It is confidently believed, that the gentlemen named will take a deep interest in this work, which, by its completion will unlock the riches of the West, and regenerate a large section of North Carolina.

By at once securing the subscription of the State, the construction of the Road to the Yadkin and the two branches will be rendered certain.

The time for action has arrived; and will the people of the West and the Cape Fear forego the advantages offered to their acceptance! Let every man do what he can, and this work will go on.

WILLIAM W. GRAY'S

INVALUABLE OINTMENT, For Ulcers, Tumours, &c.

Can now be obtained of the patentee, at the office of the Raleigh Register.

Single Pot, 1 Dollar—One dozen, 9 dollars. WILLIAM W. GRAY. Raleigh, October 8, 1836.

The above Medicine is for sale in Salisbury at the Store of JOHN MURPHY.

For five or six years previous to the Spring of 1834, a Negro man of mine had been much afflicted with an ulcerated arm and hand, which rendered him almost useless.

The best medical treatment having failed to relieve the man, I placed him under the care of Mr. William W. Gray, in this place, who, with his Ointment, has effectually cured the case, although the Negro was frequently absent for weeks and months together.

WILLIAM BOYLAN. ANOTHER GREAT CURE! RALEIGH, September 21, 1836.

I am now 55 years of age—when in my 17th year, I received a wound on my left leg, which became ulcerated, and continued so until the first of March last.

After having been afflicted for a period of forty-one years, I now enjoy the benefit of a sound leg again.

LEWIS HOLLOWAY. 'To Debtors!' ALL those indebted to the Estate of the late Fielding Slater, either by note or otherwise, are requested to call and settle the same without delay.

The Weekly Messenger, A Religious, Literary, and Family Newspaper, published every Wednesday in Chambersburg, Penn., by B. S. SENNECK, Editor.

This paper has been in existence little more than 18 months; and from the regular increase of its subscription list, the pleasing hope is indulged, that it has realized the expectations of the Christian public.

The fourth page usually contains selected or original matter, especially appropriated to Ministers, Parents, the Ladies, Students, and Children, besides a Temperance and a Farmers' Department.

The profits of this paper are sacredly applied, by the Board of Missions, (under whose auspices it is published) to the cause of Domestic Missions.

Any person becoming responsible, or paying in advance for five subscribers, [80.] shall receive one copy gratis, or the amount of one copy in money.

Postmasters are authorized to forward money, (at our risk) for which a liberal per centage will be allowed.

For the Executive Committee of the Bd. of Missions, JOHN SMITH, Treasurer.

NOTICE.

I WILL attend in Salisbury every Saturday from 10 till 3 o'clock, at the Store of Thomas L. Cowan, for the purpose of settling Dr. Ashbel Smith's accounts.

JESSE KINCAID, Attorney. May 27, 1837.

The Hon. Robert F. Strange HAS been appointed by the Dialectic Society, to deliver the next Annual Address before the two Literary Societies of the University of N. Carolina.

May 13, 1837. The newspapers in North Carolina are requested to give the above 3 insertions.—Standard.

BUCKLEJOHN, JR. THIS truly noble, splendid and highly famed animal—who for power of muscle, symmetry and correctness of proportions and accuracy of admeasurement, sets the world at defiance; who has run twenty-two races (mostly 4 mile heats) and won over $5,000 in purses, besides by-bets, &c. &c., will continue to stand the present Spring and Fall seasons at the stable of the subscriber, in Staeburg, S. C., and be let to mares at FIFTY DOLLARS cash, or SIXTY DOLLARS payable 1st October, and one dollar to the groom in all cases.

His pedigree and performances having been so long and so often before the public it is not deemed necessary to give them here.

After the close of the present Spring and Fall Seasons, he will go to Augusta, Georgia, and his place here be supplied by the no less distinguished horse Bertrand, Jan.

Mares sent from a distance will be well fed and attended to, at from 3 1/4 to 3 3/4 cents per day, as may be directed, and Servants boarded gratis.—Every precaution used to prevent accidents or escapes. CYRUS MORSE. March 25th, 1837. 40

FRESH PATENT DRUGS AND MEDICINES.

JUST received, and for sale at THIS OFFICE, the following Invaluable Patent Drugs and Medicines, viz: MONTAGUE'S BALM; AN INDIAN CURE for TOOTH-ACHE.

THE established reputation and constantly increasing demand for this effectual remedy of pain and preservative of the Teeth, has induced the subscriber to offer it to the American Public.

Arrangements have been made to supply agents in all the principal cities and towns of the U. States, so as to place it within the reach of those suffering, and likely to suffer, with the most harassing of all aches, (tooth-ache.)

When applied according to directions given on the bottle, it has never failed to procure instant and permanent relief.—It also arrests the decay in defective teeth and relieves that soreness which so frequently renders a strong tooth useless.

The application and remedy are simple, innocent, and not unpleasant; and the large number of persons, in various sections of the country, that have already experienced such delightful and salutary benefits from the use of the Balm, are ready to bear (for the public good) their testimony to its unrivalled qualities.

It is an Indian remedy, obtained singularly and unexpectedly, and may be regarded by the civilized world as the most valuable discovery of the Red Man of the Woods.

PROSPECTUS OF THE SOUTHERN REVIEW.

