Compliment to the Old Salisbury Cor net Band. Maj. Wilson, President of the W. N. C. R. R., has faid the Old Salisbary Cornet Band a deserved compliment by tendering the members thereof, with their families, a free tide to the head of the road. Maj. Wilson has known the Band for a long time, some of the members having been in the same command during the war. His regard for them : s gentlemen as well as his appreciation of them as a Baud is no doubt the cause of this manifestation of kindly feeling o his part. As many of the party have never seen the work going on at the head of the road, it will doubtless be a most interesting as well as pleasant trip.

Sanifary Matters .- The town authorities with commendable zeal enforced cerprevent a poisoned atmosphere, and it is believed much good has resulted from it. The street dust now so plentiful, is almost worth its weight in gold for the purpose for which it is used, and a plentiful supply of it should now be put up in places to keep dry.

But there are other sources of poison to which the health of the people both in country and town, is exposed. The water we drink is often a fruitful cause of disease. Poisonous matter often reaches springs and wells when least expected the colored Band of this place is eni- and bring on diseases and death. A better idea can be obtained of the appearance and character of the cave by imagining a large cavern running over five hundred feet into the mountain, about three hundred wide, ranging in height from twelve to two hundred fleit; and divided into six smaller Edves: separately partitioned by walls of gneiss, varying from one to sixty feet in thickness, all connected either above or below the partitions. It might be caused by a convulsion deep down in the mountain. forcing an opening even through solid rock. But granting this, what is the motive power of said convulsion? Steam, generated by the contact of water with tire, is the most natural conclusion. We know that water penetrates through parts of the mountain; springs flowing from its ton, pools'sinking utter its base, and single drops percolating through the solid rock, slowly but steadily, collecting gradually sufficient water which, if encounter-
