JULY 23.

St. Mary's School—See advertisement of St. Mary's School, Raleigh N. C. Water-melons are becoming quite plentiful in our market. Prices are rather high.

Thomas Gladden killed Calvin Rippey, near Shelby, N. C., last Sunday. They had both been drinking.

We regret to learn that Sheriff Waggoner is quite ill. He is suffering we believe with typhoid fever. We hope to see him out soon.

The steamer R. E. Lee was destroyed, while lying at her wharf, Wilmington, N. C., last Friday morning. She was valued at $8,000. Insured for $5,000.

David Martin, the lad confined in Wilmington, N. C. jail under sentence of death for the murder of little Willie Carter, has made his escape.

Sunday School Celebration.—There will be a Sunday school celebration at Thysaria Church on Tuesday 28th inst. The children are generally invited.

Col. J. F. Hoke has withdrawn from the canvass in the 9th Judicial District. This leaves the field between David Schenck, Esq., and Judge Logan, Mr. Schenck will beat, Logan it is believed, out of his boots.

Thos. J. Wilson, Esq., our candidate for Judge in this district, in the city on yesterday. The prospect for his election is fine.

The conservative candidates re-open the canvass a new to-day, at Doctain's cross roads.

Chief Justice Pearson has almost entirely recovered from his late severe attack of sickness, and will resume his law school at the usual time.

Bitten by a Spider.—A colored woman, living on the farm of W. R. Fraley, was bitten a few days ago by a spider. Mr. Fraley administered whisky, giving her a pint at first without producing any apparent effect, when he sent off and procured a quart. This she drank pretty well up, without its producing drunkenness, she vomited a little afterwards, but suffered no other inconvenience either from the bite or whisky.

National Hotel Raleigh, N. C.—We are glad to see that the arrivals at this hotel, as published in the Raleigh papers, often outnumber those of the Yarborough House. This is as we expected when Col. C. S. Brown took charge of the National. We think he is the best hotel manager and feeder in the State; and, although the Yarborough House is a first class hotel and its proprietor a clever gentleman and good hotelier, we are not surprised at the preference so often expressed by the public for the National.

North Carolina Abroad.—It is gratifying to note the high stand that North Carolina boys take abroad. Whether as farmers, teachers, orators, or what not, they always deport themselves with becoming dignity, and show themselves the equals of those of any other section or State.

We notice that Prof. J. N. H. Summerell, A. B., is lecturing with success in Texas; that Frank Brown is making speeches to the Grangers in Mississippi, and Frank B. Craigie, is raising cotton, corn, and fine stock with marked success in East Tennessee. Wherever they go or are, they generally make their mark Hurrah for North Carolina, and in this instance for Salisbury.

BILLY'S CARD.—A friend has sent us one of Billy Henderson's cards addressed to the people of his Congressional District.

Among other certificates of his good character he published a circular addressed to whom it may concern, and dated Salisbury, N. C., May 20th, 1873. This circular sets forth that Billy made an exemplary Revenue officer; that the government in parting with him parts with one of its best men, and says, "we consider him in every respect worthy of filling any position he may ask, &c., &c." This circular is signed by 17 citizens of Salisbury. Whether they read it before signing is the question. We do not believe that all did read before they signed, if indeed, they signed at all.

Announcements. David L. Bingle announces himself a candidate for the office of Sheriff. David is a right clever fellow and he says he would do the sheriff's business jam up, and not charge much for it either, but then Charley Waggoner is in the field as the nominee of the party, and if the party means to stand by its own aid, David can't come in. It is a matter, however, for the people to decide, and since they will be likely to do as they please about it, I right they unquestionably have, we shall abide their action.

Mr. J. C. Bernhardt also announces himself a candidate for County Surveyor. He is well fitted for such a position, a gentleman of high character and education; and if he was the nominee we would most cheerfully support him.

A FINE MONUMENT.

A very fit and creditable monument has just been erected over the grave of the late Governor Ellis, whose remains rest in Oak Grove Cemetery, in this place. With the exception of the pedestal, which is of granite, the monument is of fine marble, very nicely polished. It is about 10 or 11 feet high, surmounted with a cross; and stands side by side with a simple shaft 8 or 9 feet high, erected by the late Governor, years ago, to the memory of his wife, MARY WHITE, daughter of the Hon. PHILIP AND NANCY R. WITTE. Beautiful and lovely in their youth, these monuments, handsome and tasteful though they be, but poorly commemorate the persons and the lives of those whom they represent.

Inscription on Gov. Ellis' Monument. On the front Panel of the "Die." In commemoration of the Life and Public Services of JOHN W. ELLIS, who was born in Rowan County, N. C., Nov. 23, 1820, and died July 7th, 1861.

