THE LEGISLATURE.

The greater part of the time of this body, since its reassembling, has been consumed in the discussion of the bill (especially in the Senate), for the adjustment of the State debt.

The House has resolved on Civil Rights and instructed the Honorable members of Congress from this State not to go for it.

But the debt question is certainly the great one with our Legislature. It is an elephant with which that body scarcely knows how to deal.

The people don't mean to pay this grand swindle any how, so our Legislators might as well drop the question. We are unto him who by any vote increases the already burdensome taxes.

Harris of the Concord Sun is afraid that the Legislature will defeat the bill compelling sheriffs and others to advertise the sale of property under execution, &c.

The fact is the Legislature has never done anything to encourage the Press in its efforts to promote a disposition among the people to read, or in its efforts to keep them informed upon matters of general and individual interest.

In regard to public sales, it is well known that great wrong is frequently done widows and orphans or the heirs of estates, by Administrators, Executors, or other officers, selling property not properly advertised.

THE EXECUTION OF JOE BAKER. Joseph Baker, the slayer of Newton Wilfong, col., was duly executed at Charlotte last Friday. The following short but complete statement appeared in the Raleigh News of Saturday last:

CONGRESS. Congress has restored the pay of members to what it was before the salary grab bill was adopted to rob the people.

The following extract from a private letter will be read with interest by Christian people at least.

SALISBURY, N. C., Jan. 13th, 1874.

The first week of the year being set apart as a week of prayer in our church, the Moravian, we had a union prayer meeting every evening, in which ministers of other denominations took a part likewise.

The most delightful meeting however was the closing one on Sunday night, in which nine ministers took part; two from this place, one Baptist brother, two Methodists, several from our country congregations, and one from Philadelphia, who had been a delegate to the Evangelical alliance, and gave us a very interesting account of that alliance, and the distinguished members who composed it.

A Presbyterian minister and his congregation, from our neighboring town Winston, were also invited and expected to be present; the minister was unable to come, but the greater part of his congregation were present. Our church was well filled. I think about 700 persons being present.

PLUCK. The South, says our friend of the Frederickburg Herald, "is greatly in need of pluck. We have had too much whining and cant. It is sickening. It loses us the respect of our opponents, and fails utterly in melting the adamant heart of those who are still disposed to hunt us to the death, despite our capitulation and oaths that we want peace; peace only; to be let alone."

We assent to all this, and hold in contempt those who would consent thus to degrade themselves and humiliate their section by unmanly whines and disgusting cant. Yes, our contemporary is right. "Pluck is what is wanted. Courage to do right for the sake of the right; nerve to resist the sneers and scoffs of the sentimentalists, to boldly pursue such a policy as the good of our section may demand; the manhood to set up for ourselves, and with the independence worthy the sons of our sires to shape our course as to compel the respect of others. But there is a "pluck," the offspring of folly and near akin to cowardice, that we do not want; there is nothing more contemptible than the fangless serpent that hisses but to run away; that the yelping bound upon the lion's trail that will flee with alarm upon his near approach; that a nation, crushed and helpless, to vainly boast of its prowess against the least aggression. No; may heaven protect us from any such "pluck" as this, but grant us that calm, cool courage that walks arm in arm with prudence, wisdom and true dignity.—Richmond Whip.

PLUCK IS THE WORD. It has been the want of it—the want of that manly courage and true dignity of character in our representative men in the face of our enemies, that has brought us almost to the grave of our liberties. We have had too much cringing—too much time-serving. Let our representatives in the legislative halls of the country hold up their heads and speak and act in a manner worthy the South and her gallant people.

THE EXECUTION OF JOE BAKER. Joseph Baker, the slayer of Newton Wilfong, col., was duly executed at Charlotte last Friday. The following short but complete statement appeared in the Raleigh News of Saturday last:

