

Carolina Watchman.

APRIL 8.

CANVASERS WANTED.

We are offering liberal inducements to persons canvassing for the Watchman.

We invite attention to the programme to be observed at the Centennial at Charlotte.

The thieves have been rebuked by the Democrats of Connecticut. What will Grant the tyrant and traitor do about it?

It will be seen by a notice in this paper that a meeting of the Stock-holders in the Yadkin Railroad has been called for 8th of May next. It will be a meeting of very great importance to our people, and it is to be hoped that it will be well attended.

The election in Connecticut last Monday, resulted in a great Democratic victory. Democratic Governor, three Democratic Congressmen out of four, and a Democratic Legislature were elected. The gain is 2 Congressmen, and about 3000 increased majority for Governor.

We are indebted to the Hon. James M. Leach for a copy of his fine speech, delivered in the House of Representatives a few days before the adjournment of Congress. As we have said before, we have cause to be proud of our representative in Congress. No State can boast of such an array of talent, and no State has made such a record as North Carolina in the last Congress.

We are glad to see that the Charlotte Democrat takes the same position in regard to women lectures that we did last week. It is the only paper in the State, we believe, that has taken a similar position. This is gratifying, for we regard such interlopers as forerunners of evil. When we consider what has followed the lectures of the so-called strong minded women in the North, we can not but regard them as public pests. The true lady can not assume such a role, and aside from the unnatural and immoral aspect of the case, such conduct is to be deprecated, and ought not to be countenanced by good people.

It is said that the Hon. W. A. Graham will be the delegate to the Convention from Orange. If the people throughout the State will select such men we will have a Constitution worthy of our people. We have heard the Hon. Burton Craige spoken of as one of the most suitable candidates from this county. We have none better, and if such men as Graham, and Craige, and Davis, and Gaither, and Steele, and Manly and Howard are chosen, great good will result and satisfaction be given.

Several papers of the State are still discussing Vance, Merrimon, and Cox, and some with undue bitterness we think. This is to be deplored. It has been the policy of certain papers to denounce Merrimon, thinking that they were thereby doing Vance service, but never was there a greater mistake. Vance has thus been stabbed by his friends, while Merrimon has been made a martyr of, or in other words, benefited.

Vance and Merrimon are both North Carolinians of whom the State may well feel proud, and the attempt to elevate the one at the expense of the other, or to damage one to serve the other, will not work, and the sooner it is stopped, and a compromise is effected the better.

A writer in the Wilmington Journal takes the strange and untenable position, that a Legislature may call just such a Convention as it pleases; that is, that a Legislature calling a Convention may restrict its action; that the delegates elected must observe the whole bill, or the Convention will be a revolutionary body; that all Conventions must submit their work to the people, &c. There are no authorities quoted to sustain this new doctrine, and when we remember that it is in conflict with the ablest opinions and decisions of nearly all the American statesmen and jurists of the past and present century, we are inclined to doubt whether the writer is really in earnest or just writing to get up a discussion.

It is well known that Judge Gaston held that a Convention could not be restricted, and that Judge Ruffin, Bai Moore, and, in fact, all the ablest lawyers in N. C. have held the same opinions and do agree with him. Not only so, but there is a long array of opinions of Judges and lawyers outside of the State that might be added to strengthen that of Judge Gaston. We have not the opinions before us just now, but will collate them for the benefit of the writer referred to when the canvass for delegates to the Convention begins.

In the second place, the position that delegates must observe the whole bill (take the oath prescribed), or the Convention will be a revolutionary body, is equally untenable. In the face of the many able opinions to the contrary, we take it for granted that no intelligent gentleman, such as we know the aforesaid writer to be, will undertake to assert, unquestionably, that a part or provision of a law may not be set aside and the remainder hold good; and especially when such law is intended to bind a body that is amendable to no law,—a body whose members or delegates are invested with sovereign power, with power to abrogate gubernatorial and judicial commissions, legislative functions, and in short, to abolish all existing statute law in the commonwealth, and form a new Constitution subject to the requirements of the Federal Constitution only.

The Legislature has no power to change the Constitution, much less restrict a Convention that alone has the power. It can only propose changes and after the people have ratified them may adopt them.

Neither is the Convention, called for the special purpose of making changes in the Organic Law, bound to submit its work to the people for ratification, according to good authorities, and we hope that it will not do so, not that we are afraid to trust the people, but because we are opposed to incurring the additional expense of ratification, as well as to giving demagogues a chance to get up unnecessary excitement about a matter that may be more quietly and equally well disposed of by the Convention. Let us be sure that we select our wisest and best men to the Convention, and we need fear no danger, nor feel any anxiety about having the approval of the people.

Trying to Evade the Usury Law.

