

LOCAL.

Rev. Mr. Hughes, of South Carolina, will preach in the Lutheran church next Sabbath.

Lt. Theo. Parker, of this place, has gone to Arizona Territory, to join his company of U. S. troops.

REV. L. E. FERREE.—If this clerical gentleman of color has any respect for his character, he should report himself at this office without delay.

Xmas is only a few days off now—the boys want to know about the popping of fire crackers, &c. One little chap says he will pop corn if they won't let him pop crackers. Sensible.

The Rev. J. J. Renn, the new preacher for the Methodist church of this place, occupied the pulpit last Sunday morning. The same pulpit was occupied at night by Rev. W. P. McCorkle.

The alarm of fire was given just at dark last Saturday evening, and a good many people were excited. It proved to be a chimney burning in the house of Prof. W. H. Neave, opposite the Boyden House.

We acknowledge an invitation to attend the first semi-annual contest of the "Pi-sigma-phi" and "Phi-lambda-theta" Literary Societies, of the North Carolina College, at Mt. Pleasant, Dec. 20, 1887.

The Salisbury Hook and Ladder Company have been given $200 by the town for uniforms. They are now well organized for work, with Theo. F. Klutz, President.

The colored Fire company have also been given $100 for the same purpose.

The Lutheran congregation of this city have extended a call to the Rev. L. A. Bickle, D. D., of Concord, N. C. This congregation has been without a pastor for some time and we hope they will succeed in getting so good a man as the Rev. Mr. Bickle. He preached in that church last Sunday.

Mr. Frank Brown killed a wild goose last week on the Yadkin River, measuring 5 feet 4 inches from tip to tip and 3 feet from bill to tail, at a distance of 125 yards. He shot it with a 28 inch, double-barrel shot gun, which, by the way, is about the best gun in this section.

Mr. Thos. E. Brown has just returned from an extensive prospecting tour through northern Texas. He has not definitely decided where he will locate—He seems to be favorably inclined towards Denton, a flourishing town just building up in a very fine section.

Mr. A. B. Coit preached in the Presbyterian church last Sunday night, by invitation. Mr. Coit has not yet finished his course at Hampton Sidney, but preached a good and well balanced sermon. He is well known here, and his friends have brilliant hopes for his future.

We notice the County Commissioners are doing a good deal of repairing on the county jail. The workmen have been engaged some time on the roof and in the interior. We are glad to mention this, for if reports are true improvement was greatly needed.

Col. C. S. Brown, of the National Hotel, Raleigh, N. C., will, we learn, come back to Salisbury and take charge of the Boyden House. Mrs. Dr. Reeves having turned over her lease of the Boyden to him. Col. Brown is one of the best hoteliers in the State, and we are glad to welcome him again in our midst.

The residence of Mr. Jacob A. Klutz was entered through the window, last Friday about noon, and about $5.28 in silver taken from the upstairs. The money belonged to two little boys, the nephews of Mr. Klutz. They each had a snuff box and their savings deposited therein, which they kept in their trunk.

Mr. Klutz lives 6 mile from Salisbury on the Wilkesboro road.

We publish on first page an extract of a letter from midshipman, R. HENDERSON, dated Monrovia, Africa. The writer had no idea his letter would be published, and so wrote in an free and easy way about things which came under his observation. It is not without special interest to those colored people who are thinking about going to Africa to live.

Paper Flour Barrels.—There is a factory in Syracuse, N. Y., for the manufacture of paper flour barrels. They are described as lighter than other kinds, and so nicely made that there can be no waste of flour. They are also cheaper than wooden barrels. We have had paper water buckets, wash pans, dippers, ear wheels, &c., for several years. The Japanese make umbrellas, pocket handkerchiefs, houses, and hundreds of other things of paper, which in fact is said to constitute a large part of their wealth.

