This has been an unusually quiet court dens of a hopeless remnant of days.

We notice in the city; Col. C. S. Brown, of the National Hotel, Raleigh. He is looking fine.

The weather changed-got cold Friday night, and staid so till Monday, when a cold rain set in.

The Commissioners have had the Gas tarned on in thg street lamps. This is a good move and shows that they have a disposition to please the tax-payers, who complained of being left in the dark, by the action of the board some time ago. They can find their way hone on dark nights now, and are happy.

There is something fine in store for our citizens, in the way of a Grand Musical Concert. There will be music of every description, from the simple song to the artistic opera, and from the pretty quicksteps of "Band No. 2," to the soul-thrilling strains of the famous "Salisbury Silver Cornet Band;" together with flutes, violins, trombones, piano's, &c. Turning around and not seeing anything, I rose and went softly the snowy image of a flower-boy peeped towards the cellar door and looked behind a barrel standing there and saw what I took to be an opossum. Retreating and arming myself with a stick I advanced again and began an attack, when to my great surprise a monster rat, instead of an opossum, ran out and made good his escape under a pile of wood in the cellar.
