ANOTHER CHANGE.

We have made several changes in our busi ness relations since the late war, and unless this changeable world becomes more stable, may make more when we think it will suit. The one we have to announce at present is the accession of Mr. J. J. STEWART as associate editor of the Watchman. This is an arrangement to which few, if any, will object, especially as there is work enough in the house to employ him and more beside, if it were well done. Mr. S. has had considerable newspaper experience, which is a great advantage to one who will have plen- set all the power they seek and no man's ty of newspaper work to do. ## THE STATE CANVASS.

As far as we have been able to learn, the State canvass is progressing admirably. The people feeling a great interest in the result are turning out in goodly numbers and our candidates are every where making a most favorable impression. If the signs are not astonishingly deceptive, Radicaliam roust die this year. The people have resolved upon it and they are preparing for the funeral and burial next August and next November. They are aroused and will dispose of the job for the State and the Union at the times named respectively.

A PITIFUL CONDITION.

It is a sad thing to pass through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitual condition is one of languor and debility. They complain of no specific disease; they suffer no positive pain; but they have no relish for any thing which affords mental or sensuous pleasure. In nine cases out of ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid stomach. Indigestion destroys the energy of both mind and body. When the waste of nature is not emplied by a due and regular assimilation of the food, every organ is starved, every function

Now, what does common sense suggest under these circumstances of depression? The system needs rousing and strengthening; not merely for an hour or two, to sink afterward into a more pitiable condition than ever (as it assuredly would do if an odinary alchoholic stimclant were resorted to, but radically and per-

How is this desirable object to be secomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century, is easily given.
