The Song of the croaker—"I told you so!"
The Democrats of Wake increased their vote 127. That will do.
Fillars that should be shaken down—
"The sweet to wait, but oh how bitter, To wait for a girl and then not get her."
It is a strange fact that when people indulge in high words they use low language.
The gardener who hung an old coat out to frighten birds away, and afterward found a young brood in one of the pockets, writes to us asking for another remedy.
There are 2,150 cubic inches in a level bushel, and for corn in the ear you must give three bushels half bushels, which equal two level bushels, making 4,300 cubic inches.
Nothing is so great an instance, of ill-manners as flattery. If you flatter all the company, you please none; if you flatter only one or two, you affront the rest.
A woman in Carson, Nevada, smoked one hundred pipefuls of opium in a single day, and dreamed that she was in another world. The fact is that the dream proved correct, for the opium killed her as dead as a cold pane.
General Adam Badeau is now a full fledged minister. The President's enemies think there is a dam bad omen about the appointment, suggests a Northern paper.
Ben Butler carries $150,000 life insurance, and when you wish he were dead you are theoretically defrauding the Louisiana companies out of a good deal of cash.
Judge Watt has a monkey in training. Gen. Leach says he (Leach) is now a convert to the Darwinian theory. It is "dog-monkey—Greasy Sam—Man."
The Republican party held Alabama from 1865 to 1872. During that time the slaves increased the public debt from $4,949,624.87 to 38,384,977.37.
When a Duluth woman wants to know why in blazes her husband didn't order that wood, he looks at her in a chiding, dignified way, and replies: "I do not wish to go to the Black Hills, but do not press me—do not rouse the tiger."
A Louisville girl reports her first love affair thus: "When Philander told me he loved me, I was mighty tick with it, and returned to him directly, and he sat a grinning like a baked skunk."
The death rate of the city of Charleston reached last week the very high figure of 80—whites, 38; colored 44; children under five years of age 45. This death rate is higher than for any week during the prevalence of the yellow fever in 1871, and is due doubtless to the intense heat and drought.
A man down in Lynn, Mass., it is said, made so many pairs of shoes in one day that it took two days to count them! He was a smart one, but not equal to one up in New Hampshire, who built so many miles of stone wall in one day that it took him all night and next day to get home!
A grand-daughter of Ethan Allen, aged nearly one hundred and one year, was visiting Springfield, Mass., a few days ago. Her name is Mrs. Juliana Graves. She is said to retain her faculties to a wonderful degree, and remembers her illustrious grandfather distinctly enough to describe his personal appearance, habits and dress in detail.
Having frequently appealed to his father to buy him a jack-knife, and receiving for an answer, "If you speak to me again on that subject I'll whale you," he went straightway to his mother, crying as if his heart would break, and said, "I can't never be good like George Washington, with such a dad as I have got."
Ex-President Johnson's death will be regretted by none more deeply than by the insurance companies. He was a believer in life insurance, and illustrated his faith by his acts, to an extent that is rare indeed, even nowadays. The aggregate of the policies on his life is no less than Three Hundred and Fifty Thousand dollars.
Australia shows an increase during seven years of 11,000,000 sheep and 2,000,000 head of cattle, without counting home consumption and the quantity of meat imported in tins. In New Zealand during the same period, the increase in the number of sheep and cattle was equally remarkable, the former multiplying from 8,418,579 to 11,694,862, and the latter 412,830 to 494,113.
One of the Siamese ambassadors, on returning home from Europe, gave the following description of a plane, forte, or, as he called it, "a great trunk set upon legs." He said: "A woman sits in front of this and tickling a sort of tail it has, with her toe, produces a variety of sounds by beating rapidly with her fingers on a number of little bits of ivory in front of her."
THREE MEN KILLED BY A DROP OF SWEAT.—A drop of perspiration has caused a terrible explosion in the pyrotechnic school at Toulon. A naval Lieutenant was filling bottles with dynamite, and the action and plus plate of calcium, and the story is that a drop of perspiration from his forehead falling, under certain conditions, on matter not explosive without contact with water, produced the catastrophe. At any rate, three persons were killed on the spot.

During the recent floods in France, a Newfoundland dog saved the lives of twelve persons, but was drowned in attempting to save the thirteenth.
Bone Felon.
The London Lancet—very high authority—gives the following remedy for the cure of this painful malady: "As soon as the pulsation which indicates the disease, is felt, put directly over the spot a fly blister, about the size of your thumb nail and let it remain for six hours; at the expiration of which time, directly under the surface of the blister may be seen the felon, which can be easily taken out with the point of needle or lancet."
[From the Denver Mirror.]
Theology in Colorado.
