

Carolina Watchman.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1878.

There is a case of State and Federal conflict in Virginia, wherein a Federal Judge took two prisoners out of the hands of the State authorities and brought their cases into his court. The matter will be contested by the State in every lawful way.

The N. Y. Sun publishes a bold falsehood to the effect that the negroes of S. Carolina, despairing of ever making themselves felt at the ballot box will petition for the withdrawal of their right of suffrage, and thus diminish the political power of the South.

That is just what the yankees are now scheming for. They want to deprive the negro of the right to vote, and will no doubt try to persuade him to give it up. They start this lie for the purpose of initiating the scheme.

Gen. Grant.—Arrangements are on foot to give Grant a series of brilliant receptions when he shall return from Europe. All this is in reference to making him the next republican candidate for President, though a studied effort is being made to cover up this design and give the movement a more patriotic aspect.

It don't matter, the people of this country will never again choose Grant for President, and this attempt to trump him up will end in nothing.

The Madrid "el Constitucional" says Grant was guilty of an excess at the banquet given him by Premier Canova del Castillo, and afterwards presented a lamentable spectacle in the interior of the ministerial box at the Royal Theatre. Drunk again, is what it probably means.

The English-Afghan War.—The telegraph brings us in pretty close connection with the exciting scenes now transpiring between the English army and the Afghans on the borders of the Ameer's dominions. It is not true that a battle was raging all day Monday, but the two armies were near each other. The English are waiting for the arrival of supplies and transports and resting the men, with the view of thorough preparation to take advantage of the first victory (if they gain it) to push forward and capture the strong holds.

This war originates directly from a small breach of etiquette on the part of the Ameer, according to English reports. More accurately, perhaps, it grows out of the jealousy between England and Russia. Afghanistan lies between Russian and the India possessions of England, and these two great powers have each sought to cultivate friendly relations with the Ameer. The Afghans have been more friendly towards Russia, and for this they must now pay the penalty of being ravaged by English troops.

CONGRESS.

This body met on Monday last. We publish elsewhere in this paper an abstract of the President's Message, and shall not deem it necessary to give more at present. It would nearly fill up our entire paper to give it in full. Congress has gone to work in good earnest. The currency question, as was supposed, engrosses much attention, and various bills and resolutions have been introduced for the purpose of improving the present system and relieving some of the evils of it.

The committees in the Senate of last session stand unchanged. The Texas Pacific Railroad bill was called up Tuesday and several speeches made thereon.

A large number of appointments made during the recess were before the Senate. Blaine proposes an investigation of the recent elections in the South, assuming that the right of suffrage was violated in some of the States. The republicans have agreed to all the States the democrats will also vote for it.

The House has passed the military academy bill and the fortification appropriation bill. The passage of two appropriation bills on the second day of the session is said to be unprecedented.

Fernando Wood introduced a bill to authorize the issue of bills of deposit in exchange for U. S. notes or coin, bearing interest at the rate of 3.65 per cent. per annum, convertible at any time within a year into 4 per cent. bonds, and the money so received to be applied to the payment of the $20 bonds.

Gen. Sherman was before the joint committee for the transfer of the Indian Bureau to the war department—the present system being very expensive and working hard on the Indians.

VOTE OF THE 7TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT—OFFICIAL.

Table with columns for names (Alexander, Algey, Davis, Forsyth, Howell, Jordan, Surry, Williams, Yankin) and years (1876, 1878) with corresponding vote counts.

In addition to the above, we learn that Brower received in Watauga 20 votes as H. M. Brower, and in Yadkin one township which gave Brower 38 majority failed to make any returns and so was not counted. Counting in these, makes Armfield's real majority 835 votes. This is but one-fifth the party majority, and his entire vote is but little over one-third of our party strength.

The Senatorial question in this State should have no complications in it, and would not have, if it were understood and accepted by the Democrats throughout the State that a majority of the democratic members of the next General Assembly should decide it. There can be no party organization worth a cent where the majority principle is rejected. If it shall be held to be all right and proper for Democratic aspirants to Senatorial honors to accept all the votes they can get from Democrats and Republicans, and that democratic members may disregard a caucus nomination and vote their individual preferences, the democratic party in this State at once falls to pieces. A house divided against itself cannot stand is a maxim which will never cease to be true.

As between the two most prominent candidates for U. S. Senate, Gov. Vance has once proven that he acknowledges the right of the Democrats in caucus to decide the question. He did what he could to assert the party equality by which a union of democrats and republicans defeated his party, years ago, by instantly withdrawing from the scene of that contest when it was found that there were discordant democrats enough, when united with the Republicans, to defeat the will of the Democratic caucus, and that such a combination would be formed. In this we have a guarantee of his future course, just as we have also in the course of Judge Merrimon. There is a vast difference between them in this respect. It is for Democratic members of the General Assembly to decide how best to preserve the unity of the party in disposing of this question. If they shall commit the capital blunder of defeating the will of the Democratic people of the State in this instance, as was done then, they will strike a fearful if not fatal blow at the foundation of all confidence, and may not be surprised to witness in 1880 a political storm which shall sweep the State clean, from the mountains to the sea-board. Cause and effect are indissoluble and invariable. The democrats of the State are already sick of this kind of thing, and a little more of it may certainly prove fatal to the future prospects of the party.