On the right side Panel: Erected as an affectionate memento of the many virtues, and noble attributes, of the late Gov. JOHN W. ELLIS: By Mr. and Mrs. PHILIP WITTE, and other relatives, 1874.

On the left side Panel: Gov. ELLIS was educated at the University of North Carolina, and adopted the Profession of the Law at his graduation. He was two years a Member of the Legislature; nine years a Judge of the Superior Courts; twice elected Governor, and died at the age of 41 years, while yet in office as Executive of the State.

In these varied and responsible positions, as in all the relations of private life, he displayed a high order of talent, of moral worth, and of patriotic devotion to the best interest of his native State.

On the reverse Panel: "The memory of the just is blessed."

Tontine Savings Fund Policy.—Persons intending to assure their lives will find it to their advantage to examine this new plan with care. Documents, giving full particulars of the rules of the Company with regard to the issue of the above Savings Funds policy, extended tables of rates, and other interesting matter, may be obtained by application to.

J. ALLEN BROWN, Salisbury, N. C.

MR. VERNON, N. C. July 6th, 1874.

DEAR WATCHMAN.—Literary occupations have often saved men of genius from insanity, ruin and death. It was mental occupation—the exercise of thought over the book and pen—that enabled Milton to endure his blindness; Bonyan, Raleigh and Dante, their prisons; Socrates, his scolding Hippias; and his blood-thirsty enemies, and Byron his captious critics and for slanders. It saved Sir Walter Scott from monomania in regard to his debts, and Cowper, Gray, Goldsmith and Dean Swift from confinement in the mad house. Yet there are a few solitary exceptions to this rule, to be sure, as to every other of men like Pollok and Shelley, who, by excessively and imprudently reading and wrote themselves into fatal diseases.

On the average worker of the literary field, brain-toll has conferred health and strength the most lasting and enviable, and been a heaven-appointed guardian against numerous ailments. Should his future career be so much, then, for literary occupations as a saving influence—as a refuge from the pains and penalties of social temptations, oppressions and disorders. If, in addition, we should undertake to catalogue the benefits which literature confers, we have no prodigally lavished upon their votaries. All upon the world, space would not permit the enumeration of the half that could be cited—volumes would not hold it—it would never be completed till the judgment. Elevation from the lowest grounds of poverty and obscurity to the most comfortable straits of fame and the most comfortable straits of holds of opulence and independence has been the frequent reward of the distinguished author and his heirs—the amount of enlightenment and education their labors yield to the world, through continuous centuries and millenials, is simply incalculable. All that we intellectually have and are—all that distinguishes us as an enlightened people—all that constitutes our superior rank, and separates us from the savage—we owe to the literary men, the scholars and savans of this and former ages. The influence of Shakespeare, for instance, is indirectly but powerfully felt by those who never read his pages or heard his name, by the most ignorant white man in this land. The Puritanical men, who eschew Byron and Poe, are unconsciously imitating their language and actions in some respects every day. It is idle to criticize or turn up your nose at genius—it is King—it makes itself a crown and rules you, in spite of you.

It asserts itself above powers ecclesiastic and municipal—it soars, eagle-like, beyond reach of the petty darts of the common herd. I remember reading, when I was a child, a clerical review, in which a solemn, parallel was drawn between Byron and Shelley on the one hand and Pollok and Crabbe on the other. The two former, of course, after struggling a few short years with sound religious public opinion, were to become extinct as books; the two latter were to shine forever as stars of the first magnitude on the literary shelves of the reconstructed world. How is now, after the lapse of thirty years—after even the graves of the wicked poets have been dug up and earth ransacked for slanders against them? No library is complete without them all; and Dean Swift, Fielding, DeQuincey, Hudibras, George Sand, Eugene Sue, (Weem's Lives of Marion and Washington) and the New York Herald into the bargain. A liar of genius is always a first-class literary success, nowadays. Who is Joaquin Miller? Horse thief—bigamist—poet. Should his future career be that of the pure and fanatical Whittier in the book line, think you his stealing and wife-wronging would affect the circulation of his writings? If all that has been said against Napoleon Bonaparte were printed and collected, it would fill a forty-volume Encyclopaedia. But who can stand in fancy, beside the great magician of the battle field, and not forget all those errors,—not throw the hat in air, and, with tearful eye, shout "Huzza!" When, upon his entry from exile into the British France, he bared his breast to the advancing guard, and said, "Soldiers, if you would shoot your General, fire!" and their arms were dropped in an instant, how clearly defined was the power of Genius!—And is it not the same old story on the brink of the Robison of letters and at the portals of the city of Ink and Paper? Slander and calumny have done more to injure the name of the man who has been so gloriously and so justly vindicated than the liberators of that struggling state, who would have been his enemies on his triumphant return to England? Where are they, anyhow, and as it turned out? A swiftness, whirling corporal's guard, who are afraid to bear one rough, outspoken improper word, but who can plot and plan their neighbor's ruin, and carry more hidden bile and concealed weapons than Byron ever spit out in open day upon his enemies or fired boldly and above board, on the spur of the moment, at the man that offended him. A plague on all cur-dogs, that yelp and fuss over dead lions!

