The Daily Advocate is the name given a sprightly paper issued daily from the Christian Advocate Office, Raleigh, for the last week or ten days. We believe it was only promised to issue the daily during Conference, but a paper that has shown so much life should not die unsung. It was neat, spicy, newsy, religious, and has no doubt awakened new interest in the Methodist Church paper in the State, the Christain Advocate, as it has done great credit to its editors, and shown them to passess in an eminent degree the qualities necessary to conduct an able and successfull journal.

The New York Observer .- This most excellent weekly journal stands at the head of the religious newspapers of the country. After several years of intimate acquaintance with it, we have no hesitation in pronouncing it the best paper of its class we have ever seen. Its religious intelligence embraces every denomination in this and nearly all other countries. The Eight convicts left Charlotte for the broad and comprehensive spirit of liberality towards the various denominations effectually conceal the particular bias of the editor, Mr. PRIME.