The report of a sermon by a Fremont county preacher is worth repeating here: "Boys, you'll find this life just like a game of seven-up. You want to save your tens and look out for game, an' never beg when you hold a good hand. Also, reposit in the long run low counts as much as high it is only a trump. The devil has staked the cards, but just play 'em honest, and when it comes your deal you bound to get a winnin' hand every time, and old split-hoof will just have to jump the game and look for a softer snap. Also, if you happen to turn Jack call it lucky, but don't forget to remember that turning Jack is uncertain business and 'I'll not do to bet on."
INDULGENCE.—The great foe of life is indulgence under one form or another. The letting down of the standard endangers the length of the course. To be safe one must be circumspect, prudent, ratio, clear in judgment, firm in self-control. To the command over his appetite a man will owe long days; and not length of days only, but more continuity, but that which gives to continuity its significance—namely, the power to enjoy—which makes prolonged existence something worthy of being called a "leap of life," and not a stretch of drowsy torpor. As vitality comes to the system, it bests off its foes, and conquers one after another the advancing years.
THE PROVIDENCE DRILLING.—A negro man from the city was at Providence yesterday, and returning last evening, confirms the report which we published yesterday, of the negroes drilling. He says that they have been listening to the teachings of one Jim Steele, a negro preacher, who actually made the remark that "we will carry this box if we have to swim in blood." Steele told the negroes that he had been sent out by the government to preach this doctrine to them. After collecting what money he could out of them, he ran away. The negro who was at Providence yesterday, is a Radical, and the Radicals can therefore make out of this affair whatever they choose.—Char. Observer.
The Charlotte Democrat says: We hope the Trustees of the North Carolina University will elect Hon. Jefferson Davis President of that Institution, and offer him a salary of ten thousand dollars. While we have differed to a considerable extent with Mr. Davis in some of his ideas on public matters, we believe he will make a first rate President of an Educational Institution. He is honest, candid and a good man in every sense of the word. The man who denounces Jefferson Davis is either ignorant of his character or too mean to admire a bold, good man.
That old Cry.
The Washington Chronicle has defined its position again. It wants to make treason odious by punishing the Southern leaders; then it will "forgive and execute the masses." To which remarks responds the Richmond Enquirer: "Why bless its innocent soul, there is now no treason to be made odious, save that which exists in the Radical camp; and as for the masses of the Southern people, they feel that they have rights in the Union as great as those enjoyed by any of their fellow citizens, and all that they ask is to be permitted peacefully to exercise the constitutional prerogatives of self-government. Surely there is nothing in such constitutional demands to alarm any real Northern patriot!"
THE VALUE OF A QUART OF CREAM.— "A Farmer's Wife" desires to know what the value of a quart of cream is when compared with the price of butter per pound. In former times she has measured and weighed, and proved that a quart of cream would make a pound of butter, and she had bought it and always paid the price that butter was worth at the time. The following is the result of a few experiments: The first week from fourteen quarts of cream there were made fifteen and three-fourths pounds of butter; the second week, from fifteen quarts, seventeen pounds; third week, fourteen quarts, sixteen pounds—a gain of one pound in seven quarts. But the quantity of the butter will always depend upon the purity of the cream. In many instances when milk is being skimmed, nearly as much milk will be removed as there is cream. But it is a safe rule to assume that a quart of good cream will make a pound of butter.
Kentucky.
The election in Kentucky on Monday resulted in an overwhelming Democratic victory, which effectually relieves all apprehensions to all the existence among the people of that State of any serious dissensions or differences of political opinion. Before the election there were many reports current to the effect that the Democracy was divided, and that great gains might be expected in the Radical "levy," by reason of the prevalence of "Independents." These rumors are set at rest by the result, as other similar reports, which come nearer home, will doubtless be similarly disproved by the certain test of an election. Indications of disaffection are frequently exaggerated, and are found, when closely investigated, to consist in the loud noise of a few instead of the sincere feeling of any considerable number.—Pe. Index.

New Trial of the Beecher-Tilton Case.
New York, Aug. 3.—Mr. Morris, counsel of Tilton says that undoubtedly the new trial will be short as they propose now to try Beecher for adultery as he has been tried on several outside collateral matters. He says there is testimony of great importance which will materially alter the complexion of things and which will prove Beecher guilty. General Prior says three leading witnesses for Tilton in the next trial will be Lee, the druggist, Henry C. Bowen, and Joseph Richards, Mrs. Tilton's brother.
Women in India.
