SOUTH CAROLINA.

COLUMBIA, Dec. 15.

In the Ku Klux trial to-day the defence was engaged in proving by many witnesses the terror existing among the whites in the up country at the times of the alleged outrages. The testimony showed that Jim Williams, the negro Captain of the militia, had threatened to slay the whites from the cradle up and to apply the torch.

Will Bratton, colored, testified that he was Lieutenant in Williams' company and was reduced to ranks on account of his dissent from Williams' violent measures.

The defence asked for further time to bring witnesses to show that the Ku Klax was organized for self protection and had ceased to exist of itself.

After hearing rebutting evidence from the prosecution the Court adjourned. The argument will begin to morrow.

The Statesville American says: A colored girl, by the name of Amanda McKee, aged about 17, who resided near this place, was burned to death by her clothes taking fire, during the late cold spell. It is stated that while near a fire, she caught up in her arms a child, wirling round at the time, which caused her calico dress to come in contract with the flames. In her fright, she darted out of the door and ran at her speed until she fell dead, enveloped in flames

DIED:

In Rowan county, N. C., Dec. 6th, 1871, Mr. John Berger.

The deceased, in early life, connected himself with the Ev. Lutheran Church, and continued in exemplary membership with the same up to the time of his death. He attended, during his healthful days, the stated exercises of religious worship in the sanctuary, with great regularity and devoutness. As a member of the church, he was very exemplary in his christian deportment; as a citizen, honest and upright; as a neighbor, kind and obliging; and, as a husband and father, felt deeply interested in the happiness and religious prosperity of his family. In the church, the community, and the family circle, a vacancy has been created, which will long be felt. His lifeless remains now slumber quietly in the Cemetery of Salem Church.

To Southern Teachers and Parents

A CARD FROM GEN. GORDON.

My excuse for addressing you must be the great importance of the subject to which I would call attention—that of the proper education of our children, and the proper development of their self-respect and character.

I need not repeat any commonplaces in regard to the lasting effect of early impressions, the almost impossibility of diverting the mind from the bent given it in early years—all this you know as well as I. Nor need I say anything about the powerful silent influence, in this educational work, of the school books from which our children derive their views of right and wrong, and their knowledge of the facts, or misrepresentations, of history—for this, too, you know full well.

And when I say that having been, for long years, almost entirely dependent upon the North for our school books, we have been compelled to use many which were very distasteful to us, because we had no alternative, I only state that which every reader can substantiate.

Long before the war we felt the necessity for a change in this respect—the necessity for unobnoxious school books—for unsectional, unpolitical books—school books prepared by our own scholars, if that might be; and since the war this necessity has increased ten-fold. Individual efforts, of the most praiseworthy character have, from time to time, been made in this direction by Southern men, but not of a sufficiently comprehensive nature to accomplish the purpose in view.

To meet the want thus universally felt, several of our ripest scholars, and most successful teachers, united in preparing a Series of School Books unsurpassed by any others in excellence, beauty and cheapness.

Maury wrote Geographies and Astronomy.

Venable wrote Arithmetics Algebras, &c.

Holmes wrote History, Grammars and Readers.

Schele de Vere wrote French Books.

Gildersleeve wrote Latin Books.

Le Conte wrote Scientific Books.

Danton made Writing Books, &c., &c.

And the combined series is called the University Series of School Books; a series not only not objectionable to our people, but positively attractive to a degree heretofore entirely unknown. Our history, institutions and modes of thought here receive impartial treatment; and instead of being ignored, the interests of the South here receive equal representation.

Then as to intrinsic merit, who knows more about Geography than Maury, or of History and Grammar than Holmes, or of Mathematics than Venable, and so on through all the list? Each author is a master in his special department.

It is for this Series of books, so excellent, so acceptable, so cheap (they are the cheapest books published) that your favor is solicited.

The books of the University Series are presented directly upon their merits: you are not asked to use inferior books.

