This woman, moved by the goodness and sustaining by the heroism of her noble heart, devoted her days and nights to the sick, the dying and and the dead. She went in the darkness of the night, in the rain and mud when the air was loaded with pestilence, to the houses of the sick. cheer but to do with her own hands whatever could be done to stay the progress of the disease, to relieve the distressed and to prepare the dead for decent interment.

When told that she ought not to leave her comfortable home and family and ex- and makes use of it, whether he has ordered pose health, especially in going into the it or not is held in law, to be a subscriber hovels of the poor, her reply wis, "I and must pay for it. think it would be wrong to neglect the sick and dead at such a time as this."

On the night after the day when so many deaths occurred in this city we saw this heroic woman at midnight preparing corpse for burial. She washed and dressed the dead, carried out the infected bedding an lelo hing, disinfected the room, and quieted the bereaved children.

Heroism like this deserves the highest enlogium. The world lauds the courage of brave men who risk their lives on the battlefield, but do not those Nashville ladies, who like the one to whom we now refer, braved the perils of the postilence in the performance, of duties to the sick, dying, and dead, deserve even a higher meed of praise ? ---

GALLOWS PIETY.

It would seem that the surest way to heaven is by the gallows. The moment a murderer is condemned to be hung he becomes an object of interest to the good Christians, who remembering the case of the thief upon the cross, flock around him to snatch him as a brand from the burning. into devout and model Christians. When are; saints, and are so condescending as to cents. forgive all who have injured them. They make addresses full of penitence, piety and good advice, and oftentimes are so confident of "going to glory," that they are disposed to hurry up the hangman. -The two men, Nicholson and Hollohan, who were executed in Baltimore last Friday for the brutal murder of an old lady, seventy years of age, were shining examples of sudden reformation. Both of them made speeches full of piety and advice, and declared that they "died in the faith of Jesus Christ."-Richmond Whig.

JUVENILE FEROCITY. [Fulton (N. Y.) Times.]

Monday, and two of them became angry at the third and determined to hang him-They selected a convenient limb and strung their unhappy victim mercilessly in mid-air, and then sat down to see him die. But the victim did not intend giving up the ghost so rapidly, for he clung to the rope tenaciously and struggled violently to free himself. At length one of the tormentors became impatient. The victim did not die quick enough to suit him; so instead of waiting the gradual approach of the grim monster he determined to expedite matters, and started to a house near by to borrow an axe with which to cut off the victim's head. The neigh bor learning what the axe was wanted for alarmed the neighborhood, and among them the victim's mother, and they all rushed to the grove and cut down the yet struggling boy.

CONFESSION.

A somewhat quaint story is told in the Church Herald, published in London, of a Baptist grocer who called upon Monsignor Capel to complain that his daughter having surreptitiously attended a service at the Cathedral, Ind renouced her misbe lief. the publishers propose to make "assurance don Premium Chromos For 1873. Every subscriber to THE ALDINE, who pays in advance for the year 1873, will receive without additional charge, a pair of beautiful oil chromos, after J. J. Hill, the eminent Laglish painter. The pictures entitled, "The Vill-age Belle," and "Crossing the Moor," are 14 x 20 inches—are printed from 25 different plates. requiring 25 impressions and tints to perfect each picture. The same chromos are sold for $30 per pair, in the art stores. As it is the determination of its conductors to keep THE AL-DINE out of the reach of competition in every department, the chromos will be found correpondingly ahead of any that can be offered by other periodicals. Every subscriber will receive a certificate, over the signature of the publishers, guaranteeing that the chromos delivered shall be equal to the samples furnished the agent or the money will be refunded. The distriction of pictures of this grade, free to the suiscibers to a five dollar periodical, will mark an epoch in the history of Art; and, considering the unprecedented cheapness of the price of THE ALDINE itself, the marvel falls little short at a miracle, even to those best acquainted with tions of these chromo, see November issue of THE ALDINE.) The Literary Department will continue under the care of Mr. RICHARD HENRY STODDARD, assisted by the best writers and poets of the day, who will strive to have the literature of THE ALDINF always in keeping with its artistic attractions, the achievements of inventive genius and im-
