WEDDED LOVE.

JOHN G. WHITTIER.

And if the husband or the wife
In home's strong life discovers
Such slight defaults as fail to meet
The blinded eyes of lovers,

Why need we care to ask? Who dreams,
Without their thorns, of roses;
Or wonders that the truest steel
The readiest spark discloses?

For still in mutual sufference lies
The secret of true living;
Love scarce is, that never knows
The sweetness of forgiving.

BLOOD AND BURGLARY.

A Terrible Tale from Maine—A Burglar Chops Off the Heads of His Captors and Burns their Bodies—Recaptured and Hanged by a Mob.

HOULTON, ME., May 3.

Last Saturday night the store of David Dudley, in Ball's Mill, Mapleton, was robbed by James Cullen. On Monday a warrant was issued for his arrest, and Deputy Granville A. Hayden, deputy sheriff of Presque Isle, started for him, taking W. H. Bird and Thomas Hubbard of Mapleton to assist him. The burglar was traced to Swanbock's shingle camp, on Chapman plantation, and on Tuesday night he was arrested. The Sheriff decided to stop in the camp over night, and all hands went to bed. Next morning Cullen awoke, and obtaining an axe, chopped off the heads of both Hayden and Hubbard. The two other occupants of the tent, Swanbock and Bird, were awakened by the noise, and were witnesses of the awful deed. They escaped from the tent. Cullen then kindled a fire and burnt the bodies of the murdered men. He then set fire to the camp. Swanbock and Bird gave the alarm.

Parties of men immediately started out in search of the murderer, and a messenger was sent in haste to Presque Isle.—The wildest excitement prevailed. On reaching the camp nothing remained to tell of the awful murder except some heaps of ashes, a few fragments of bones, and a bunch of keys. The murderer was traced to his house in Mapleton. His wife denied his presence, but finally admitted that he was hiding in the cellar, where he was found by Constable Hughes and his assistants. He acknowledged his guilt, and said he wished he had also killed Swanbock and Bird. The officers started with him to Presque Isle. After having proceeded two miles they were met by a large party of men disguised, who took possession of the prisoner. Cullen still exulted in his guilt, regretting that he did not make a clean job of it. He said he wished he had killed his own wife and child, and then he would be hanged willingly. The disguised men placed a rope around his neck, and hanged him to a tree that had been prepared for the purpose. When life was extinct, the body was cut down, and placed in a box that had been made to receive the remains of his victims.

A WONDERFUL PHOTOGRAPHI FEAT.

The San Francisco Examiner says: Some time ago Gov. Stanford, the owner of the horse Occident, which was made famous from having been beaten in a race with the Goldsmith Maid, desired to have a photograph of the animal taken while said animal was going at full speed. Mr. Muybridge, the artist, was applied to, but he expressed his doubts that it could be done. He began experimenting, however, and after awhile was able to catch objects on the wing with great success. A few days ago he announced to the owner of Occident that he believed he could take the picture. He procured all the stable sheets to be had in the stable, and with these made a reflecting back ground. Over this Occident was trained to trot, and everything was in readiness for the trial. The great difficulty was to transfix an impression while the horse was moving at the rate of thirty-eight feet to the second. The first experiment of opening and closing the camera on the first day left no result. The second day, with increased velocity in opening and closing, a shadow was caught. On the third day the artist, having studied the matter thoroughly, contrived to have two boards slip past each other by touching a spring, and in so doing to leave an eigth of an inch opening for the five hundreth part of a second, as the horse passed, and by an arrangement of double lenses, crossed, secured a negative that shows Occident in full motion—a perfect likeness of the horse. The space of time was so small that the spokes of the wheels of the sulky were caught as if they were not in motion. This is probably the most wonderful success in photographing ever yet achieved, and the artist is as proud of his discovery as the Governor is of the picture taken.

A QUEER FEAST.

A most singular banquet has just taken place in Paris. A. M. Decroire invitted several of his friends and a small company of scientific men to dine upon the flesh of horses that had died from the glanders: of cows, the victims of the rinderpest, and of an ass, just killed for hydrophobia. It was a "test banquet;" one that proved the devotion of each man there to science, in that he was willing to risk his life to demonstrate, in the most practical manner, the flesh of an annimal is not effected as human food by even the worst diseases. The fire purifies it and purges away all infection. The director of the Paris Zoological Gardens is said to corroborate this theory from personal experiments on the condemned meat sent to feed the animals. So with this question finally settled by M. Decroire and his friends, and with the approaching. "Diet Congress," the gay capital will have an opportunity at some future day, erect statues to its dieary benefactors

The beautiful Princess Theresa, of Oldenburg, jilted a big grand duke, out of desire to wed a handsome but obscure music teacher. The Emperor of Russia in whose army the princess's father serves as general—was asked to elevate the music teacher to the dignity of baron, and he complied. This custom made baron was then supplied with means to live according to his station, and ordered to leave St. Petersburg.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegent miscellany of pure, light, and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and whit. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it has been bound up at the close of the year. While other publinations may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then, there are the chromos, besides!
ART DEPARTMENT.
Notwithstanding the increase in the price of subscription last Fall, when THE ALDINE assumed its present noble proportions and representative character, the editor was more than doubled during the past year; proving that the American public appreciate, and will support, a sincere effort in the cause of Art. The publishers, anxious to justify the ready confidence thus demonstrated, have exerted themselves to the utmost to develop and improve the work; and the plans for the coming year, as unfolded by the monthly issues, will astonish and delight even the most sanguine friends of THE ALDINE.
The publishers are authorized to announce designs from many of the most eminent artists of America.
In addition, THE ALDINE will reproduce examples of the best foreign masters, selected with a view to the highest artistic success, and greatest general interest; avoiding such as have become familiar, through photographs, or copies of any kind.
The quarterly tinted plates for 1872, will reproduce four of John S. Davis' inimitable chalk-sketches, appropriate to the four seasons. These plates, appearing in the issues for January, April, July, and October, would be alone worth the price of a year's subscription.
The popular feature of a copiously illustrated "Christmas" number will be continued.
To possess such a valuable epitome of the art world, at a cost so trifling, will command the subscriptions of thousands in every section of the country; but, as the usefulness and attractions of THE ALDINE can be enhanced, in proportion to the numerical increase of its supporters, the publishers propose to make "assurance double sure," by the following unparalleled offer:
Premium Chromos For 1873.
Every subscriber to THE ALDINE, who pays in advance for the year 1873, will receive, without additional charge, a pair of beautiful oil chromos, after J. J. Hill, the eminent English painter. The pictures entitled, "The Village Belle," and "Crossing the Moor," are 14 x 20 inches—are printed from 25 different plates, requiring 25 impressions and tints to perfect each picture. The same chromos are sold for $30 per pair, in the art stores. As it is the determination of its conductors to keep THE ALDINE out of the reach of competition in every department, the chromos will be found correspondingly ahead of any that can be offered by other periodicals. Every subscriber will receive a certificate, over the signature of the publishers, guaranteeing that the chromos delivered shall be equal to the samples furnished the agent, or the money will be refunded. The distribution of pictures of this grade, free to the subscribers to a five dollar periodical, will mark an epoch in the history of Art; and, considering the unprecedented cheapness of the issue of THE ALDINE itself, the marvel falls little short of a miracle, even to those best acquainted with the achievements of inventive genius and improved mechanical appliances. (For illustrations of these chromos, see November issue of THE ALDINE.)
The Literary Department will continue under the care of MR. RICHARD HENRY STODDARD, assisted by the best writers and poets of the day, who will strive to have the literature of THE ALDINE always in keeping with its artistic attractions,
