GONE WEST.

Mr. Greeley is making a tour of the Western States, and his speeches along the route where he is called out do him much credit.

We invite attention to extracts of them given in this issue. The following is the last specimen we have received. These pointed remarks were uttered at Indianapolis, Sept. 24.

Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees introduced Greeley to his audience here.

Greeley announced as the watchword of the present canvass, "reconciliation and purification." He said the country to-day was confronted with the deadly peril of corruption. A cancer is eating into her vitals, whereby the essence is purchased legislation, bribed public servants, and betrayal of the highest trusts.

A VIOLATION OF LAW.

Some of the sickly Radical shames come to us denouncing the deceptive circulars of the U. S. Treasury. These circulars are simply Radical electioneering documents, gotten up in order to deceive and mislead the people. They are as false and unreliable as the Grant party is corrupt and villainous. An attempt is made to make the people believe that Grant is paying off the public debt. But this is not true. Grant is not paying a dollar of it. But by reason of his incompetency there is less money appropriated for the purpose, according to the amount demanded and paid by the people, than was ever known or dreamed of before.

There will be nobody deceived, however, by these lying statements from the Treasury; but the manner of sending them out is not only an outrage, but a flagrant violation of law. No newspaper publisher is allowed to send out any circular, advertisement, hand-bill, or other matter in his paper, which is not a part of it. The law says he shall not do so, and heavy penalties are affixed for all violations thereof; yet the Radicals are openly setting this law at defiance, and distributing through the mails, wrapped up in their partisan sheets, the false electioneering circulars of the Treasury.

NOT THE ISSUES.

The Radicals are trying to make the people believe that if Greeley is elected, Sumner's Civil Rights Bill will become a law, and that we shall have social equality, and no mistake; that the white and the negro children will be forced into the same schools, &c., &c. Now, if there were a probability of this proving true, those negro-worshipping Radicals ought certainly to vote for Mr. Greeley, for they have been laboring this long time to bring about just this State of affairs. But they are lying and they know it when they say so. The party that supports Mr. Greeley are bitterly opposed to any such commingling of the two races; and if Mr. Greeley is elected the party that elects him will be in the ascendancy, and will be able to control this negro question. The party that will vote for Mr. Greeley is a white man's party—always has been, and always will be. So, there need be no uneasiness on this score.

But those lying misrepresentations of Grant's puppets are intended to deceive the credulous and ignorant. The attempt, however, is to no avail. It is begging the question. The negro is not in the issue. The issues of this Presidential campaign are of far more vital importance. The struggle is for Constitutional free government. This is the great question involved. Let no one be deceived. The government, as now administered, is despotic, dishonest, extravagant, and monstrously oppressive, and so it will continue to be, without a change.

Head not Radical lies; but vote for the man who is known to be honest, and who favors a restoration of friendly relations between the two sections of the country, who is in favor of shaking hands across the bloody chasm. The restoration of friendly relations between the two sections of the country will forever bury the negro question out of sight, and do more to secure peace and prosperity to the South than any other question involved in the present Presidential campaign. We must have confidence restored, amicable relations, friendly intercourse reestablished between the people of the North and South, before we can fully recover from the evil effects of the war, or get rid of the insolence and domination of the negro. All that is required is a better understanding—a more thorough acquaintance each with the other, and the principal sources of local and national troubles will be stopped. The election of Mr. Greeley will hasten, if it does not effect all that we desire. He is the champion of real peace and reconciliation, of honest government and civil liberty. Is not this enough?

CONCILIATORY SPEECH FROM HORACE GREELEY.

