

POETRY.

POETRY'S ADVICE TO HIS SON.

Give thy thoughts no tongue, Nor any unproportion'd thought his act. Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar. The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried, Grasp them to thee, to soul with hooks of steel; But do not fill thy palm with entertainment. Of each white feather, unfledged comrade. Be Of entrance to a quarrel, but, being in, Bear it that the opposer may beware of thee. Give every man thine ear, but few thy voice: Take each man's censure but reserve thy judgment. Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy, But not express'd in fancy; rich, not gaudy: For the apparel of proclaims the man; [ions And they in France, of the best rank and state, Are most select and generous chief in. Neither a borrower, nor a lender be: [that, For loan of losses both itself and friend; And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry. This above all,—To thine own self be true: And it must follow, as the night the day, Thou canst not then be false to any man. Farewell; my blessing season this in thee!