If these two questions can be answered affirmatively:—

Are these books equal to any in merit?

Are they as cheap as any?

Should they not receive your preference? What is more reasonable than that Southern Schools should be supplied with books written by Southern scholars, provided they are equally goods with those written by Northern men? Is it not better both for us, and for our children, that such books should be used?

Already the response which was inevitable, to this question, has come. More than 5,000 of our best Southern Schools are using these books; several Southern States have already adopted them for exclusive use in their public schools; County Boards in every Southern State are adopting them; and the best private schools are replacing books hitherto used, with them. The success of the "University Series" is unprecedented in the history of school book publishing, and it is destined to be yet greater.

Do the people of the South desire to rid themselves of obnoxious books and pernicious teachings? Can it be better done than by unanimously sustaining this first comprehensive educational enterprise of our own scholars, and by making the "University Series" the

UNIFORM SERIES IN EVERY SOUTHERN STATE.

(Including, of course, any other books having equal claim for consideration.) Our schools will then be supplied with books which they can long continue to use; pupils compelled to change their schools will no longer be retarded in their studies by a change of books, for all will use the same; and parents will be saved the expense of present constant changes, while they are relieved of all anxiety in regard to the character of the teachings under which their children are brought.

This subject, in all its bearings, is of the highest importance to us as a people, my countrymen. It is not a sectional movement, but a national and patriotic one. It is not a mere rivalry between different publishers, or I would not presume to ask your attention to it. It goes down deep into our dearest ingrests; it is the forming of the minds of your children and mine, which is at stake; the developing of their self-respect and character, which is to be the result.

It is an enterprise so important to us that our best citizens—our representative men in every State, to the number of 350 and more, the men we all honor and esteem—have put their money into the work, not to make profit out of it, although that is certain, but that abundant means should not be lacking to prosecute the enterprise on the largest scale.

Will the teachers and parents of the South unitedly sustain these authors, and these gentlemen, in the work thus described, by adopting and using these books to the exclusion of all not so acceptable? I do not doubt your answer.

If you desire further information in regard to the books, write to the University Publishing Company, 155 and 157 Crosby St., New York,—or 54 Lexington St., Baltimore,—or to me at Atlanta, Ga., and illustrated Catalogues, and other information, will be sent to you at once, without charge.

12:3t J. B. GORDON.

Such horrid feelings as I experience no one can imagine. I feel despondent, as though something awful was going to happen. Use Simmons' Liver Regulator, if you would avoid such feelings.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE GREAT PICTORIAL ANNUAL.

Hostetter's United States Almanac for 1872, for distribution, gratis, throughout the United States, and all civilized countries of the Western Hemisphere, will be published about the first of January, in the English, German, French Norwegian, Welsh, Swedish, Holland Bohenian and Spanish languages, and all who wish to understand the true philosophy of health should read and ponder the valuable suggestions it contains. In addition to an admirable medical treatise on the causes, prevention and cure of a great variety of diseases, it embraces a large amount of information interesting to the merchant, the mechanic, the miner, the farmer, the planter, the professional man; and the calculations have been made for such meridians and latitudes as are most suitable for a correct and comprehensive NATIONAL CALENDAR.

The nature, uses, and extraordinary sanitary effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the staple tonic and alternative of more than half the Christian world, are fully set forth in its pages, which are also interspersed with pictorial illustrations, valuable recipes for the house and farm, humorous anecdotes, and other instructive and amusing matter, original and selected. Among the Annuals to appear with the opening of the year, this will be one of the most useful, and may be had for the asking. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood. The Bitters are sold in every city, town and village, and are extensively used throughout the entire civilized world.

THE CAUSE AND CURE OF CONSUMPTION.