Rev. W. C. Gannon, for the past year pastor of the Methodist church in this city, will move to his new appointment in Wayne, this week. The citizens generally part with Mr. Gannon with regrets. He has discharged most acceptably his pastoral duties here, and will make a telling addition to the community to which he is going. He was appointed to go to Ireland, but exchanged with Rev. Mr. Wheeler, for Wayne.

WHEEL.—We learn from the Anderson, S. C. Journal, that the ardent connected with Hilliard and Hunting's circus, fell from the trapeze, striking a "cypress knee" which penetrated his body, and his neck was also broken. This occurred at Manning, S. C. Some may remember that he "went up" at this place with an oak on his hips. He said he intended to make 200 ascensions and had made over 200 of them when he was here.

Professor J. H. Denck, has been in our city for several days and hopes to give a musical concert soon. Prof. Denck, enjoys the reputation of being the best pianist in the United States. We have seen many complimentary notices of his wonderful performances in the State press, and if he gives the proposed concert, our people will hear something not excelled by the prodigy, Blind Tom.

Clarence Holt, son of Jno. A. Holt, Esq., fell from the roof of the latter's residence last Saturday morning, a distance of 15 feet. No bones were broken, but he is very much bruised. A tin roof had just been put on the house, and young Holt went up to paint it,—the frost had not yet dried, it being on the shady side of the house. His feet slipped from under him, and he shot off some feet from the house, his feet striking first, then his back.

Last Saturday night the moon passed nearly directly between the earth and the planet Venus. The occultation was not complete, but beautiful. When first noticed, Venus was just above, and it seemed as if she intended to drop in the lap of the moon, which was a crescent with the bowl up. She did not do this, however, but passed to the left till it reached the lower point of the crescent, where it seemingly hung, making a most beautiful celestial sight.

Cruel Mistake.—The distant friends of CHARLES PRICE, Esq., of this city, have been writing him gushing letters of congratulation on his marriage, and he, poor fellow, is not only not married, but must answer these letters and say he is not, thus losing the benefit of the finely wrought epistles so especially designed to please him and the fair one he was supposed to have chosen to share the fortunes of his life. It is a case of mistaken identity.

Mr. CHAS. N. PRICE is the happy man, and Mr. Chas. (without the N.) is yet waiting to be blessed.

Entomology.—Judge Watts appeared at Meroney's Hall, Monday evening according to notice, for the purpose of delivering a lecture on beetles, worms and moths, with especial reference to publishing a cheap and sure method he claims to have discovered for the destruction of those insects which deplete on garden and field crops. Owing to very imperfect notice he failed in obtaining an audience. He did, however, explain to a few persons present, the nature of his discovery, for which he has obtained a patent. The Judge has evidently been studying his subject, and confidently claims to have a sure thing, and one of great value to the public. He goes from here to Charlotte.

"I've got something to help fill up your paper, Mr. Editor?"

"Ah! have you though?"

"Yes Sir, a real good thing!"

"What is it?"

"It's about my sow and pigs, the biggest show in the county. You know I have been selling pigs for the last two years, and my fine Essex sow has the best litter, four weeks old, you ever saw. I would be mighty glad if you would come out and see them, and just tell the people all about them."

"And you will give me a pair for the trouble?"

"Good Lord, I sell them at $10 a pair, and couldn't stand that."

Well, let me advertise them—it will cost you only two or three dollars.

"Oh, I thought you wanted something to fill up your paper, but—good morning, Mr. Editor."

Exit Sly.

STEAM-BOAT.—Mr. Frank Brown has been at work some time trying to get a steam-boat on the Yadkin River. He now has things in ship shape and will, we doubt not, in a short time have a boat plying between this place and points along the river as high up as Huntsville, in Yadkin county. This will prove a most convenient and serviceable thing for the people along the river as a cheap and quick way of transporting grain, &c., to mill and to market. Congress has been petitioned for an appropriation to aid in this work. Said appropriation to be used in connection with the private subscriptions Mr. B. has been getting up. Mr. Robbins has, we notice, introduced a bill, asking for a survey of the river, which has been turned over to the committee on commerce. We sincerely hope and believe, that the committee will report favorably.