There has been a dreadful whining of late about the rapidly advancing strides of infidelity; and scientific men have been blamed with undermining the church.—Not a bit of danger—don't be scared, Sir Sauts—you were frightened into hysterics by Byron, and all the "wicked" poets. They have not hurt anything half as much as your own want of charity and common sense. There will always be plenty of Religion and Truth, at least just as much as there has been. Darwin can't hurt the average conscience and sensibility of the world—there must always be skeptics in Germany and the disease spreads into England and America. Do good deeds and live pure lives. Don't be always hacking away (like Don Quixote,) at some wretched, Fight the good fight of Faith—have an encouraging word in place of snarl for the man of Genius; and he will generally be your ally instead of your implacable foe.

The Chicago Tribune says that it is strange that all the scandals about the fraudulent safe-robbing in Washington and Chief Detective Whitley have not suggested expediency of abolishing the Secret Service altogether.

Harper's Weekly shows signs of fear that the Democratic Party will sweep the country in the next Presidential election. All the indications are favorable for us. Those individuals who are going over to the Republican at this late day, commit a grand mistake. The rats who flee from sinking ships may teach them wisdom.

An exchange notes the rumor that Douth, the great astronomer, died from excitement consequent upon discovering that the earth is approaching the sun so rapidly that in ten years it will be drawn into the sun and shriveled up. The paragraphist then adds the decidedly American comment: "This will be discouraging news to the Insurance Companies."

Another Church Scandal. A Clergyman Charged with Crime.—Considerable excitement was created in Jersey City, N. J., on Thursday, by the arrest of Rev. John S. Glendening, pastor of a Presbyterian church in that city, charged on the oath of Miss May E. Pomeroy, 25 years of age, the organist of his church, with being the father of her unborn child. It is said that Miss Pomeroy is a woman of extraordinary beauty, and that her intimacy with Mr. Glendening commenced about two years ago. That during all this time the lady has been the recipient of numerous gifts of affection from the accused, and that an engagement followed, but was broken off for some unexplained reason. After the arrest of Miss Pomeroy, when she was requested to marry her, "to this he made a direct refusal. Mr. Glendening in his examination before the magistrate accused Miss Pomeroy with having been intimate with six male members of his congregation. The accused was held to bail in the sum of $1,000 to await further examination.

FAST TIME.—The Charlotte Observer says of the recent visit of Dr. E. Burke Haywood, of Raleigh, to Hillsboro to attend upon Gov. Caldwell: "The fastest time ever made on the North Carolina Railroad for the distance was made by a special train on Saturday morning, carrying Dr. E. Burke Haywood from Raleigh to Hillsboro, to see Governor Caldwell. The distance is 42 miles; Billy Blake was the engineer, and he was running the Giles Mebane." From the time he pulled out of the switch at Raleigh, until he pulled up at Hillsboro was 55 minutes, and this included one stoppage of 5 minutes for wood. The actual time then consumed in running was 48 minutes for the 42 miles, or nine tenths of a mile a minute, and this, over some of the most crooked track on the road, when the engine was pulling but one coach, of which Dr. Haywood was the sole occupant.—News.

The South Carolina correspondent of the New York Times, a Radical paper, speaking of the white element of the negro party in South Carolina, writes as follows: "People of this sort, (carpet-baggers) have, by their many acts of indecent vulgarity, become a by-word in Columbia and Charleston, and have done much to injure the social standing of Northern agents of education and fine feeling. Their intercourse with the colored population is particularly offensive to all the respectable classes. Most of them are office-holders, and they will go to all lengths to secure the negro vote. Not only do they 'hob nob' with black men in public bar-rooms, but they invite that class of colored men called by His Excellency Gov. Moses 'good political niggers,' to their tables, and their wives and daughters do everything possible to secure them the influence of a Mr. Senator Bombo Gumberts, or the favor of such ignorant braggarts as Mr. Justice 'Sam' Dickinson. It is no uncommon just before election to see the fair daughter of a would-be Sheriff or Congressman sipping champagne to the health of some influential black man who before the war was a field hand on an island plantation. While this is true of some of the Northern people, it cannot be denied that many Southern Republicans go further in their efforts to secure the colored vote. It is a well known fact that at least two politicians of Charleston have married colored wives, and it is notorious that one of the most distinguished native white State Senators lives in preference in a family of colored people. With such examples before their eyes it is, perhaps, not to be wondered at that respectable negroes are beginning to feel themselves superior in some respects to the whites, or that the families of former slave owners refuse to admit the wives of Republicans to their homes.
