

POETIC REVERIES
From the Southern Literary Messenger.
THE PILGRIM AND THE RUINS OF ROME.
BY JOHN C. McCREE.
Come and see,
The express, bear the owl, and plod your way O'er steps of broken fountains and temples, ye Whose agonies are still a day,
A world is at our feet, as fragrant as our clay.
Child Harold.
I am no longer now the artless child, Plucking wild flowers, singing by brook's side; Roving the wood when summer's sun is mild, Lights the red foliage with its dying rays, But to find monuments of old I stand!
And gaze around on columns thickly strown,
And touch time's relics with my trembling hand,
And then I gaze, thro' clouds, the pale cold moon, Land of departed greatness! in thy fate I read earth's history, and men's, and mine; Let the proud throne, where mighty Cæsar sat, Ignominy! and words with thy twine
The broken ring where gladiators fought;
And where a thousand voices rent the air,
When the poor victim of a hour sought His crown of leaves, - not e'en an echo's throat And 'twas for this I left my happy home, Where sunny smiles and pleasure-beaming eyes Would meet me, o'er this gloomy waste to roam!
For what? To boast of other lands and skies!
To tell, when years shall float this head, that I Have stood where mighty Cæsar stood; I have gazed Upon the wreck of columns, where the sky Once wildly glow'd when Rome's proud temples blazed.
To say I've looked upon the crumbling walls Of the great Colosseum; and have wept At midnight 'midst its ruins, when there falls Upon its cold grey stones the dew - and slept Unharm'd where bloody, cruel Nero dwelt;
And dream'd I heard the viol's thrilling string, And felt, the eels and slimy serpent flit, As gliding o'er he seem'd to crawl no sting!
That I have seen the lightning banners waving, And heard the wild artillery of the skies;
And the rude tempest's tempest proudly heaving, Have watch'd, till o'er the Vatican the dyes Of Heaven's rainbow spann'd the violet line;
And felt my bosom lighten'd of its load,
As God hung on his promised mercy's sign,
And 'round the ruined arch its colors glow'd, Like hope descending on a broken heart, Throwing its glories o'er desert sorrow, Till 'twas beautiful, and o'er the dirt That wounds, bears token of a Messias' morn;
That I have seen old Tiber's yellow waves, And heard their mournful droll at midnight, while The hoarse owl shriek'd o'er yon tower's green, And the pale stars would o'er the waters smile In sadness; and have caught the mournful sigh, Of winds through ruined, desolated halls,
And watch'd the meteor, with fear's upstart eye, As on some blasted monument 'twould fall.
Perchance I may, when e'er my wrinkled brow, Come the dim phantoms of my by-gone years;
And these sad relics which I look on now, Shall float along upon the aged tides - Perchance I may my children's children tell, That I, ambitious, sought to gain a name, By standing where earth's greatest masters fell,
And found, as nothing worth, the breath of fame.
Oh! Union grandeur! fleeting as the beam, That lights the vision of the poet's soul; Oh! Union glory! passing like the stream, Whose course-swiftness never breaks control.
A crumbling column, ivy overgrown - A tottering arch, where mimic ægean twine - A fallen temple and a ruined throne, A broken altar with a shivered shrine!
This is Earth's history! The hero's deed!
The warrior's triumph, and the end of fame!
The innovator's pride, the big o'er's creed,
The light of science, and delusion's flame!
I feel rebuk'd - an humbled worm I turn, Away from these monuments, and retire My steps, that while life's wasting lamp shall burn, Its rays may light me to my resting place.
Richmond, 1839.

A Good Parliament Man.—"I think," said a Gambler, "I should make a good parliament man, for I use their language. I received two bills the other day, with request for immediate payment; the one I ordered to be laid on the table—the other to be read that day six months!" Tea Water.—Hard water, by boiling, may be brought nearly to the state of soft. A piece of chalk put into spring water will soften it. When the steam from a tea-kettle appears cloudy, it should be taken off the fire, as the water is then fast boiling away. Keep the top of a kettle bright, as a polished surface keeps to the heat.
When we reflect that every mother has children of surprising genius, it is a matter of serious inquiry where all the ordinary men come from who cross our path in every day of life.
Women should be acquainted, that no beauty has any charms but the inward one of the mind, and that a gracefulness in the manners is much more engaging than that of their persons; that neatness and modesty are the true lasting ornaments; for she that has these, is qualified as she ought to be for the management of a family; for the educating her children, for an affection for her husband, and submitting to a prudent way of living.
These only are the charms that render women am-able, and give them the best title to our respect.