RALLIGH NEWS.—Joseph Baker, a white man, aged about 35 years, was executed here to-day for the murder of a negro, named Newton Wilfong, on the 17th of February, 1873. The homicide was committed under circumstances of intoxication, and was both unpremeditated and without motive. The stabbing details uninteresting. Baker at his first trial was sentenced to be hanged on the 20th of June last, but an appeal being taken to the Supreme Court of the State, which tribunal affirmed the decision of the Court below. He was re-sentenced to be executed on the 19th December last. By a successful and desperate escape he again evaded the scaffold, but was recaptured and respited to January 2nd. A further respite was then granted till to-day. An hour before the execution, his mother, wife, brothers and sisters took a final farewell. At 1 p. m. he walked down the stairs of the jail and resolutely stepped on the drop. In reply to an interrogation, he said that he had nothing to say, having previously admitted his guilt. Then in a clear shrill voice, he made a fervent appeal to the Throne of Grace for mercy to his soul. After this the noose and black cap were adjusted, the rope by the drop was suspended was cut, and Baker fell about two feet. Strangulation then did its work. His struggles lasted about three minutes, and after hanging half an hour the body was cut down, placed in a plain pine coffin and turned over to his friends for interment. There was a large crowd present, but only about forty persons were admitted to witness the execution, which, in accordance with the law, was private.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.—It is understood that the House Judiciary Committee have decided to report the Civil Rights Bill without the feature relating to common schools, and it will probably pass the House in this shape. The bill will give the negro equal rights in hotels, cemeteries and public conveyances.

SAD ACCIDENT.—A sad accident occurred Saturday night, resulting in the instant death of Mr. Frederick Strobel.—It seems that he got restless about twelve o'clock in the night, and getting up for the purpose of walking about, started to descend the flight of stairs leading to the front door when he missed the top step, in the dark, and fell to the bottom, his head striking the door bolt. He died instantly. His commission col. he had. He was in his 56th year, and removed to this place a couple years ago from Pennsylvania. During his residence here he had won the good opinion of those who knew him and was much esteemed.

HE WAS INTERRED YESTERDAY in the Presbyterian cemetery, the funeral ceremony being performed by Rev. Father Hands, of Charlotte, after the form prescribed by the Catholic Church, to which denomination he belonged.—Greensboro Patriot.

A GEORGIA SCALDING HORROR.—A horrible accident occurred in Murray, Ga. recently. A Mr. Johnson, in preparing to kill hogs, had sunk a large box in the ground, lined it with boiling water, and placed a blanket over it. His little son, three or four years old, walked on to the blanket and into the scalding water. He lived twenty-four hours.—Savannah News.

Assaulted and Robbed.—Yesterday morning a man with a severe gash in his forehead, applied to Dr. J. B. Jones, of this city, for surgical treatment. The story is that he had been in this: His name is Hughes, and he is a native of Ireland county, but has for some time been living in Texas. Recently he returned to his home and sold his Ireland lands. He sent most of the money by express to Austin, Texas, and was on his way to that place. He passed through Salisbury, and while on his way down to the depot, before day yesterday morning, was met by a street car by an unknown white man who dealt him a powerful blow in the head knocking him senseless. When he recovered himself he was in Charlotte yesterday morning, but how he got on the train at Salisbury, or how his life was saved there, he does not know. He had been robbed of $40 in money—all he had with him.

The blow had struck him directly in the forehead and was no doubt made with brass knuckles. Dr. Jones rendered him all the surgical aid in his power, but the man's skull is fractured and he is now, we hear, in an exceedingly precarious condition.—Charlotte Observer.

The above from the Charlotte Observer of the 17th, is only wonderful when read in the light of the facts in the case. Nor even then is it surprising that a "localizer" should give an unfortunate traveler the benefit of his own statement of his own misfortunes, however improbable the statement. We will not stop, therefore, to talk of the "corrupt" appetites (and sometimes refreshing verdure) of reporters for news items, but will proceed to state well attested facts in Mr. Hughes' case.

To begin right, he was drinking freely while here. Old barley corn was in command, and Hughes could not say to do the things he tried to do. For instance, he could not get about without falling. He fell on rocks and frozen ground. It was at a time when he could not pick up his feet. Fell off a chair in the Hotel, once, and out his head. By-and-by, he heard an Omnibus rattling away from the door of the Hotel, and sprang up to go to it, and went with such force as to clear the high steps of the Hotel, the broad pavement, and landed upon his head on the rough, frozen street. He was taken up in an almost insensible condition, and carried into the hotel, where he was kindly attended to by the proprietor, and other persons present. His injuries by the fall were very severe. They were dressed by Dr. C. A. Henderson, and he was put to bed. Before the retirement of these disinterested friends, however, the clerk of the hotel caused an examination to be made of his possession $41 and some few cents. He had previously expressed a sum of money to the depot and bought a through ticket for Texas, for which he paid over $37; and took the train for Charlotte, where, according to the above account, he represented himself as having been knocked down and robbed while passing from the hotel to the depot in Salisbury, and wonderfully reached Charlotte before he came to his senses. If that were so, where did he get money to buy a ticket? If that were so, who put him on the train? Or did he just make a grand wiggle while in an unconscious state from brass knuckles and bludgeons, and land on the cars and in Charlotte by accident?

