

Carolina Watchman.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
J. J. BRUNER,
Editor and Proprietor.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION
ONE YEAR, payable in advance, $2.50
SIX MONTHS, " " " " 1.50
5 Copies to one address, " " " " 10.00

LANDRETH'S
WARRANTED
GARDEN SEEDS

FRESH
GARDEN SEEDS!
JUST RECEIVED AT

THEO. F. KLUTTZ & CO'S
Drug Store.

A fine assortment, including some desirable varieties. "Pigs do not grow of this size," nor can good vegetables be raised from inferior or old seeds. Appreciating this fact, we have spared no pains to procure only the best and most reliable seeds, which we can conscientiously commend to our customers.

We would call special attention to the German Wax Bean,

as a stringless and most desirable kind. The Triphly Tomato now surpasses all others in size and quality.

"Breeds King of Earlys," is now the Irish Potato, producing 400 bushels to the acre.

Call or send for a Garden Manual, make out your seed order, then buy of Kluttz & Co., and you will not be disappointed in the result.

THEO. F. KLUTTZ & CO.,
Druggists and Seed Dealers,
Salisbury, N. C.

P.S. We will pre-pay postage on all seeds ordered by mail. 20:11

Family Groceries.

JOHN A. HALL

In the Store-House of J. H. Verble, on Jones street, is selling a well assorted stock of Family Groceries, consisting of—

Coffee, Sugar, Teas, Molasses,
&c., &c.

SALT, RICE,
BACON, LARD,

Confectionaries, Vegetables, Fruits,
&c., &c.

At very low rates for cash and country produce. He invites all to call and examine his goods, which, though not as large in quantity as may be found elsewhere, are not inferior in quality, and will be sold low.

Feb. 28, '72. 24:3m

RICHMOND AND YORK RIVER RAILROAD.

Notice to Shippers and the Travelling Public.

TRI-WEEKLY LINE between Richmond, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, and Boston, and all points North and East, West and Northwest.

PASSENGER TRAIN

Leaves Richmond on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, at 3 P. M., connecting with the splendid Steamer

State of Virginia
CAPT. L. W. FREEMAN.

For the Above-Named Points, touching at the river landings, and arriving in Baltimore on the following morning in time to connect with trains North and West. Through tickets and baggage checked to all points.

STEAMER
Leaves Baltimore, Pier No. 90 Light Street, on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 4 P. M., arriving in Richmond at 11 o'clock the following morning.

Through Bills of Lading given to all Points.

FARE:
From Richmond to Baltimore, $ 4 00
From Richmond to Philadelphia, 7 50
From Richmond to New York, 10 50
From Richmond to Boston, all rail, 17 25
From Richmond to Boston, by Sound 14 75

WM. N. BRAGG, Supt.
REUBEN FOSTER, Gen'l Agt.
No. 90 Light Street, Baltimore.

J. L. TAYLOR, Ticket & Freight Agt.,
Richmond, Va.

N. H. HOTCHKISS, Travelling Agt.,
26:3m.]

Land Deeds, Trustee Deeds
Commissioner's Deeds, Sheriff's Deeds, Chattle Mortgages, &c.
For Sale at this office

RIBBONS, MILLINERY & STRAY GOODS.

1872

White Goods, Embroideries, &c.

ARMSTRONG, CATOR & CO

IMPORTERS, MANUFACTURERS & JOBBERS.

BONNET, TRIMMING, NECK AND SASH RIBBONS.

VELVET RIBBONS, NECK TIES,
Bonnet Silks, Satins, Velvets and Crapes,
Flowers, Feathers, Ornaments, Frames, &c.

STRAW BONNETS AND LADIES AND CHILDREN'S HATS, TRIMMED AND UNTRIMMED.
And in connecting Warehouses

WHITE GOODS, LINENS, EMBROIDERIES,
LACES, NETS,
COLLARS, SETTS, HANDKERCHIEFS,
VEILING, HEAD NETS,
&c., &c.

No. 237 and 239 Baltimore street,
Baltimore, Md.

These Goods are manufactured by us or bought for Cash directly from the European and American Manufacturers, embracing all the latest novelties, unequalled in variety and cheapness in any market.

Orders filled with care, promptness and despatch. 25:2m:p

Clover and Grass Seeds!

FRESH, and at lowest prices,
At THEO. F. KLUTTZ & CO'S
Drug Store.

R. W. PRICE. T. J. PRICE.

PRICE & BRO.