In the session of 74-75, our State Legislature granted to certain parties a charter to run pike or steam boats from this point to Wilkesboro, which charter has been turned over to Mr. Brown and his associates, for a term of years.

Mr. Brown is a go-ahead, do-what-he-says man, and is endowed with an unusual amount of energy, the one thing requisite to make this scheme a success. The waters of this stream should have been utilized years ago, but have not been. We are happy to say that the way is fast opening and ere long we will hear the steam whistle echoing along the fertile banks of this beautiful stream.

One of the most ingenious inventions of the day is Mason's Music Charts, by the use of which any one, even a child, can learn to play on piano or organ, in tolerable style, in one day, and no previous knowledge of music is necessary. It is being introduced in the South by A. C. Morton, of Atlanta. Read his advertisement in our paper, and if you doubt the claims, send for his circular; it will fully satisfy you. We hope to see the Charts shortly introduced here.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS WILL BUY a bottle of Shiner's Indian Vermifuge, the most reliable agent in destroying and expelling worms from children and adults. Try it. Every bottle guaranteed to give satisfaction.

OBITUARY.

The Late Mrs. Philo White.

The late Mrs. NANCY R. WHITE, nee Hampton, was born at Salisbury, N. C., on the 24th of September, 1802, and was married to Philo White, (born at Wiley, N. Y., the 9th of May, 1822, he being then editor of the Western Carolinian, at Salisbury. Her father was one of the numerous families of Hamptons in both Carolinas, and her mother was a daughter of Colonel James Brandon, commander of the First Regiment of the North Carolina Loyalists of the Continental Regulars, who aided in successfully fighting the battles of liberty all through our nation's heroic struggle for independence, in 1776. With this lineage of Scotch-Irish Presbyterian blood she was nurtured and educated in the rigid religious morality characteristic of that persuasion of Christians; consequently, during the whole course of her mature life, a never-failing devotion to the strictest religious observances marked her daily walk.

On her removal with her husband to the State of Wisconsin, where he attained many prominent positions, legislative and otherwise, they both attached themselves to the Protestant Episcopal Church there, her husband having been, as a lay delegate in the primary convention, an active member of the same, along with the eminent Missionary, Bishop Kemper, in founding the Church and Diocese of Wisconsin. Both having been confirmed by Bishop Kemper, as members of that Church, they both contributed their time and their humble means in building up the Church in that State. On this changing (in 1845) their religious associations, Mrs. White especially engaged with renewed zeal in the extension of Christ's Kingdom, employing nearly all her working hours in laboring for the benefit of the then new Church of St. Luke's, at Eau Claire, where she and her husband donated a rectory (or parsonage) to the parish, while he was one of the earliest and liberal founders and patrons of Racine College in that town.

Mr. White having been appointed as a Diplomatic Agent of the Government abroad, first, as Consul General to the Free Haeseatic Cities of Hamburg, Lubeck and Altona, Mrs. White, in the midst of a world of fashionable gaieties that surrounded her, never swerved from the rigid religious morality in which she was reared and educated, persistently declining to desecrate the Sabbath by mingling in diplomatic festivities on that holy day, which the world thought that official position might persuade her to attend.

Subsequently, Mr. White having been commissioned as United States Minister Resident at Quito, in the Republic of Ecuador, Mrs. White accompanied her husband thither in 1853. More important functions, and broader and more delicate responsibilities, were thrust upon him and his family in that position, and he had hitherto been accustomed to demanding, in accordance with diplomatic courtesy, a yielding of home-prepossessions to the requirements of international usages, &c. But Mrs. White was proof against all such temptations by which it was sought to overcome her prejudice (as they termed it) against mingling in innocent festivities on the Sabbath day. When it was found that she was unyielding and persistent in her non-attendance on such occasions whenever they occurred, she was named a member of the Diplomatic Corps of high grade suggested a change of the Sunday festivals to Thursday evenings—whereupon the Government officials and the leaders of the dominant party adopted this course, and the presence of the entire family of the representative of the great Northern Republic was thereafter welcomed to all the diplomatic festivals at the capital, and Mrs. White was applauded and congratulated by all right-minded people for her triumph in behalf of her moral and religious convictions.