It is believed here that this is a clear case of whiskey too much—nothing more—will the "Observer" please notice.

A Prisoner Jumps from a Car-Window While the Train is in Motion. Among the Federal prisoners whom Dep't Marshal Boshier started from Greensboro with Thursday night to bring to this place, was Dr. E. P. Blackburne, of Mitchell county, who was imprisoned on a charge of counterfeiting. When the cars reached Othm Grove he, in company with another prisoner, in charge of a guard, went to the saloon in the coach. The guard stood at the saloon door. Just after the car started off, and while in motion, Dr. Blackburne leaped from the window, out into the dark, and was seen no more by the guard who had charge of him. Yesterday about 2 P. M. Deputy Boshier received a telegram from Salisbury stating that Blackburne was in that place, with a broken leg, caused by his perilous leap from the car-window. He had been found on the railroad and brought to Salisbury.—Charlotte Observer.

The Party referred to is still here in the county Jail, and change as well as could be expected.—Exchange.

Miss Laura Alexander died suddenly in New York last week. She was the daughter of the late Julius W. Alexander, Esq., a prominent lawyer in this part of the State, and had adopted the profession of an Actress. During the Fall and present Winter she acted a conspicuous part at Wallack's Theatre on Broadway.—Charlotte Democrat.

TWO FOES OF HEALTH. Cold and damp are inimical to health, and we generally have an unwholesome combination of the two at this season. They penetrate the skin and integuments and affect the muscular, glandular and nervous organizations, producing rheumatism, neuralgia, chills and fever, and where there is a tendency to dyspepsia or liver complaint, provoking an attack of indigestion or biliousness. The best advice that can be given under such circumstances is to keep the external surface of the body warmly clothed and to keep the internal organs in vigorous working order with the most wholesome and genial of all tonics, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Generally but constantly this famous invigorant is superseding the adulterated liquors of commerce, as a medicinal stimulant and corrective, in all parts of the country. It will be a happy day for humanity, and it will surely come, when this pure restorative shall have taken the place of raw spirits as a stimulant in all our public and private hospitals. It is not, however, merely a harmless substitute for the BERRY stimulants referred to. Its stimulating properties are not its chief merits, although in this regard it surpasses all the unmedicated products of the still, domestic or imported. The powerful influence it exercises over the torpid and lonesome stomach, the disordered liver, the constipated bowels and the relaxed nerver render it a positive specific in dyspepsia, liver complaint, intestinal constipation, nervous weakness, hypochondria, rheumatism and sleeplessness. All chronic complaints are aggravated by a cold, moist atmosphere, and it is therefore particularly necessary for those who are afflicted with ailments of this nature, whatever their type may be, to meet this prodigious cause of sickness with a wholesome antidote. Hostetter's Bitters should be taken daily at this season by all persons laboring under chronic ailments that tend to weaken the system.

Sentenced to be Hanged.—On yesterday Judge Watts, in a touching and impressive manner, sentenced Allen McPherson and Henry Williams to be hanged between the hours of 12 o'clock M., and 1 o'clock P. M., on Friday the 12th February next. They had been tried and convicted of breaking in and robbing the house of Mr. Carson Murray, of this place, a week or two ago. One of the persons sentenced has already spent a term in our penitentiary.—Raleigh Sentinel.

[Baltimore Gazette.] THE MEN THE PEOPLE WANT.—A man well disciplined, full of useful information, thinking quickly and clearly, earnest and brave, honest and faithful, will always command respect. As to political mediocrity, the people are beginning to be surfeited with it. The ignorance of some men in high place, and the bad character of others, raised by accidental circumstances to prominent honors, are evils which sooner or later will work their own cure. And, besides, there is great restiveness and a desire for change. The change cannot come too soon.