Heath Tract.
THE HEATH TRACT, containing six hundred Acres of Land, situated about six miles East of Lexington, Davidson Co., on the road leading from Lexington to Fayetteville is now offered for Sale.
There are about 100 acres improved, and 500 in Wood and Timber.
The Tract is located in a very HEALTHY REGION, and is peculiarly adapted to farming. It has on it a good Orchard, and a good Meadow. And millions of pounds of these advantages, the prospect for Gold, is unquestionable, as one or two GOLD VEINS,
have already been opened, and some very rich ore extracted from them.
The celebrated Concord Gold Mine, is situated a few hundred yards south of it; and according to the direction of the Veins of that Mine, they must necessarily pass through a part of this Tract.
Any person wishing to view the premises or get a more minute description, will call on Rigdon Washburn, in Lexington, who will give the desired information; or any person wishing to contract for the same, will call on Dr. Austin, Salisbury; or address a Letter to the Subscriber, Treaton Post Office, Jones Co., N. C.

The following is an extract from a forthcoming work of Dr. Peters, the discoverer of the celebrated "Vegetable Anti-Bilious Pills."
"Health, wealth, and enjoyment, are the three prime objects of life. The two former are only sought as a means to obtain the latter. Man seeks for wealth as a means of enjoyment. But vain is such pursuit without the possession of health. Without bodily vigor and strength, neither the physical nor the mental—neither the inner nor the outward man is capable of any achievement, whether of wealth or of enjoyment.— Mens sana in corpore sano—a sound mind in a sound body—is the sine qua non—the absolute requisite—for any efficient effort in the attainment of human ends.— The mind may be active, but if the body be feeble, then is the mind active to little purpose. Employment is not there; and the finest joys are rendered abortive by the shattered condition of our temperament of clay.
But say that a man could obtain wealth—that he could acquire the gold of Ophir, and bring home all the treasures of the mines of Golconda, yet without health, where would be his happiness? He would be miserable in the midst of his gold and his diamonds; he would pine away in wretchedness and despair; and he would exclaim with the wise man of old, 'All is vanity and vexation of spirit!' His limbs are racked with pain and he cannot rest; his appetite is gone, and he loses his food; his stomach is oppressed, with nausea, and his tires sickening away at the bonities of a magnificent Providence. He would give all he is worth—nay, all the world, if he had it—for the poor, but healthy man's appetite.
"Please give me," said a hungry wretch, to a wealthy, feeble man—"Please give me assistance to buy me a morsel of food; I am almost starved."
"I would give a thousand dollars for your appetite," said the rich man, as he looked the hungry one a dollar.
Of so much importance is health to the enjoyment of life!
By, wherefore, methinks I hear the reader ask, sub-serves this humbly on so plain and hackneyed a subject?
Do we not all know the value of health? Do we not all attend to it as one of the chief, if not the chiefest concerns of our mortal existence! Do we not employ the means to attain and preserve it! Do we not lay out our money—do we not use physic—do we not follow their advice—do we not swallow their prescriptions!
True—most true—gentle reader, that dost all things, we dare say, and more—Still we cannot believe our bosom to health to be altogether unnecessary. As in morals, so in physic it is requisite to have "due openness, and prevent upon prevent." Men in health know that they may be sick; and men in sickness do not all ways employ the most judicious means to attain health.
Very true, Doctor—men do not as you say, always pursue the right road to health. Now, I know of some people who are always dosing themselves with physic, and running to the doctors and apothecaries every day of their lives. They take, I verily believe, a cart load of drugs in a year, and yet they are not well after all.
Do you know the reason!
Why, yes, in my opinion, there are two reasons. In the first place, they take too much medicine, and in the second, they do not take the right kind. I used to make the same mistake. But lately—that is to say for two or three years past—I've hit upon a better plan. I take Dr. Peters' Vegetable Bilious Pills, and I derive more benefit from one dollar's worth of them, than I used to pay fifty in any former pursuit of herbs, besides saving a quantity of money and disgust in swallowing an enormous quantity of medicines. Do you know Dr. Peters!
Very well.
"And have you ever taken his medicine?"
"I have; I were a blockhead else."
"They tell me he is none of your quacks, who in-durate to them and regulate the human machine, without so much as knowing of what parts it consists, and how they are put together. They say he understands anatomy and physiology, I think you call them, and is as familiar with anatomy and chemistry as I am with the road to hell!"
You are right informed. Dr. Peters is no empiric.
He does not understand what he does not understand.
He was regularly bred to the healing art. He has spent years in the acquisition of knowledge; he has converted himself to the study of the human frame, and the diseases to which it is subject, and now he is applying his acquisitions to the relief of suffering humanity.
He does not put forth the absurd claim so often advanced by the inventors of patent nostrums—namely, that of curing all diseases with a single prescription; such a pretence he would deem about as difficult to swallow, as to take the mstrous of those who put it forth. There is no such medicine. There is not, and never was, a panacea for all diseases. The vegetable biliary pills pretend to no such miracle. But what is indefinitely better, they effect whatever they undertake.
They keep the word of promise to the stomach, and the praise we which they make to the ear and eye.
And that indeed is no slight recommendation. Nor are the complaints to which these Pills are adapted never not between. The disorders arising from a morbid state of the liver are, unfortunately, many, distressing and fatal. A large proportion of all the fevers, especially at the South and in the malarial districts, are owing to this cause, from the distressing grip and fever, which almost smother a tender life and limb, to the feverish "Yellow Jack," which seldom quits his victim without mauling soul and body as he leaves his leave.
Convertant from his previous practice with disease, in all its forms, which originates of the disorder of the liver, Dr. Peters was first led to employ his knowledge and experience in the preparation of a medicine which should prove efficacious in this large class of diseases, which should relieve the aching and dizzy head, and restore the unobscured and languishing stomach, at the same time that it prevented those morbid effects which are so apt to follow from their imprudent neglect.
For this purpose he prepared, with much care and a just adaptation to the purpose, the Vegetable Bilious Pills, which he is happy to say, from long experience and the abundant testimony of those who have employed them have answered, more than answered his most sanguine expectations.
It is not his own mere assertion that you are called upon to believe. It is not the mere dictum of any single man—though he was as great as Galen or Hippocrates—that you are to put your faith upon. Neither at things it is said in the sacred volume that "by the mouth of two or three witnesses shall all things be established"—are you to believe in so simple a number only! "A cloud of witnesses" is before you. They are too numerous to be easily overlooked; they are too intelligent to be carelessly heard; they are too respectable to be slightly regarded.
Behaving the spontaneous testimony of those whose experience is the best of all truth they assert. Dr.
Peters has taken together in the following pages, a few of the many hundreds of testimonials received from every quarter when his pills have come into use. They are left to speak for themselves. They are the words of those who "speak what they know, and testify what they have seen and experienced."
"Be careful and endeavor Peters' Vegetable Pills; they are sold in Salisbury by John Murray; in Lexington by J. T. Murray; and in Charlotte by A. Williams & Boyd, of whom they can be had at the N. York wholesale price.