The primary cause of Consumption is derangement of the digestive organs. This derangement produces deficient nutrition and assimilation. By assimilation I mean that process by which the nutriment of the food is converted into blood, and thence into solids of the body. Persons with digestion thus impaired, having the slightest predisposition to pulmonary disease, or if they take cold, will be very liable to have Consumption of the Lungs in some of its forms; and I hold that it will be impossible to cure any case of Consumption without first restoring a good digestion and healthy assimilation. The very first thing to be done is to cleanse the stomach and bowels from all diseased mucus and slime, which is clogging these organs so that they cannot perform their functions, and then rouse up and restore the liver to a healthy action. For this purpose the surest and best remedy is Schenck's Mandrake Pills. These Pills clean the stomach and bowels of all the dead and morbid slime that is causing disease and decay in the whole system. They will clear out the liver of all diseased bile that has accumulated there, and rouse it up to a new and healthy action, by which natural and healthy bile is secreted.

The stomach, bowels, and liver thus cleansed by the use of Schenck's Mandrake Pills, but there remains in the stomach an excess of acid, the organ is torpid and the appetite poor. In the bowels the lacteals are weak, and require strength and support. It is in a condition like this that Schenck's Seaweed Tonic proves to be the most valuable remedy ever discovered. It is alkaline, and its use will neutralize all excess of acid, making the stomach sweet and fresh; it will give permanent tone to this important organ, and create a good hearty appetite, and prepare the system for the first process of a good digestion, and ultimately make good, healthy, living blood. After this preparatory treatment, what remains to cure most cases of Consumption is the free and persevering use of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup. The Pulmonic Syrup nourishes the system, purifies the blood, and is readily absorbed into the circulation, and thence distributed to the diseased lungs. There it ripens all morbid matters whether in the form of abscesses or tubercles, and then assists Nature to expel all the diseased matter, in the form of free expectoration, when once it ripens. It is then, by the great healing and purifying properties of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, that all ulcers and cavities are healed up sound, and my patient is cured.

The essential thing to be done in curing Consumption is to get up a good appetite and good digestion, so that the body will grow in flesh and get strong. If a person has disease of the lungs,—a scrofulous or abscess there,—the system cannot feed them after it cannot digest, so long as the system is fed wrong. What is necessary to relieve them is a good appetite, good digestion, and good nutrition, and the lungs will then heal themselves. Nature will do the rest. Many consumptives will go to the Country for a change of air, when all they need is to stay at home and take Schenck's Medicines, and be careful not to take cold; keep in-doors in cold and damp weather; get all the sunlight you can, and take out-door exercise only in a genial and warm state of the air.

I wish it distinctly understood that when I recommend a patient to be careful in regard to taking cold, while using my Medicines, I do so for a special reason. A man who has just partially recovered from the effects of a bad cold is far more liable to relapse than one who has been entirely cured; and this is precisely the same in regard to Consumption. So long as the lungs are not perfectly healed, just so long is the prominent danger of a fatal return of the disease. Here it is that I so strenuously caution pulmonary patients against exposing themselves to certain influences that are genial and pleasant. Confirmed consumptives' lungs are masses of sores, and the least change from pure to impure will flame. The grand secret of my success with my Medicines consists in my ability to subdue inflammation instead of provoking it, as many of the faculty do. An inflamed lung cannot with safety to the patient be exposed to the biting blasts of Winter or the chilling winds of Spring or autumn. It should be carefully shielded from all irritating influences. The utmost caution should be observed in this particular as will not for a moment admit of any circumstance to be imposed by.

The person should be kept on a wholesome and nutritious diet, and take Medicine continually until the body has restored to it the natural quantity of flesh and strength.

I was myself scared by this fearful monster of the worst kind of Consumption, and have lived to get fat and hearty, and seen many a relative die long ere he should. I have cured thousands since, and very many have been cured by this treatment both I have never seen.

About the first of October I expect to take possession of my new building at the Northeast Corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, where I shall be pleased to give advice to all who may require it.

Full directions accompany all my Remedies, so that a person in any part of the world can be readily cured by strict observance of the same.
