1877.

The year which has just closed will be long remembered by many a business man as the hardest in his recollection. Many a one who had fondly expected to retrieve losses during that year was disappointed and found his affairs, as the months rolled away, in a worse condition than at the beginning. Many others failed completely, and their property, shingled over with mortgages or excentions, passed under the auctioneer's hammer.

No one can estimate the mental suffering sion in trade and finance." of this class of our fellow citizens.
