Walworth, the boy-parricide of New York was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to hard labor at Sing Sing prison for limo This is a severe punishment, more cruel than desthabut every reasonable person at all acquainted with the merits of the case will be struck with the propriety of the verdict and the justness of the sentence." It speaks well for New York City, and may be segarded as an evidence of the beginning of a better and more propiciou era. A prompt and efficient execution of the law in all such cases, if it do not strike terror into evil doers and enforce obedience and respect for the laws, it will have the good effect at least of ridding the country by degrees of ruffians and lawless characters.