On Mr. White's repeated applications to be relieved from that mission, after an official residence of five years at Quito, he and his family returned home, and took up their residence in his native town of Wiley, in 1859. And during the intervening nineteen years, not only the citizens of the community of their residence, but of the city of Utica and the entire county, and of the diocese of the Episcopal Church, and the presence of the entire family of the representative of the great Northern Republic was thereafter welcomed to all the diplomatic festivals at the capital, and Mrs. White was applauded and congratulated by all right-minded people for her triumph in behalf of her moral and religious convictions.

Her remains have been encased in an airtight metallic casket, for transmission to her native town of Salisbury, N. C., for interment in Oak Grove Cemetery, which has kindly offered for that purpose, and which was thronged with the sympathetic and sorrowing people of the place, who had long known the excellence of the deceased. The burial office was read by the pastor of the parish, Rev. Mr. Madison, and an address delivered by Rev. Dr. Gibson, of Utica, who also read the committal service over the remains.

REMARKS OF BISHOP DOGGETT ON THE PUBLIC CHARACTER OF BISHOP MARVIN, ON OCCASION OF HIS FUNERAL, BEFORE THE N. C. CONFERENCE.

I do not propose to give a biographical sketch of the life of my distinguished colleague. That duty will be fully performed on another and a more fitting occasion. All that is necessary or appropriate, at present, is a reasonable recognition of his worth and a wise improvement of the sad event which gives character to these exercises. It is eminently proper that an annual Conference, receiving the solemn information, during its session, should, in some way, commemorate, however inadequately, the character of a general superintendent of the church, and especially of one who has rendered himself illustrious in its service. Such a tribute is due to exalted merit, on the one hand, and to the high relation which he sustained to a large and prosperous denomination of Christians on the other. Above all, it is due to that grace which bestows so rich a gift upon his church. In honoring his memory, we glorify God. In appreciating his virtues, we improve our cause.

1. Bishop Marvin was comparatively unknown to Southern Methodism until his election to the Episcopacy in the year 1866. He was however well known to Methodism in Missouri and in Texas, and stood pre-eminent in that sphere, as a man of original power and dauntless zeal, as a preacher. It was that knowledge which induced the Trans-Mississippi delegations in the General Conference, though not a member of it, to present his claims as their first Bishop. The result has fully justified the wisdom of their selection and the action of the General Conference.

2. He was one of those remarkable instances which have signalized and adorned the itinerant system. Raised in human life, on the then frontier of Western Evangelization, and trained by its fostering care, he burst forth as a star of the first magnitude and gradually ascended to meridian altitude and splendor, without those advantages since so accessible to others.

3. The salient point of his subsequent career was in his investiture with the Episcopacy. It placed him in a position which gave scope and stimulus to his abilities and his zeal. His latent energies seemed, as it were, to await the opportunity, for which he was designed. It was the summit level from which the eagle made his gaze and took his flight, after trying his pinions, for awhile, finally made the circuit of the world.

4. His intellectual capacity was projected on a scale of commanding command. It possessed unusual breadth and penetration. It could grapple with the great questions of theology and philosophy, and was fond of metaphysical speculations, in which he occasionally indulged. He could have distinguished himself in the field of analytic enquiry, had he devoted himself to its abstractions. But he was too practical to follow his fascinations.