A bill to incorporate the Bank of Marion, S. C. passed its final reading in the South Carolina Legislature last week.— This is a new bank to be established at Marion by the stockholders of the Bank of New Hanover, and the citizens of Marion. The Bank of Marion will have ample facilities for accommodating the business men of Wilmington, or other points, who are willing to pay the market value of money; or nearly all the present capital of the Bank of New Hanover will be invested in the new institution. This action of the stockholders of the Bank of Marion will not doubt be followed by other banks in this State, so no sane man expects a bank to loan money at 8 per cent, when the expense of conducting a bank is nearly 8 per cent on its capital. Thus the usury bill of North Carolina drives capital from our own State into a neighboring State where there are no restrictions on money, and nobody gets any money for 8 per cent as far as heard from. Will our friends Pinch just stick right over the South Carolina line and take a few thousand "cents" at 1 1/2 per cent per month?—Wilmington Star.

If the Usury Law is really in existence in this State, it is very bad policy, we think, for any Bank in North Carolina to attempt to evade it by resorting to such a scheme as above indicated. The Banks had better do business at their own Banking Houses and not undertake to transfer their operations to towns in South Carolina.—Charlotte Democrat.

We think all the Bankers, Brokers, Stock-jobbers and those in favor of exorbitant Usury, who wish to leave the State should be encouraged to do so; for we are fully convinced that the people at large will be better off without them. This move, like many others that are threatened, is an attempt to create prejudice against the Act recently passed by the Legislature. They want, if possible, to produce a scarcity of money—to produce a panic—that they may charge it all to the Usury law. The fact is the present banking system is the most gigantic swindle that ever had the sanction of law, and the majority of those who control it is such as delight to increase their gains by preying upon the necessities of the people. The whole system is one of fraud and oppression, set up to benefit the few at the ruin of the many. If we have to be cursed with government banks, let the government operate them and use the profits for government purposes, after the manner of the English.

General Spinner says that there is scarcely a bank in the United States that has not forfeited its charter. If this is true, and we do not doubt it, why has not the law been enforced? The charters have been forfeited by violations of the law in charging excessive Usury and in other ways; but still the officer whose duty it is to see that the law is obeyed, has connived at fraud. This is not wondered at when we consider that the whole system is corrupt, engrafted to benefit the moneyed interest at the expense and burden of the producing classes. Money lenders had better respect the laws and resolve to be less exacting, for any other policy will be likely to prove damaging in the end. Let the law be enforced rigidly.

Grant and His Predecessor Collide.

A Washington letter says:—
Last night the President was out walking upon the avenue. He had his hands in his overcoat pockets, and he was puffing at a cigar in his usual stolid fashion. When he got down in front of the Imperial Hotel, where Andy Johnson lives he saw Mr. Johnson getting out of a street car. He quickened his pace to avoid meeting Mr. Johnson, but in vain. Andy came plunging through the crowd, and in crossing the sidewalk he ran right into the President, the two striking shoulders. The two men just glanced at one another. Neither saluted, or acknowledged in the slightest degree that they knew each other. Grant went on down the avenue, and Andy grimly walked toward the hotel, to read up the Constitution as an appetizer for his dinner.

Gov. BROOKE IN THE FIELD.—His LETTER TO THE SOLICITORS.—The Governor has made a move in the game matter. He has sent the following letter to the Solicitors of the 7th, 8th and 9th Judicial Districts:

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, Raleigh, March 30, 1875.

Sir:—I transmit herewith a certified copy of a law passed by the General Assembly at its late session entitled "An act in relation to changing gauge of railroads," ratified the 15th of March, 1875, and you are respectfully and earnestly requested to exercise due diligence in prosecuting and bringing to trial any President, Director, Secretary and Treasurer, or any other officer, servant or employee who has either directly or indirectly aided, encouraged or assisted in any manner whatever in changing the gauge of any part of the North Carolina Railroad, or what is commonly called the "North Carolina Division of the Richmond & Danville Railroad."

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
C. H. BROOKE,
Governor.

To F. N. Stradwick, Esq., Solicitor 7th Judicial District, Jos. Dobson, Esq., Solicitor 8th Judicial District, W. J. Montgomery, Esq., Solicitor 9th Judicial District.

The Raleigh News says: Solomon Pool, late President of the University, has brought suit against the Trustees for salary since the institution broke down under his management up to the time of the decision of the Supreme Court determining his existence. This is as cool a piece of impudence as can well be conceived. He has, during the years for which he claimed his pay, sat like a night-mare upon the institution until it stifled the very life out of it. In the meantime he was industriously engaged in buying all the real estate he could lay his hands upon at the depressed prices, reduced to their own low rates by his very presence, watching for this time when the revival of the institution would make him a millionaire. In this suit Solomon will go after wool and come home shorn.

Captions of Laws.