According to the Hindoo law giver, a woman has no god on earth but her husband, and no religion except to gratify, obey and serve him. Let her husband be crooked, old, infirm, offensive; let him be irascible, irregular, a drunkard, a gambler, a debauchee; let him be reckless of his domestic affairs, as if possessed by a devil; though he live in the world without honor; though he be deaf or blind, and wholly whirled down by crime and infirmity—still shall his wife regard him as her God. With all her might shall she serve him, to all things obey him, and in all respects be his obedient slave. All defects in his character, and all causes of uneasiness. Nay, more; in every stage of her existence, woman lives but to obey—at first her parents, next her husband and his parents, and in her old age she must be ruled by her children. Never, during her whole life, can she be under her own control. These are the general principles upon which the life of woman in India is to be conducted.
FOOD MEDICINE.—Dr. Hall relates the case of a man who was cured of his biliousness by going without his supper and drinking freely of lemonade. Every morning, says the doctor, this patient arose with a wonderful sense of rest and refreshment, and a feeling as though the blood had been literally washed, cleansed and cooled by the lemonade and the fast. His theory is that food will be used as a remedy for many diseases successfully.— As an example, he cures cases of spitting blood by the use of salt; epilepsy and yellow fever by watermelons; kidney affections by celery; poison, olive or sweet oil; erysipelas, poisoned crabbers applied to the parts affected; hydrophobia, onions, etc. So the way to keep in good health is really to know what to eat—not to know what medicine to take.
THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL TO BE TESTED.—A fair and square test case under the civil rights law will now be made up in Indiana. In direct violation of the State statute Frank Miller, white has married Mary A. Gintis, colored, and is in jail for so doing. The marriage license was regularly issued by the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Clark county, and the ceremony was regularly performed by a Methodist clergyman of New Albany, who has been indicated together with the incarcerated bridegroom. The trial is fixed for October. Miller is a German by birth; has been in this country about six years, and declares that he loves his wife, and would "rather have her than any white woman he ever saw." She is described as a "decent, honest woman," and both announce their intention of fighting the matter to the end.
The Editorial profession is denominated the "Fourth Estate." We call it the "Scattered Estate." Bits of our estate are lying about loose all the way from Passauquoddy Bay to Matamoros. A dollar here, two dollars there and five yonder, scattered high and low, held in all sorts of pocket-books by all sorts of people; not much in any one place, but a good sum if it could be aggregated;—Such is the situation of the Printer's Estate, and all that he has to secure his property, is the very natural honesty of any man who reads the Southern Home regularly. Occasionally a rasal swindler us of a portion of our Estate, but he is some fellow who has borrowed a Radical paper, and gotten demoralized. Persons who have rented two dollars and a half's worth of our Estate, will please call and get a receipt for the annual rent.—Southern Home.
Lost Arts.
In man's haste to make discoveries, to covet novel inventions, and to learn new things, he is liable to lose in his excursions into the realms of the unknown the knowledge of some of the arts which he has been at great pains to acquire.— Consequently it nettles us to hear that the ancients knew all about mearle glass, and that some of their artisans were able to execute various works in a style that still excites our envy and admiration. Of late, however, there has been, and notably in Venice, a revival of some of the arts given up as irrevocably lost. The production of this fabric, which existed before that of Lyons, and was used by the Doges for gifts to other potentates, employed at one time fourteen thousand hands. Some of the stuffs were of extraordinary quality and great beauty, but the secret died with the inventors. In recent times some of the European nobility have succeeded in obtaining the manufacture of very beautiful brocaded tapers, at a cost of twenty dollars per yard. The lace work for which the small island of Burano, near Venice, was once famous, is also being revived. Under the auspices of the Princess Giovannelli, the Countess Marcello, an aged woman who remembers and understands the art, has been engaged to give instruction in it. The cost of this lace is very great, the production of a single yard occupying a woman constantly for nearly six months. There is a lively demand for the first specimens. All this may be indirectly attributed to the rage in Europe for articles bearing the marks of antiquity. At first dealers get to counterfeiting, and afterwards competition among themselves suggests the rediscovery of the real thing. History constantly repeats itself, and if the existence of this planet is prolonged through a million years, the people of that age will probably have forgotten many things we now know, and will be seeking the ideas of steam power and electric forces.

The most complete specimen of the living English bibliomaniac is a Mr. Crossley, of Manchester, who has a library of 50,000 books, and actually knows what is in them. He has the only complete set of all the editions of De Foe, and sundry other and earlier writings. The British Museum and other great public libraries are watching his death. Mr. Crossley will answer any question about any book or pamphlet ever published in England, give its date, tell anything special in it, and all without touching a volume. He is eighty; he was a personal friend of Charles Lamb and other literary men of past generations; and yet, with the exception of a few excellent papers contributed to the Retrospective Review in 1820, he has written nothing and when he dies a great bibliographer will perish.