Among the lodgers at the Elm street station in Cincinnati, a few nights ago, was George Brown, aged 67 years. He is remembered as, on one time not far back in the past, one of Cincinnati's most charitable citizens. About 1848, at his suggestion, the foundation of the present valuable Swedenborgian Library was laid. Mr. Brown contributing his own large and expensive collection as a nucleus. He removed to Chicago a few years ago and was overtaken by misfortunes which left him penniless. Returning to Cincinnati he found all his old friends dead, and failing to find work that he could do he was forced to accept charity.

BEAUTIFUL DEATH.—A girl thirteen years old was dying. Lifting her eyes towards the ceiling, she said, softly, "Lift me higher, lift me higher!" Her parents raised her up with pillows, but she faintly said, "no, not that; but there!" Again looking earnestly towards heaven, whether her happy soul flew a few moments later. On her grave-stone these words are now carved:—"Jane B., aged thirteen, lifted higher." A beautiful idea of dying, is it not? Lifted higher!

OBITUARY. Entered into rest on Dec. 6th, 1873. Dr. J. W. Hall in the 69th year of his age. Joseph Wells Hall was born in Rowan County N. C. March 19th, 1805. After spending his earlier years in his native state, he went to Kentucky and entered the Transylvania University, where he graduated M. D., with first honor. For several years he practiced medicine in Frankfort, Ky., where he acquired considerable reputation in his profession. He was married in 1830 after which he spent three years in Europe. After his return, Louisville, Ky., was his home for some time. Having been called to a professorship in the Medical College in St. Louis Mo., he removed to that city. During his residence there Mrs. Hall died in 1849. He again in St. Louis until 1853 when he married again and removed to Salisbury N. C. which was thenceforth his home until his death. During the time that he resided in Frankfort, Louisville and St. Louis, Dr. Hall was eminent for his professional skill; but for the last twenty years he did not practice except among the poor who needed his charitable help. Dr. Hall was a public spirited and very useful man. No enterprise tending to the good of Salisbury has been undertaken for many years which he did not forward by prudent counsel or skilful management. Our community feels that in him we have lost a man whose services we needed and whose place we cannot fill. For very many years Dr. Hall has been a Communicant of the Church. In S. Louis he was a vestryman in St. George's Parish, and in Salisbury he was for a long time a member of the Vestry of St. Luke's Church which office he held at the time of his death. Dr. Hall's manner of life showed that he had learned that wisdom that is from above which is pure peaceable, gentle, easy to be entreated and full of mercy and good fruits. He was kind and liberal to the poor, gentle to all men and ready to encourage all who were striving to become better men. He loved the Church and her services and walked faithfully in her ways of truth and peace. After thus passing his life in all godly quietness he departed, we trust, to that place where the souls of the faithful enjoy perpetual light and rest. He is now one of those whom the Church he loved so often affectionately remembers in those words of high praise to God. And we also bless thy holy name for all thy servants departed this life in thy faith and fear beseeching thee to give us grace so to follow their good example that with them we may be partakers of thy heavenly kingdom." The Most Popular Medicine Extant. 1840 Over 30 Years, 1873. SINCE THE INTRODUCTION OF PERRY DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER! And after thirty years trial, the "PAIN-KILLER" may justly be styled the great medicine of the world, for there is no region of the globe into which it has not found its way, and none where it has not been largely and highly prized. Moreover, there is no climate to which it has not proved itself to be well adapted for the cure of considerable variety of diseases: it is admirably suited for every race. It has lost none of its good name by repeated trials, but continues to occupy a prominent position in every medicine chest; and is still receiving the most unequalled testimonials for efficiency and its rapidity of action. In the great cities of India and other hot climates, it has become the Standard Medicine for all such complaints, as well as for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, and other kindred disorders. For Coughs and Colds, Catarrhs, Asthma, and Rheumatic affections, it has been proved by the most abundant and convincing testimony to be an invaluable medicine. No article ever attained such unbounded popularity. As an external and internal medicine, Pain-Killer stands unrivalled. Thirty Years are certainly a long enough time to testify to the efficacy of any medicine, and that the PAIN-KILLER is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparalleled popularity it has attained. It is a SURE and EFFECTIVE remedy. It is sold in almost every country in the world, and is becoming more and more popular every year. Its healing properties have been fully tested, all over the world, and it needs only to be known to be prized. Be sure you buy none but the genuine, manufactured by PERRY DAVIS & SON, Providence, R. I. Sold by all Druggists.
