A New Coat .- Give me a new coat ays au old proverb, and I will give you a friend for each of its stitches. So great is the influence that dress has with the larger portion of mankind, that one with a new coat on, shall be recognised by many of his acquaintances, who would not deign to acknowledge him in an old one, In Pope's time, worth made the man ; in our day it is the tallor that makes him. A spend-thrift with not a cent in his pocket, but with a dashy dress, will pass for a man of consequence, while the economical rich man, with a thread bare coat, will be hustled among the crowd as an useless piece of furniture.

VARIETY.

Fatal Marriage .- A melancholy instance of an unfortunate marriage, was developed on the trial of Murray, the person tried for participating in the bank robbery. A most interesting looking female, aged about 18 years, possessing a finely formed counten. ance, clear complexion, dark brown hair, and in a very delicate situation, was examined as a witness. It seems the young lady resided with her mother, who keeps a respectable tavern and boarding house in Philadelphia. Some time last winter a young fellow named Simpson, commenced visiting, and subsequently boarding, at her mother's house, and there insinuated himself into the girl's affections. At the same time, Murray was accustomed sons appeared to have a great plenty of money, the young woman imagin ing that her visions of happiness would all be realized, consented to a private marriage, and an elopement to this city in January, where she was placed in Murray's house, and soon became acquainted, through her husband and Murray, with Smith's family. In the month of February Simpson was arrested, convicted of picking a gentleman's pocket, and sent to the State Prison.

Thus has this interesting young woman, by a precititate marriage had her prospects of happiness destroyed, herself thrown into an association with depraved characters, and united in marriage with the inmate of a state Courier & Enquirer. prison, -

A Good Customer .- It is stated in a paper printed 'down east,' that a Mr. Salathiel Nickerson, of Barnstable, has had 14 children married by one clergyman, and has one more who is soon to give the minister mother with nothing on the table but much iob in that line.

Memorable saying of Kosciusko. -When this brave Pole arrived at Cracow, where the revolution comnenced, he made, to the little band f patriots under his command, the lowing heart-stirring speech.

"We are not strong enough in numpers to be victorious, but we are enugh to die with honor in defending our country."

Dr. Goldsmith having been requested by a woman to visit her husband who was melancholy, called upon the patient and told him he would send him some pills which he had no doubt would prove efficacious. He immediately went home, put ten guineas into a chip box and sent them to the sick man. The remedy had the desired effect.

A man who gives his children a habit of industry, provides for the better than by giving them a stock of money.

Of all wild beasts the most danger. ous is a slanderer : Of all tame ones a flatterer.

An Irish answer. "How old are you Pat ?"said a clerk of indictment at a late assizes in Ireland; "Faith, sir," replied Pat ' I believe 1 am pretty near as owld as ever I'll be,' and it good truth he was --- for he streached the hemp the day after.

A gentleman once said he should like to see a boat full or ladies adrift on the ocean, to see what course they would steer. A lady in the room rcplied .--- "that's easily told ; they would steer to the Isle of Man, to b sure."

"What will you be helped to sir ?" said a landlady at a coursery tavern. and milk.