SAVE THE SOAPSUDS. However deplorable washing day may be to the house-hold and the careful house mistress or tidy maid has it in her power to greatly modify its discomforts, to the garden it is a very beautiful day. Our hungry and thirsty grape vines and flowers are glad of every drop of wash water, and will repay every bit of fatigue it may cost us to give them this fertilizer. If the sun is shining hot when we go out to dispense our labor, it is best for us to dig a slight trench not far from the root of the plant, and pour the water into it, and cover again with the top soil. This makes the water go further, and at the same time does not tempt the rosettes to the surface of the ground.—Dutchess Farmer.
Operations of a Band of Brigands.
For some time past the citizens of Western New York and Northwestern Pennsylvania have been greatly alarmed by the depredations of burglars and highwaymen. In one instance a house was broken into at midnight, the inmates captured and bound, and the male members harshly treated. The robbers had learned that a large sum of money was secreted in or about the house. They demanded with threats of death there "that $10,000" was concealed, but finding no money they departed, threatening that if an alarm was given they would return and kill the inmates. On Saturday night, five stores at Randolph, New York, were broken into and rifled of their entire contents, the value of the property being estimated at $50,000. They are apparently not satisfied with invasions of private rights, but they have attempted to throw trains from the Atlantic and Great Western and Allegheny Valley railroads, and in one instance the attempt was successful.
A Dabque medical student has come to grief by reason of his remarkable technical knowledge. The young man to whom he was attached one morning received the following note: "Dear Angeline, I am sorry to inform you that in consequence of a circumscribed subcutaneous inflammation, characterized by a pointed pulsular tumor suppurating in the center of a curuculus, I am unable to enjoy the pleasure of your company to the Hippodrome. Ever, dearest, thine, Augustus." She read it; she rushed to his home in an agony of apprehension, and found that he had only one of those things of which Job had so many. When she returned home her sensible mother told her that she had better drop that erudite young man; if married he would, doubtless, beggar his family by buying Latin Dictionaries and such. The maternal advice was followed; and now A. suffers from something worse than a curuculus.
ABOUT MILKING.
Five per cent., and perhaps ten, can be added to the amount of milk obtained from the cows of this country, if the following rules are inexorably followed.
1. Never hurry cows, in driving to and from the pasture.
2. Milk as nearly at equal intervals as possible. Half past five in the morning and six at night are good hours.
3. Be especially tender of the cow at milking times.
4. When seated, draw the milk as rapidly as possible; being certain always to get it all.
5. Never talk or think of anything beside what you are doing when milking.
6. Offer some carress and always a soothing word when you approach a cow and when you leave her. The better she loves you, the more free and complete will be her abandon as you sit at her side.
We append the not uncommon practice:
1. Let some boy turn the cows away, and get him out of the way of throwing stones and wincing the hind eyes every time he gets a chance.
2. Milk early in the morning and late at night, dividing the day into two portions, one of fifteen hours and the other nine.
3. Whack the cow over the back with the stool, or speak sharply to her if she does not "moo" or "boast."
4. Milk slowly and carefully, and stop at the first slacking of the fluid.
5. Talk and laugh, and perhaps squirt milk at companion milkers, when seated at the cow.
6. Keep the animal in a tremble all the time you are milking, and when done give her a vigorous kick.—Ex.

The Masonic Journal.
TO THE MASONIC FRATERNITY IN NORTH CAROLINA AND THE SOUTH.
THIS is emphatically an age of progress. The world moves on, but with us, especially of the South, Masonry languishes, because lacking a proper dissemination of those pure principles peculiar to our old Order. Our brethren of other more favored sections have their periodical literature, and are bright and prosperous; we, too, should flourish and blossom as the rose.
There are in the South nearly 200,000 Freemasons, and recognizing the imperative need for a regular and permanent Organ peculiarly suited to the demands of this vast number "who are linked together by an indissoluble chain of sincere affection," we have determined to establish in the city of Greensboro, N. C. a first-class with the above name, such as the dignity and advancement of the Fraternity will approve. Its Literature will be composed of the highest order; making the JOURNAL a fit companion for the most cultivated and refined, and a welcome visitor to any household. In this connection we have engaged the services of able and popular writers whose hearts glow with a fond desire for the perpetuity of the Ancient Landmarks of our "Mystic Rites," and we will spare neither labor nor expense to make the paper a highly instructive and popular Family and Masonic visitor.
With a journalistic experience of several years, and a determination to give all our time, talent and energy to the promotion of this important enterprise, we hope to receive from our Masonic brethren that liberal confidence and support which, by an entire devotion to its success, we hope to merit.
It will be an eight page, thirty-two column sheet, printed on good white paper, and furnished weekly at the low price of $2 per year. The first number will be issued on Wednesday, the 5th of September, 1875, and regularly on Wednesday of each week thereafter.
All money should be sent by Check, Post-office Order or Registered letter.