COLUMBIA, September 26.—Horace Greeley arrived here at 10 o'clock this morning. A large crowd of persons gathered at the depot. When the train arrived John G. Thompson introduced Mr. Greeley, who was received with cheers, and spoke about five minutes. He said, in substance, that more than seven years having passed since the close of the civil war, it seemed no more than reasonable that its attendant proscription and evil should cease. That there was no good reason why the American people should hate one another or should proscribe one another. Some said there was a part of the people who should not vote on account of their participation in the war. We deny that any should be proscribed because of the war. The opposition say this class are few. We say, sir, there are thousands of this class among the best citizens in Arkansas alone. General Sickles, seven years ago, wrote from South Carolina that the principle reason for the reconstruction was a failure was because men of property were proscribed and I allowed to vote, while the ignorant classes could vote away their property. Mr. Greeley continued, saying the time had fully come when all should say to these thousands who were against us, came forward and help us, free as we are, to rebuild the waste places of our country. This is what we understood by reconciliation. [Cheers.] Note should be proscribed and none put under the bar. Some ask, do you want us to vote for rebels for office? I say you are not asked to allow all to vote for whom they please. How shall a man be a rebel who, seven years ago, returned to his allegiance, took an oath and had since been a good citizen, and done all he could to build up the country? I hold it as an error to call such men rebels. Mr. Greeley concluded by saying, let there be no proscription, but let us all, white or black, unite to build up our country.

Mr. Greeley was obliged to bring his remarks to an abrupt conclusion on account of the noise made by the preparations of the train to depart. The crowd called for more, and Mr. Greeley made his appearance at the end of the car again, and just then the locomotive was hitched to the car, which was pulled some distance up the track to allow another car to be attached.

After all was quiet again, Gov. Walker of Virginia, was called upon and said: 'Fellow-citizens, I am glad to meet you this bright morning; I am glad to see before me so many intelligent, honest voters who will, I doubt not, cast their suffrages for Mr. Greeley. [Cheers.] The old Dominion has been in the past a leader of States and of the Union. Where she led the South followed. Even in the late war the Confederacy was nothing until Virginia cast her lot with it. The Confederacy could not have lived six months without the Old Dominion, and when she surrendered on the plains of Appomattox, the rebellion was over.

In 1869, Virginia inaugurated this great Liberal movement on her soil, and since all has been well within her borders. You do not hear there of riots, Ku-Klux and bank defalcations, but only good government and peace. Virginia has pride in this great work, and she appeals to you, her daughter, Ohio, to come to her support and help her redeem this country. [Loud cheers.]

Mr. Greeley then seated himself at window of his car, and shook hands with all who desired it.

GREELEY'S SPEECH AT CINCINNATI.

Mr. Greeley delivered the following speech at a late hour to night to a large assemblage in front of the Burnet House:

Citizens of Ohio—I am here a guest at the invitation of the Common Council of Cincinnati. It is their desire, as it is my wish, that I should, while their guest, abstain from any remarks which seem to have a partisan purpose, and I should have chosen to speak that no one of any party could possibly have taken objection, but there has been made an attack upon me since I came here which I will trust to the hospitality and generosity of entertainers to repel here and now.

Last evening, at Pittsburg, in the course of some off-hand remarks to a vast assemblage like this, I took pains to explain extraordinary and unprecedented circumstances under which I was impelled, in the Winter of 1869, to utter in good faith to submit the whole question of union or disunion to the free unconstrained vote of the Southern people after due deliberation and discussion. I said that it was then my belief, as it is still my belief, that if that people had allowed such free and fair opportunity they would have decided that the Union should be maintained.

Mr. Greeley was here interrupted for several minutes by cheers and music. On resuming, he said:

Those remarks which I made last evening have been misrepresented; have been, I think, perverted into an expression of present belief and present conviction that any State has a right to dissolve this Union at its own good pleasure. Fellow-citizens, I utterly repudiate and condemn that sentiment. [Cheers.]

I do not believe that ten States or that even a majority of all the States, have a moral, legal or Constitutional right to dissolve our Union. [Cheers.] That Union is founded upon a Constitution which is a charter of the government, not a mere league. It does not create a league merely, nor a confederacy, but a nation under a government of limited and defined powers, but of unlimited duration. I believe the Union is not only destined to be, but was intended to be, perpetual, and I believe that any civil war, there ever was, was a reasonable and just war to the nature of the Union, has settled that doubt forever. [Cheers.]

Slavery is dead, and that the Union abides forever, is the sum and substance of the verdict pronounced through the issue of the contest. There is no longer a question, there is no longer a question as to the perpetuity of the Union. The apple of discord, the only thing that ever made any American hostile to his own country and the Constitution, has utterly perished. [Applause.] Henceforth the American Union is forever, graduated in the affections, necessities and devotion of the whole American people. [Cheers.]