Have Removed

THEIR

FAMILY GROCERY STORE

TO JENKIN'S CORNER,

Where they will continue to Sell Flour, Meal, Fresh Meats, Canned Lard, Butter, Eggs, Coffee, Teas, Sugar, Salt, Pickles, Molasses, &c., together with a large and varied stock of household and table necessities. Bring your country produce to

PRICE & BRO.
(17:11)

A. M. SULLIVAN. J. P. GOWAN.

NEW OPENING.

THE undersigned having associated themselves in business under the firm name of

A. M. SULLIVAN, CO.,

HAVE opened in R. J. Holmes' new building, next door to the Hardware Store, where they will be pleased to meet old and new friends. They have a magnificent room—the largest and best in town—and

A Large & Splendid

STOCK OF GOODS,

COMPRISING a general assortment. Hardware excepted, and will guarantee as good bargains as can be sold by any House in the South. They will deal heavily in Groceries and country Produce, buying and selling, and invite all who wish to buy or sell to call on them.

A. M. SULLIVAN & Co.
Jan. 24th, 1872. 19:11

MILLS & BOYDEN

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

GROCERS

And Commission Merchants,
SALISBURY, March 1st, 1872.

Keep constantly on hand a large and choice stock of GENERAL MERCHANDISE—comprising Dry Goods, Groceries, Wares, etc.—of which they would especially mention—

Sugar and Coffee, of all grades,

MOLASSES,
BACON,
LARD.

SOLE and Upper LEATHER,
SHOES & BOOTS,
HATS,
BONNETS,
PRINTS,

MACKREL,
SALMON, TROUT,
FLOUR and MEAL,
SOAP,

PEPPER and SPICES,
TOBACCO,
LIQUORS, of all kinds always on hand, of choice quality.

Special attention given to consignments and prompt returns made. 24:11

This is to Give Notice: That on the 1st day of April, A. D. 1872, a warrant in Bankruptcy was issued against the estate of C. W. Besant, of Jerusalem, in the County of Davis and State of North Carolina—who has been adjudged a bankrupt upon his own petition—that the payment of any debts, and the delivery of any property belonging to such bankrupt to him or for his use, and the transfer of any property by him, are forbidden by law. That a meeting of the creditors of said bankrupt, to prove their debts, and choose one or more Assignees of his estate, will be held at the Court House in Salisbury, N. C., before R. H. Broadfield, Esq., Register in Bankruptcy, at 10 o'clock, A. M., on the 26th day of April, A. D., 1872.

S. T. CARROW,
U. S. Marshal.

J. T. CUTHRELL,
Deputy U. S. Marshal and Messenger.

Cheap Chattle Mortgages,
and various other blanks for sale here.

MURPHY'S STORE.

ART. VIII.—ALAS: A SATIRE ON THE TIMES.

PREFACE I.

The following trenchant and powerful satire may, perhaps, be deemed too severe by some of our readers. If so, the impression will arise, as the personage, from detached parts or passages of it only, and not from the poem considered as a whole. Indeed, no human language or imagination could give more than a faint and feeble idea of the awful corruption of the times. In private life there is, we rejoice to believe, much that is virtuous and noble. But it is in public life? Can patriot or philanthropist contemplate the spectacle which this presents, without a feeling of unutterable loathing and indignation? Is not bribery and corruption, open and unadmitted, more prevalent than ever? Do they not still, abroad and at home, in the face of the world, raise their hideous heads in proud contempt of an execrated public opinion, which will to resent and rebuke the insult as it deserves to be resented and rebuked? In the words of our poet:

"If virtue lives, she shuns the public gaze,
In fear and sorrow spends the weary days,
With few to sympathize and none to praise."

The most disgusting feature of all is, that our own blessed country has been sunk in this mire of corruption, as in a continent of filth, by pretended patriots and philanthropists. No lash can be too severe for such creatures. Creatures! Nay, call them not creatures; they are only "creeping things," which are born of corruption only, and which can only live, and move, and creep, in corruption. As they were not created, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things," like themselves. The times of Joshua, indeed, did not more loudly call for the tremendous lash of satire than do these which we live. Nor, in our humble opinion, did he apply that lash with a more vigorous hand, or with a juster discrimination, than it is applied to the present, in the following satire. Alas! for the grand experiment in human nature, as the Constitution of the United States was called by its authors, that it should have fallen a prey to the harpies by whom the land has been devoured! Proceeding on the supposition that man is not a "divine" creature, but only born of corruption, so they can only breathe in an atmosphere of corruption, and breed "creeping things,"