The following are the captions of some of the most important Acts and Resolutions passed at the late session of the Legislature:

- An act to repeal an act, entitled an act to provide for the payment of the interest of the lawful debt of the State.
- Resolutions of instructions to the Senators and Representatives in the United States Congress, asking for an appropriation sufficient to pay for the Court House in Davidson county, destroyed by United States troops.
- Resolution concerning the State debt.
- Resolution of respect to the memory of the late Tod R. Caldwell.
- An act to prevent the misapplication of the bonds, securities and other property and effects of the State.
- An act to regulate the fees of jailors.
- An act concerning the weighing of lint cotton.
- An act to allow the County Commissioners of Gaston county to levy a special tax.
- An act for the protection of magistrates and other persons.
- An act to provide for two additional terms of the Superior Court for the county of Mecklenburg.
- An act to incorporate Pleasant Grove Camp Ground in the county of Union.
- An act to amend the charter of the town of Lincolnton.
- An act to amend section 1, chapter 62 of the laws of 1873-74, of an act entitled an act to prohibit the sale of cotton within certain hours.
- An act to prevent live stock from running at large within Cabarrus and certain other counties.
- An act to provide for the passage of fish in the Catawba, Dan and Mays rivers.
- An act to incorporate the Cleveland Savings Bank in the town of Shelby in Cleveland county.
- An act in relation to lotteries and gift concerts.
- An act to prohibit the sale of spirituous liquors within one mile of Mutt's Grove Camp Ground, and of Rebooth church in Catawba county.
- An act to change the dividing line between the counties of Gaston and Lincoln.
- An act to allow Lincoln township, Lincoln county, North Carolina, to subscribe to the Chester and Lenoir Narrow Gauge Railroad.
- An act to punish the burning of grain and other products secured in stocks or otherwise out of doors.
- An act to empower the Commissioners of Cabarrus county to sell their present court house and jail lots and to levy a special tax.
- An act to prohibit the sale of intoxicating drinks within one mile of the Court House in the town of Dallas, Gaston county.
- An act supplemental to, and to amend an act entitled an act to prevent live stock from running at large within Cabarrus and certain other counties.
- An act to prevent the sale of intoxicating liquors within 2 1/2 miles of Rocky River Church in Cabarrus county.
- An act to prevent the felling of trees or putting obstructions in Big Bear Creek in Stately county.
- An act amendatory to the law concerning suits against Railway corporations.
- An act concerning banking institutions in this State.
- An act to incorporate the town of Albemarle in the county of Stately.
- An act to allow Catawba Springs township, Lincoln county, an additional Justice of the Peace.
- An act to divest the jurisdiction of the Superior Courts over misdemeanors in failing to list rolls and property, and for other purposes.
- An act providing a fence law for the counties of Abson, Union and Guilford.
- An act to incorporate the Mecklenburg Centennial Association.
- An act to provide for the colored insane of North Carolina.
- An act to amend an act to lay off and establish a public road in the counties of Davie and Davidson.
- An act to amend an act to be entitled an act to amend the charter of North Carolina Railroad Company and for other purposes therein mentioned, ratified 20th day of December, A. D., 1873.
- An act to incorporate the American Typo-Setting Machine Company.
- An act to authorize the establishment of public graded schools in the city of Charlotte.
- An act to change the time of holding the elections in this State in the year 1876.
- J. W. Douglas, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, has resigned, and Clinton L. Cobb, of North Carolina, will probably succeed him. It is the lack of such creatures to find that their dirty work pays.—News.

A ROYAL ORGAN.

The stomach has been well named a "royal organ," since it sways and controls the entire system, every gland, tissue and nerve sympathizing with it as the servants of a prince sympathize with their master. Each one of them is fed and sustained by it—even the brain itself, the centre of sensation, is absolutely dependent upon it for sustenance. Consequently, when the stomach fails to perform its all-important office, the subordinate organs also fail in their duty. The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have such a wondrously beneficial effect upon the general health, and are such a reliable preventive of disease, is that they speedily overcome weakness or disorders of the stomach, and thus insure complete nourishment of the entire system and a healthful performance of its various functions. Unlike those stimulants whose alcoholic principle is unmodified by judicious medication, the spiritous basis of these Bitters, which is of the purest description, holds in solution herbal alteratives and invigorants to which a foremost rank has been assigned in materia medica. But it is not alone the fact that these sovereign boric elements enter into the composition of the Bitters that constitutes them such a benign tonic and corrective, but also that they are so happily combined that the full effect of each is exerted upon the disordered or debilitated system. The digestive and secretive organs are the first to experience their beneficial operation, which extends, by sympathy, to the brain, the nerves and the circulation. The influence they exert is fruitful of those great sanitary results which have been upon the reputation of this truly national medicine.