PROSPECTUS
AMERICAN MUSEUM,
A Monthly Magazine, published with Steel Portraits.
ON the first of January, 1839, was commenced the second volume of the American Museum of Literature and the Arts. This Magazine is a depository of papers in the various departments of Literature, Science, and the Arts, calculated alike to instruct, profit and please the reader. As utility is the characteristic of the age, the Museum contains articles of solid interest upon Science, Literature, History, Biography, and Morals. Reviews and literary criticisms, so important in this publishing age, occupy a prominent place in the work. It also, contains short reviews of the entire works of distinguished American authors, accompanied by portraits engraved on steel.
The solidity of the work is relieved by lighter articles—such as graceful essays, interesting and amusing tales, criticisms upon the fine arts, legends, sketches of travel, literary and scientific intelligence, and poetry of a superior order.
The very favorable reception which the work has met from the press and the public, has justified the proprietors in making liberal arrangements for contributions to the second volume; and they have accordingly made large additions to their corps of regular contributors. In the January number will be found original papers from the following popular writers:

Snuff, Tobacco, Cigars,

Salisbury, Dec. 3, 1838. 4f

Look at This.
SUMMER will be coming before long, and your houses are not yet painted painted and are cheap, and labor costs almost nothing.
I thank the citizens of this place, and the surrounding country for the very liberal patronage they have heretofore bestowed on me, and by a strict attention to business, hope to merit a continuance of the same.
I will say to all who desire to have painting done, and may call on me, that it shall be executed in the most improved style, and that no pains shall be spared on my part to give satisfaction.
Any one wishing to have painting done, will always find me in Salisbury, unless necessarily absent on business.

To Owners of Mills.
THE Subscriber has an improved patent Spindle for Mills, by which a mill will do much better than with the usual form of Spindles. It is so constructed as to keep from heating or killing the meal in any manner. The runner is so confined by the Spindle as always to preserve its balance, and of course there is no rubbing of the stones.
I think, by this improved Spindle, the same water will do at least one-third more business, and the meal of superior quality.
Any person wishing to see one of these Spindles, may obtain one or more, by making application, (within a short time) to the Subscriber, at Mocksville, Davie Co., N. C. I think the probable cost will not exceed $50 for the Patent and Spindle ready for use.
Col. Wm. F. Kelly and Thos. Foster, in the vicinity of Mocksville, have recently tried the improved Spindle, and are highly pleased with it.

Fourth and last Call!
THE undersigned again appeals to those indebted to him on account of the Western Carolinian in any way, to come forward and pay. It is out of the question for him to wait or be put off any longer; his occupations are pressing; he has waited years, with a great patience, and further indulgence other than the law will allow, cannot be given, if settlement is not made in the present or ensuing month.