5. As a preacher, he took rank in the highest grade amongst us, by the generalization of the doctrinal positions, the fertility and originality of his conceptions, and the copiousness and wealth of his diction. To this, were added the depth and soundness of his religious views, and the unctious and the pathos and transport of many of his discourses. Like all preachers, he was sometimes unequal, and did himself injustice, if I may say so, by unremitting toil. He was indefatigable as a preacher. He coveted the pleasure, and seemed never to lose an opportunity to proclaim, the gospel. I am persuaded that he often transcended the limits of human prudence, in this respect, considering his value to the cause of God. The zeal of the Lord's horse literally consumed him. I am sure he never regretted it. We are the mourners; not he.

6. He displayed all the requisite traits of an effective Bishop. He was wise and prompt and clear in his administration, affectionate and firm in his decisions, and self-sacrificing in his labors. He counted not his life dear unto himself. He was a bright example of activity and fidelity to the preachers over whom he presided; honored, beloved, and admired by the whole connection as one of its chief pastors.

7. The most conspicuous of all his efforts were his mission to China and his tour around the world. The General Conference in Louisville required one of the Bishops to visit that distant region in order to organize the work and ordain the native preachers and give assurance of our interest in the prosperity of the Mission. The lot fell on Bishop Marvin, by election of his colleagues. He fulfilled his errand completely, gave a new impulse to the enterprise at home and abroad, and had the honor of being the first Bishop of the M. E. Church, South, in a foreign land. Next in importance to these events, was his visit to the British Conference in Bristol, where he was received by the Mother Conference of us all, and represented the M. E. Church, South, accurately and eloquently in the Metropolis of Methodism in the world. This official recognition was the link that completed the brilliant circle of Methodist success and Methodist unity; and in that position his name will ever stand.

8. He was a prolific and instructive writer. His pen was scarcely less ready than his tongue. He wrote spontaneously, and not by constraint, and with a freedom and vivacity that charmed his readers. He was the author of several volumes, was selected by the family of Bishop Andrew to write his life—a work which, I presume he did not live to accomplish. The most memorable productions of his pen were his letters from the East, in which he displayed an extraordinary maturity in epistolary literature. He imparted valuable information to the Church, and stirred its very depths on the subject of foreign Missions. Had he done nothing else, this would have been an achievement worthy of his fame. The effect will long survive him, in enlarging the views and awakening the enthusiasm of the Church on the wide theatre of the world's salvation. They were almost universally read with delight. Their publication, in a volume, was demanded, and he was concluding the pages when his useful pen dropped forever from a hand smitten with the stroke of death. That volume will remain as a consecrated memorial of his life's last labors in the cause of Christ.

9. After the vicissitudes and perils of a journey of 25000 miles, accomplished in 10 months, and with the honors of a full-filled commission, he returned to his native land and his loved home with such advantages, to resume his Episcopal functions among an admiring people, filled with the joyous expectation of renewing his rounds of duty, and rejoicing his colleagues in their designated work. Alas, for human calculations! We know not what a day may bring forth. Four months only were added to his return. No premature decline, no premonitory signals indicated the catastrophe. In the midst of his labors, in the prime of his manhood, standing on the grand climacteric of his life, in the plenitude of his vigor, he was arrested by disease, and one short week terminated his earthly career. Bishop Enoch M. Marvin is actually dead! He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him. The shock of his death still repeats its melancholy echoes amongst the churches.

10. According to human estimate, his death is an incalculable loss to Southern Methodism. Let us not so interpret it. The life and death of such a man are both a gain to the cause of God. His work was done, and God took him, and left the result to us. His death was a gain to himself. He was ready. The Master called, and he obeyed. He had kept the commandments; he has tested his right to the tree of life, and has entered through the gates into the city, a city which hath foundations whose maker and builder is God. May we all follow him as he followed Christ; then every earthly loss will be indemnified by eternal compensations.

For the Watchman. SHADOW AND SUBSTANCE.

We have loved and we have parted, That bright dream is in the past; Yet I am not broken-hearted, Life is not all overcast.

