In 1872 the States of Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, which extend in an unbroken line from the Atlantic coast to the Mississippi river, and every one of which GRANT carried, gave him an aggregate majority of 397,000.

This fall these seven States have all gone against GRANT by an aggregate majority of 133,000. The history of politics in all the free for the purpose of erecting an states of he world does not furnish a parallel for so great a change as this. In the present House of Represe tatives, elected two years ago, GRANT secured a majority of one hundred and two. The Season of Intermittents.

All miasmatic complaints, in our words, all disorders generated by unwholesome exhalations from the earth or water, are prevalent at this season. In every section subject to the visitation of fever and ague or other forms of intermittent diseases, the causes which produce these maladies are now actively at work. This, therefore, is a period of the year when the inhabitants of such districts should prepare their systems to meet the unwholesome condition of the atmosphere, by a course of tonic and alternative treatment.
