"MEGIN TET HEMAINS UNBUNG."

WOMAN'S SMILE! Oh! what a dreary waste would be This joyous world of ours, If happy hearts, the gray, the free, Had lost their witching powers: Or where's the charm, however bright, That could our souls beguile, With half so sweet, so soft a light, As that of Woman's smile !

Oh t life would be one joy less dream Of hopelessness and woe, If 'twere not for the suppy beam Of beanteons eyes below; And all earth's flowers, so fair, so sweet, Would flourish but awhile, If in return they could not meet The light of Woman's smile !

Then it our hopes of bliss depend On such bright forms of love, Which softly with our spirits blend Dear thoughts of bliss above; Who on this earth could love to rest, (E'en in this flowery isle,) If that existence be unblest With aught of Woman's smill!

THE BRIDE.

Oh! take her, but be faithful still, Aud may the bridal vow Be sacred held in after years And warmly breathed as now. Remember 'tis no common tie ... That binds her youthful heart: Tis one that truth slone should weave. And only death can part.

The joys of childhood's happy hour, The home of riper years, The treasur'd scenes of carly youth, In sunthing and in tears; The purest hopes her bosom knew, When her young heart was free, All these, and more, she now resigns, To brave the world with thee

Her lot in life is fixed with thine, Its good and ill to share, And well I know 'twill be her pride, To sooth each sorrow there; Then take her, and may fleeting time Make only joy's increase, and may your days glide sweetly on In happiness and peace.

SCRAPS.

Anecdote .- A worthy old clergyman of our acintance, one of the old school of which few reice now remain, used to relate the following with much glee. There was in his parish one C., by trade a carpenter, who had sequired much credit for ingenuity and no less for shrewdness and wit. C, was one day hewing timber, when the clergy-man accorded him. "Mr. C., you have become quito famous for your ingenuity; you have made every thing else, pray can you make me a " Very cathy, Mr. F.," replied other, scanning the parson carelessly, and raising his axe; joth put you feet on thith stick-you want the leatht afterin of any man I know of."

The Female Heart .- The strongest evidence that can be given of the superior fidelity of the fe-male heart over that of the other sex is given in a statistical table respecting the morals of Paris; wherein we find the following contrast! Husbands who have deserted their wines, 2,348 Wives who have deserted their husbands, - 1,132

Difference in favor of the females, . Microcosm.

Osteometer .- An ingenious machine, called the Osteometer, has been invented by Dr. Heine, of ately exclaimed, "Turn to the jury, sir." Wurtzburg, and exhibited in St. Petersburg, where it has met the approbation of scientific surgeons, and of the Emperor. It is intended for the purpose of setting bones which have been fractured or dislocated, an operation which it performs in a ve ry handsome manner, giving much less pain to the patient than the pulling and hanking, and twisting and jerking process which is in general use .- Boston Jour.

An Apt Illustration.—A person asking how it happened that many beautiful ladies took up with indifferent husbands, after many fine offers, was thus aptly answered by a mountain maid. " A young friend of hera requested her to go into a cane brake and get him the handsomest reed. She must get it at once goingkhrough without turning. She went, and coming out, brought him quite a mean reed. When he asked her if that was the handsomest she saw, "On! no!" she replied. "I hive, with what increased ardor do the bees ply saw many finer as I went along, but I kept on in themselves to reconstructing their cells and storehopes of one much better, until I got nearly through ing them afresh with delicious nectar. Not a soland then I was obliged to take up with any one I could get; and a crooked one at last."

Penelope, the spirit urgeth and moveth me wondrously to beseech thee to cleave unto me, and become flesh of my flesh, and bone of my bone.

" Hom ! truly, Otadiah, thou hast mid wisely, "Ham! truly, Otadish, thou hast said wisely. May not the desponding be instructed from the in-and inesmuch as it is written that it is not good for sect tribes, to forget their despair, and begin alresh, style and manner, not surpassed by any workman man to be alone, lo and behold, I will segourn with to lay a foundation for future use !- to lay it bet. thee -- ham!