True, the future gives no promise, That the star of love shall rise, Gleaming with its olden radiance, In the future's clouded skies.

Hope the fatterer long has left me, She who lingers to the last; Yet my heart repeats not sadly, It is over, it is past!

It is past! for me no longer, Shall life's fragrant blossoms bloom; Those I gathered long since faded, Long since lost their sweet perfume.

Yet I love that star which lighted For a while, my life's young sky, And I bless those flowers, though blighted, That around me withered lie.

It is past, but I am grateful, For the wild bewildering draught; Now I fling aside the chalice, All whose waters I have quaffed.

Onward now I press, preceiving That love is not all of life, And with heart and soul undimmed, Hasten to join life's din and strife.

I have taken up my burden, Which I shrank from far too long; Labor leads to life eternal, Is my battle cry and song.

God has given living waters, That has made my thirst to cease; Over rough ways he has led me, To the path of perfect peace.

VIRGINIA. Salisbury, Dec. 7th, 1877.

COMMISSIONED.—The Governor on yesterday commissioned Judge Kerr to hold a special term of Rowan Superior Court for the trial of civil cases only on the 2d Monday in January 1878.—Rid. Observer.

BUSINESS LOCAL COLUMN.

George Anderson, the Barber, has opened a shop, just in rear of Haliburton's Grocery Store, where he will be glad to serve the public in his line.

Thirty-three years have passed since the introduction of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, and it still stands unrivalled. Price 25 cents; five bottles $1.

Books, Papers, and Christmas Presents.—F. J. Myler is now receiving a new stock of Books, Papers, Pictures, &c., which he can sell at lower rates than ever. His stock of writing papers is very complete, ranging from common to first class. School Books in large variety and very low.

MARRIED.

On the 4th instant at the residence of Mr. Calvin Klutz, by the Rev. E. W. Boyd, Mr. JOHN A. WILSON and MISS JELIA A. THOMPSON.

On Thursday the 13th instant at the residence of the bride's mother, Mr. J. D. Whitton, Esq., by Rev. T. N. STEVENSON, Mr. PAUL M. PHILLIPS and Miss LUCY R. HARRISON, both of Rowan county.

The following note was picked up on the street yesterday, can be had by calling at this office.

DEAR JOSE: Please come home. We need you very much, as several sad accidents have befallen us. John sprained his ankle badly, and Sarah's frosted feet are troubling her. My corns are increasing in number and severity, and the knots on our mule's back are growing larger. Uncle Dick is laid up with the Rheumatism, so do come home, and bring a bottle of "Cassell's" Lightning Liniment, which is successfully used by our neighbors, for each of the above afflictions. You can buy it at any drug store for 50 cents a bottle.

MARY. For sale at Dr. Trantham's Drug Store.

A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature,—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day,—it is wonderful that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Bosche's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor bill, and a frosted foot, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup or any disease of the Throat or Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as its use in every town and village on this continent. Simple bottles for trial, 10c; regular size, 75c.

Now and Then.

It is only now and then that such men as Hon. Alex. H. Stephens, Ex-Gov. Smith, and Ex-Gov. Brown of Ga., endorse a medicine for the throat and lungs, and when they do it is pretty good evidence that the remedy must be good for the cure of coughs, colds and lung affections. The endorsement of Gen. F. P. Blair, Mr. Coburn Syrup, and their testimonials are to be seen round the ten cent sample bottles of the Globe Flower Syrup, for sale by Theo. F. Klutz. A sample bottle relieves the worst cough and will cure sore throat. Regular size bottles, fifty doses, $1.

DR. TUTT'S EXPECTORANT.

In the most general balsam ever used by sufferers from pulmonary diseases. It is composed of essential products, which have a specific effect on the throat and lungs; detaches from the air cells all irritating mucus, and enables the sufferer to enjoy quiet rest at night. Being a refreshing and strengthening agent, it is especially recommended for children.