If there ever shall again arise a cloud of disunion, that will not arise in the Southern section of this country. But such a question will or can arise. As perpetual as the hills, as solid as the everlasting rocks, the Union of these States abides and must abide forever. One sentiment, one purpose animates the American heart, and that is that the Union of States must and shall be preserved.

Now, fellow-citizens, let me say a few words more in regard to your position, your duties and your prospects. Cincinnati may be regarded as nearly the industrial and commercial center of our present population. What the future may bring forth we cannot tell, but to-day this city is nearly in the middle of the great commercial movement of the industrial activity of the American people. These hills, smiling in their Summer abundance, look brightly on each other from the North and from the South. This mighty river, which leaves your city in its gentle current, should persuade to union and reconciliation. We are to be evermore one people. Let us harmonize our people, united in heart and hope as well as in thought and in political associations. Let us resolve to cultivate the graces as charities of fellow-citizenship; let us resolve that from this city shall go forth an influence to the North and to the South which shall bind the people together in a bond of sweet and tender affection they have ever yet known.

Fellow-citizens, I rejoice to stand within the city which has been honored by holding within its limits the Cincinnati Convention. I should not have remained in the city of principles ever presented to the American people. These principles commend themselves to my judgment. They are dear to my heart. [Applause.]

If I could do anything to give ascendancy, perpetual, and complete, to those principles of the North and to the South which shall bind the people together in a bond of sweet and tender affection they have ever yet known.

It was not my expectation to be presented as a candidate to that convention. That honor was conferred upon me, and I gratefully and readily accepted it, and I thank you my fellow-citizens for the cordiality, unanimity and for the magnetic strength in which you have responded to it.

As one of your number I take the place in your ranks which has been assigned to me, and will endeavor to bear your banner with honor, truth and justice wherever fortune may lead me, and wherever the good providence of God may send me to carry it. As a fellow-citizen united to make myself felt, I will relieve you from further attention. [Prolonged cheering.]

SINGULAR OCCURRENCE.

The News of the 12th, published at Newport, Rhode Island has the following:—

"A New York lady visiting in Providence the past two weeks was strongly impressed that she ought to go home, and made arrangements to go last Friday night, but was prevailed on to stay over Sunday morning about 4 o'clock she awoke, and saw her sister that she had left in New York standing in her room, and got up to meet her when the vision vanished. She returned to her bed, fell asleep and was again awaked by the recurring vision, and by noon received word that her sister, whom she had left at home well, had died at that very hour."

—The New Bern Times comments as follows on the occurrence as related above:—

"There are thousands of such instances as the above, which are of daily occurrence, and which make it self-evident beyond a doubt that our spirit friends have this power of making themselves visible after the death of the body. At New York, in the past, the powerful medium spirits thus appear to their friends, and the audience, and converse and sing as life-like and natural as when in life. If we are to believe the published statements of clergymen of different denominations, lawyers, judges and noted men of science, who have held these and more wonderful manifestations at the above stated place, also at other localities in various parts of country. We mention these facts not as a spiritualist, but as a recorder of events which are daily taking place; and perhaps may be the dawn of a new era in the religious world that may result in a more uniform and desirable belief."

A CURIOSITY.

As Mr. Coble, residing about twelve miles South of town, was plowing in his field one day last week he turned up a flat rock, soft and smooth on one side on which the following inscription was traced in cut letters:—"Major Panning was wounded on this spot 1765."—Greensboro Patriot.

FOR LIFE.

WENDELL PHILLIPS, the Radical agitator, made flaming anti-reconciliation, Grant speech at Lynn, Massachusetts, the other day, which included in the following manner:—"Long live Ulysses S. Grant. May he continue to be President of the United States until some white man over forty years of age, who lives south of Mason & Dixon's line, has been chosen president of the grand old Union." [Loud and continued applause.] This is equivalent to the nomination of Grant for an indefinite number of terms. That is, until he shall have buried every Southern white man over forty years of age. Nothing is so absurd as to suppose that Phillips intended that to be inferred. He evidently wishes them to die. This brutal sentiment, uttered by the New England agitator, was greeted by his hearers with loud and long continued applause.—Raleigh Whig.

GRANT AND GREELEY TO BE PRESENT AT THE STATE FAIR.—Gen. Grant has been invited to be present at the coming State Fair, and we learn that a letter has been received by a gentleman in this city from his man Friday, Col. R. M. Douglas, that he will accept the invitation and be present on the occasion.

