But the aged father did not mind, d his long gown floated out behind, down to the stream his way he took, a pale hands clasping a gilt edged book. 'i'm bound for heaven and when I'm there, ! shall want my book of Common Prayer, . . And though I put on a starry crown, I should feel quite lost without my gown." Then he fixed his eyes on the shining track, But his gown was heavy and held him back, And the poor old father tried in vain, A single step in the flood to gain. I saw him again on the other side,

Whether he belonged to "the Church" or not. Then down to the river a Quaker strayed; His dress of a sober hue was made; "My coat and hat must be all of grey, I cannot go any other way." But his silk gown floated on the tide, Then he buttoned his coat straight up to his

And no one asked in that blissful spot,

And steadily, solemnly waded in, And his broad brim hat he pulled down tight, Over his forehead, so cold and white, But a strong wind carried away his hat. A moment he silently sighed over that, And then, as he gazed on the farther shore, The coat slipped off and was seen no more. As he entered heaven his suit of grey, Went quietly sailing-away-away. And none of the angels questioned him, About the width of his beaver's brim,

Next came Dr. Watts with a bundle of Psalms, Tied nicely up in his aged arms, And hymns as many; a very wise thing That the people "all round" in heaven might

I thought that he heaved an anxious righ, As he saw the river ran broad and high, And looked rather surprised as one by one, The Psalms and Hymns in the wave went down.

After him with his MSS., Came Wesley the pattern of godliness, But he cried "Dear me what shall I do? The water has soaked them through and through."

And there on the river, far and wide, Away they went down the swollen tide, And the saint astonished, passed through alone, Without his manuscripts, up to the throne.

Then gravely walking, two saints by name, Down to the stream together came; But as they stopped at the river brink, I saw one saint from the other shrink, "Sprinkled or plunged, may I ask you friend, How you attained to life's great end?" "Thus with a few drops on my brow." "But I have been dipped as you'll see me now, And I really think it will hardly do. As I'm close communion to cross with you; You are bound, I know to the realms of bliss, But you must go that way, and I'll go this," Then straightway plunging with all his might, Away to the left-his friend to the right, Apart they went from this world of sin, But at last together they entered in.

And now when the river was rolling on A Presbyterian church went down; But the men I could count as they passed along, And concerning the road they could never

The old or the new way, which it could be, Nor ever a moment paused to think, That both could lead to the rivers brink; And a sound of murmuring long and loud, Came ever up from the moving crowd: "You're in the old way, and I'm in the new, That is the false, and this is the true;" Or "I'm in the old way, and you're in the new This is the false, and that is the true." But the brethren only seemed to speak, Modest the sisters walked, and meek. And if ever one of them chanced to say, What troubles she met on the way, How she longed to pass to the other side Nor feared to cross over swelling tide, A voice arose from the brethren then: "Let no one speak but the 'holy men,' For have you not heard the words of Paul? Oh, let the women keep silence all!"

I watched them long in my curious dream, Till they stood by the borders of the stream, Then, just as I thought, the two ways met, Buy all the brethren were talking yet, And would talk on, till the heaving tide Carried them over, side by side: Side by side for the way was one, The toilsome journey of life was done, And all who in Christ the Savior died Came out alike on the other side. No forms, nor crosses, nor books had they, No gowns of silk nor suits of grey, No creeds to guide them, nor MSS., For All had put on Christ's righteousness.

The New Year finds the LIGHTNING SAWS niversally acknowledged to lead the Amerian market. No manufacturer of Saws has dared to question or publicly test at the American Institute, or otherwise, the matter of superiority of the latest improved Saws. The $500 challenge for expenses of public contest is engraved on the saw. The large increase of the business has com-pelied lease of No. 80 Beekman street, and arangements for the manufacture of five thousand AGHTNING Cross cuts per mouth, and hope to be able to fill all orders promptly

The supply has been unequal to the demand of the LIGHTNING BUCK SAW, but hereafter 1 will endeavor to keep a stock on hand. The saie of seveal dozen of the above mentioned Saws causes belief that they are the best bindes in the market. All Lightning Saws are indelibly etched with my name, the Cross-Cuts with irections for filing using &c. Each Lightning 'aw will coil and touch ends of these regular goods; but, for the benefit of such unskilled men as can not set and use a thin saw, a guage heavier (than regular 11) will e inserted to order. Since enlargement of dust space, one year ago, no complaint of clogging has been received. The Lightning Saws are equally adapted for small and large timber, soft hard wood, but soft timber requires it to be set wider. Lightning Saws are all set and sharpened ready for use when sent out; are two guages thinner on back. New York, American Institute Fair Building, Nov. 4, 1871.
