: As one of the tax-paying people, I am rejoiced to see that President Jackson has put his veto on the bill appropriating $150,000 of the public money, to make a road from Lexington, in Kentucky, to Maysville in the same state; that is, he has refused to sign the bill.

I am pleased, Mr. Editors, to see, at the start of your editorial career, that you have come out so manfully against this fearful subject of internal, I had almost said, Infernal Improvements. It is a good beginning, and promises well for you are for the rights of the people I see, and as long as you continue so, the people will encourage you.

The Southern Times announces the death of the Honorable Judge Nott, President of the Court of Appeals of South Carolina. Judge Nott's great legal reputation and high personal standing in society will make his departure, from among his fellow citizens and friends, a great public and private bereavement.

Since we published the information, we received from Mr. Wm. B. Wilson, that he had produced twenty two stalks from one grain of wheat, one head of which contained one hundred grains, &c. one of our patrons from the country of high respectability, Mr. Johnston, informed us, that he had produced on his farm, one hundred and twenty heads of wheat from one grain, each head containing about eighty grains, well filled.

NEWSPAPER ACCOUNTS, &c. Having disposed of the establishment of the Western Carolinian, and being desirous of entering upon public duties abroad, as soon as practicable,—the undersigned requests all who are indebted to him for Newspapers, Advertisements, &c. to make payment as soon as possible.

James B. Gardner.—We find in the last Telegraph, a very able and spirited appeal to the public, by James B. Gardner, who was nominated to the Senate as Register of the Land Office at Tiffin, Ohio, and was rejected. He charges his rejection upon Jacob Burnet, a Senator from that State, who, he says, introduced his name in an unwarrantable manner.

I refrain from that language, which conscious injury, inflicted in the most covert manner, dictates. My only object is to bring my accuser before my fellow-citizens and his constituents. I therefore call on you, Jacob Burnet, to repeat before the people of Ohio and the United States the charges and specifications you made against me in the Senate. This, as an honorable man, you cannot refuse. If they are true, you can prove them to be so. You will then stand before your constituents in the attitude of one who dares to encounter the responsibility of doing his duty.

We don't know how Judge Burnet will avoid answering such a direct appeal. If he does not substantiate his secret charges, we will be confirmed in the belief, we already entertain, that his rejection was a part of that system of proscription, which marked the course of some of our Senators against those who were so unfortunate as to be editors.

From the N. Y. Courier and Enquirer. FEDERALISM ILLUSTRATED. Mr. Webster, who gives the tone to the National Republican party, has declared the old Federal party defunct: dead and buried. It is true, there is a party holding precisely the same doctrines; acting on precisely the same principles; and consisting of precisely the same persons—but still it is not the Federal party.

A certain John Smith detected in various acts of swindling, deception and roguery, ran away, and passed under the name of John Brown, at the same time causing a report to be circulated that John Smith had died. He was, however, afterwards recognized, and arraigned for his offences, when he denied his name most stoutly, and insisted that John Smith was dead and buried and that he was John Brown.

Died, on the 22nd inst. aged upwards of thirty years, at his father's residence, in Iredell county, of an affection of the liver, Mr. David Dunlap, Post Master at Bethany Church, and for a number of years a member of the Presbyterian Church in that neighborhood. During an illness of four weeks, which he sustained with christian submission, he gave very satisfactory evidence that the formation of his eternal hope was Christ, the Rock of ages, whom he found supporting him in the prospect of dissolution and enabling him, not only, to acquiesce in the Divine will, but also to desire his departure and to be with his Redeemer.