Horace Greeley has also been invited and considering the fact that he has consented to be present at Charlotte, on the occasion of the Fair at that place, which is only one week after the State Fair, it is reasonable to suppose that he will accept. With these "Bears" present it is reasonable to suppose a large crowd of the curious will be on hand to witness the show.—Raleigh News.

DROWNED.—The Rutherford Vindicator learns that on the 6th ult., a party of survivors, near Fort Steele, in attempting to cross the Platte, while about the middle of the river, were carried below the ford by the deep and rapid current. Encumbered by books, instruments and heavy revolvers, only four of the party of seven succeeded in swimming to the shore. The others were drowned. One of the victims of this sad affair was Alfred F. Grayson, son of Rev. J. C. Grayson, of McDowell county, N. C. His body was recovered and buried at Fort Steele, Wyoming Territory. Mr. Grayson served with distinction in the Engineer corps of Lee's army.

THE ISSUE.—Here is the way the New York Herald puts the issue between the supporters of Greeley and Grant:

The real issue upon which the liberal Republicans and Democrats combined are particular. These are the restoration of the South, amnesty, harmony of the two sections of the country, relieving the Southern States from the ruin of ignorant negroes and carpet-bag plunderers, economy in the government, civil service reform and other reforms which the regular Republican administration party has refused. These were the great and overshadowing issues inaugurated by the coalition. They ought to meet with popular favor all over the country.

That's it. And ain't that enough!

PULL OUT YOUR BANDANAS.—A Chicago Grant organ has been dipping its pen in human gore, and this is the reeking result:—"Twenty three thousand colored men, women, and children have been asphyxiated in different parts of the South within the last three years by the Ku-Klux Klan of that same region, and only here and there has one of the murderers been taken to justice." To this the Chicago Tribune retorts in the following leaflet fashion:—"Why not make the number 23,000,000, and bring tears to the eyes of all of us at once? If there were 23,000 negroes murdered during Grant's Administration, and only here and there has Grant brought a murderer to justice, what is he good for? Would not such a fact prove a more marvellous failure of Grant to secure peace to the South than his most ardent enemies have ever claimed? If the Grant party are determined to falsify, why don't they employ some-body who knows how?"

NOTICE! Valuable Land for Sale.

As agent for B. R. Ratts, I will sell at public sale, on the public square, Salisbury, on Saturday the 5th of Oct., at 11 o'clock A. M., his valuable tract of land lying on the Sherrill's Ford Road, containing 120 acres. Said tract is 5 miles west of Salisbury. Terms made known on day of sale. JOHN LINGLE, Agt. Aug. 31, 1872. 52-53.

VALUABLE HINTS.

A regular habit of body is absolutely essential to physical health and clearness of intellect. Nor is this all. Beauty of person cannot co-exist with an unnatural condition of the bowels. A free passage of the refuse matter of the system through its natural waste pipes, is as necessary to the purity of the body as free passage of the offal of a city through its sewers is necessary to the health of its inhabitants.

Indigestion is the primary cause of most of the diseases of the discharging organs, and one of its most common results is constipation. This complaint, besides being dangerous to itself has many disagreeable concomitants—such as an unpleasant breath, a sallow skin, contaminating blood and bile, hemorrhoids, headache, loss of memory, and general debility.

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters remove all evils by removing their immediate cause in digestive organs, and regulating the action of the intestines. The combination of properties in this celebrated preparation is one of its chief merits. It is not merely a stimulant, or a tonic, or an antispasmodic, or a cathartic, or a blood purifier, or an emmenagogue, but all these curative elements judiciously blended in one powerful restorative. It lends activity and vigor to the inert and enervated stomach, relieves the asthmatic cough of its obstructions, and gives tone to the liver, braces the nervous system, and cheers the animal spirits. No other remedy possesses such a variety of hygienic virtues. It is to these characteristic virtues that it owes its prestige as a household medicine. Experience has proved that it is as harmless as the water in a tonic, and as effective as the most powerful of the weaker sex as with the stronger.

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are sold in bottles only, and the trade-mark blown in the glass engraved on the label is the test of genuineness. Beware of counterfeits.