To be published at Washington City, Quarterly, in an 8vo No. of 275 to 300 pages—Price Five Dollars per annum, payable in advance.

The place is chosen not only for its facilities of information, literary and political, but because it is that at which the Southern States can be united upon the undertaking with the greatest ease, and with the greatest freedom from State or party jealousies.

Of the matter, three fourths (say 225 pp.) shall consist of regular Reviews, making about nine of 25 pp. each. These, as to literary works at least, shall return, as a general rule, somewhat towards the older method, not almost forgotten, and give a regular abstract of the book reviewed, if it be of any merit.—In politics, and upon occasional subjects, there may be a greater liberty of deviating into mere discussion.

In this portion of the Review, there will be given in each No. a paper historical of the politics and general events of the day, to serve as a HISTORICAL RECORD. Its execution will always be committed to the strongest hands; and its purpose to give a unity and consistency to the public doctrines of the Review, such as can scarcely be so well effected in any other manner.

Occasional Addresses upon Reviews will also be embodied in this part of the plan, with a view of favouring, in a certain degree, the more curious student; or to revive the knowledge of important books, forgotten in the confusion of modern learning.

Writers will be left, of regular, purpose, to give their papers, whenever the subject will permit, the form of a series; in case, not only that they may thus afford a more complete body of information, but serve as a reprint, for popular circulation—a method that will much augment the reputation and the usefulness of the Review.

A body of MISCELLANEOUS—some 50 pages—will form the subordinate and ever amusing part of the Journal. Its contents will be somewhat various, but will, for the most part, consist of short LITERARY NOTICES; BIOGRAPHICAL ARTICLES; a critical list of New PUBLICATIONS, foreign and domestic; and general LITERARY INTELLIGENCE.

In communications, the most compressed mode of writing will be every where required. Papers in which the words do not bear a just proportion to the information conveyed, or to the effect intended, will be either rejected without scruple, or abridged without mercy.

To warrant this execution, the usual rate of compensation to writers will be advanced to 2 dollars per printed page—a price that will offer fair remuneration to talents and labor. For, in this sort of undertaking, we know that "adentis sudoribus paratis, etiam studia peritura."

Of this revival of a Review of the South, the purpose is to give once more to our readers—now eminently needing it—an Interpreter and Defender of the common Representative of our Institutions and of the mind itself amongst us. Such, in that great Congress of opinion, where the fates of civilized nations are now so largely settled, we do not possess; and we have already suffered much for it. It is time to make ourselves understood and respected there. The Journal which shall do this, must combine the general strength of all who, in the South, love their country, and are capable of doing it still actual service. It must then be not the champion or the propagandist of local opinions, but the friend of all that pursue the public good.

Into the vulgar methods of politics, debased by partisan rancor, or corrupted by the interest, or overcome by the passion of the hour, it must not fall. From the press of the Nullifier must receive no diminution, the fidelity of the Unionist no reproach. It must be no ragged ground to either party; nor serve but as a common field, where they will only contend, which shall most advance the cause of the South.

To vindicate, then, our peculiar institutions; to repel with argument, lest presently we be forced to repel with arms, all external interference with our domestic condition, against the will of our Citizens and Congress; to uphold a republican and federalist, as distinguished from a consolidating administration of the National affairs; from the disorders of the Central Government—where Reform is hopeless, and even useless, till you have given yourselves stronger and wiser local systems; to direct the public view towards a HOME POLICY OF THE STATES, capable, through itself, to confer upon our people those blessings of well ordered Liberty which we expect in vain from the Federal power; from the decisions of party politics abroad; to call home the attention of our people to those arts by which the wise and brave have often raised petty States into noble and prosperous Commonwealths; to attach men, if possible, to their birth place, and convert them from wandering and selfish adventurers into citizens, the lovers of civilization; to re-animate public spirit, and give it purpose, as well as energy; to hold, over parties and politicians, the tribunal of a public opinion far different from that idle and corrupt one of which the newspaper press is the voice; for these purposes, we give diffusion through the land to sound and well considered public doctrines, spreading with them knowledge and taste, their natural allies—such will be the constant effort of that literary league, among the best talents of the country, which has been set on foot in the present undertaking.

The foregoing prospectus was prepared before any definite arrangement had been made connecting the undersigned with the Southern Review as its Editor. It is adopted as expressing, with sufficient distinctness, the object, design, and plan of the work.

It is probable that the first number of the Review will be issued some time in the month of October next. If, however, the necessary arrangements can be completed, it will appear at an earlier day.

It is proposed to state that the Southern Review will not be published as a mere experiment upon public patronage. As the work is undertaken with any view to pecuniary profit, it is due to the proprietors that they incur no risk of pecuniary loss. The importance of such a work to the South is generally felt and acknowledged. Its principal reliance for support is on them, and it rests with them to say whether it shall ever be called into existence or not. The expenses attending the publication of it will necessarily be very heavy, requiring at least three thousand subscribers to secure the proprietors against serious loss. With less than that number it will not be commenced.

The undersigned has no other connexion with the work than as its Editor. All communications designed for him in that character, will be addressed, for the present, to Eastville, Northampton county, Virginia.—The duty of obtaining subscribers, and of maturing all arrangements preparatory to the publication, is devolved on others. Communications on such subjects will be made to WILLIAM W. MOORE & Co., of Washington City. A. P. UPSHUR.