Suspicious .- A servant girl whispered to a neighboring Abiguil, one night, "now mind, I don't say as how master drinks, but between you and I. the demijohn in the dark closet don't keep full all tics, except those that are engaged in from motives of revenge. Such duels are rare in medern times; for law has been found as efficacions for ship perpose as lead, though not so expeditions; and the located at Washington, and to be real tagering tortures inflicted by parchment, as tereible as the more sommary decisions of the pistol.

Meraculous Escapes.—It is said that Mr. Love-joy, of Georgia, one of the passengers saved in the

In all affairs of honor excepting those where the STEAMBOAT A. sole metive is revenge, it is curious that fear is the main ingredient; from four we accept a challenge, or from fear of a certain kind, we refuse it. Prom moral fear of gold. - Duelling is an evil that it will be extremely difficult to endicate, because it would require a society composed of such materials as are not to be found without admixture; a society, where all who are not christians, must at least be gentlemen; or if neither-philosophers."

Eloquent and True .- We have been struck with the force and truth of the following extract from the speech of Job R. Tylon, Esq. on the oppressive policy of our government towards the Ludians. "When we survey, in calm retrospection, the original condition of the natives of America, when we trace the history of their wrongs, and contemplate their present enfeabled state, we must feel mingled emotions of sorrow, shame, and indignation. The annals of mankind exhibit no similar instance of injuries so enormous, of atrocities so black and unavenged. In after times, when the Indian fate shall have been finally scaled, and their existence known to future uges only through the mpartial medium of authorite history-when it shall be fold that they were simple and unoflending-that their aggressors were enlightened by science, and encobled by Christianity-that they carried on a series of exterminating wars for near ly four centuries, killing, defrauding and dispossessing them—by what argument will the invaders plead their justification?"

Excellent .- The last case of abscence of mind is given in a Massachusetts paper, of a lady who dropped herself into the post office instead of a letter and did not discover her mistako until the clerk asked her whether she was single or double.

Nothing Personal .- At a recent vestry meeting in a metropolitan parish, a Mr. Bushy said to Mr. I mean nothing personal to my excellent friend, Mr,--; but it is my conscientious behef that he has plundered the parish ever since he was born, and is the greatest thief in the universe. I do not wish to be personal -but I must say, he is a villain, an infamous scoundrel, and a radical. I now speuk m my vestal capacity, and I think that every hand should have a 'whip to whip the rascal naked through the world,'

Little Feet.-It is said that Queen Victoria's eet are so diminutive, as to become the object of much envy, and universal admiration-the satin slippers which she were on a late occasion, are vouched to have been so very small, that it was considered quite impossible for any other lady present to put them on -Boston Journal.

Tate, a celebrated Quaker Lawyer, of Philadelpia. one day, "thee knows almost every thing; can thee tell me how I am to preserve my small beer in the back yard? my neighbors are aften tapping it of nights." Put a barrel of old Madeira by the side of it," replied the Doctor; let them get but a taste of the Madeira, and I'll engage they never will trouble thy small beer any more,

Rather Personal .- A witness was examined be fore a judge in case of slander, who required him to repeat the precise words spoken. The witness Jy by applying between this and our August Court hesitated until he rivetted the attention of the whole court upon him, then fixing his eyes earnestly on the judge, he began: "May it please your honor. you lie, and steal, and get your living by stealing The face of the Judge reddened, and he immedi-

Cure for the sting of a Wasp or Bee .- A Liverpool paper states as follows : "A few days ago happening to be in the country, we witnessed the efficacy of the remedy for the sting of a wasp mentioned in one of our late papers. A little boy was stong severely and was in great torture, until an onion was applied to the part affected; when the cure was instantaneous. This important and simple remedy cannot be too generally known and we pledge ourselves to the fact above stated, Another Gold Mine .- It is understood that gold mine has recently been discovered on the lands of Capt.