Those who talk about the Democratic party belonging to Governor Vance make a slight mistake which very materially changes the facts. The Governor belongs to the party, and it is because he has been a faithful, self-sacrificing, honest servant that they stand by him with such steady devotion. How can we hope to build up powerful friends and advocates of the party if we fail to deal justly with them! And how can we hope to hold the party together when the most meritorious are subjected to slights and the lesser preferred when rewards are to be distributed. The democrats of the State are bound by every consideration of justice and self-respect to vindicate their own good sense and justice in this case; and if they fail to do it they wound themselves and blacken the fame of the party.

Corros.—In New York, dull, uplands 94; Orleans 93. Prices at all other points correspond with these figures, due allowance being made for freights.

O'HARA VS. KITCHIN.

The irrepressible O'Hara holds on to hope. We learn that he has instituted new mandamus proceedings, returnable before Judge Seymour, to compel the county Boards of Canvassers in Halifax, Edgecombe, Craven and Lenoir to re-assemble and count the vote of townships heretofore rejected. The mandamus proceedings for Edgecombe are triable at Rocky Mount, December 9th, for Halifax county, at Halifax, December 10th, for Craven, at Newbern, December 12th, and for Lenoir, at Kinston, December 13th. We learn also from the Raleigh papers that a restraining order and injunction has been applied for against the State board of Canvassers to prevent their counting the district vote, and granting the certificate until after the termination of the above proceedings. The Board will convene to-day, and it remains to be seen whether such a restraint can be placed upon the Canvassers. There is a difference of opinion among the lawyers on this point, some holding that the Board cannot be restrained, others holding that such proceedings may be successfully instituted. The mandamus suit will avail O'Hara nothing without a restraining order.—Goldboro Messenger.

THE WESTERN N. C. RAILROAD.—We learn from the Journal that the force at work on the two sides of the tunnel at Swannanoa Gap, are so close together that the blows of the picks on either side causes the partition wall dividing the workers to quiver and shake. A week or two more and daylight will pierce the mountain. Capt. Jones, with the old Spartanburg force, has been for some time past at work on this side of the tunnel, and by the time the tunnel is in condition for the passage of cars, the road-bed to Grey Eagle will be ready for the iron. Visitors will land from the cars at the depot in Asheville by summer.—Asheville Pioneer.

A SAD ACCIDENT.—Mr. John P. Haywood of this city, has a farm upon the banks of the Roanoke. The other day he went a few days ago. On Saturday he went on a hunt for wild turkeys, and while crossing the river Roanoke, was attacked with paralysis and fell into the stream. He was in the water for many hours, being perfectly helpless, and was not rescued until in the evening by some persons in a boat. He had floated miles down the river. These particulars of the sad occurrence were gleaned from the disconnected words of Mr. Haywood, who is now lying at his plantation, in a dangerous condition.—Ral. News.

GOV. HAMPTON'S CONDITION.

The Columbia Register of the 3d Dec., speaking of Gov. Hampton, says: "The condition of Gov. Hampton was much improved last evening, and we are gratified to state, upon most reliable authority, that there is no apprehension felt in regard to his situation at this time. The unfavorable symptoms, which caused such widespread uneasiness on Saturday, no longer disturb his immediate friends, and the most hopeful results are now anticipated. No more joyful news could be given to the people of the State, who are eagerly waiting the tidings from their beloved leader."

Stolen Horse Recovered.—Yesterday Mr. E. A. Armfield, of the firm of Armfield & Laney, of Monroe, one of the delegates to the conference, received a telegram, stating that a horse belonging to them had been stolen the night before and had been tracked in the direction of this city. Search was immediately instituted, and late in the afternoon the horse was found in the yard of Mr. J. S. Myers, who lives a few miles from the city, having been picked up on the public road by one of the negro men employed by him. The animal showed signs of having been ridden very hard, but does not appear to be injured. There is no clue to the identity of the thief.—Charlotte Observer.

From the Wilmington Star. RADICAL OUTRAGES IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

The Star has never knowingly upheld crime of any sort. It has earnestly contended for Democratic principles, and maintained Democratic practices when they were in accordance with those principles, and marked by justice and right. It has not failed to condemn, now and then, what a Democratic Congress or a Democratic Legislature may have done, when it regarded such action as unwise or improper.

In regard to crimes and offenses committed in our sister State we would not approve of them for one moment, whether they were the work of Democrats or Radicals. Crime is crime, and wrong is wrong, and you cannot make anything else of them, and both are to be sternly condemned.

It appears that the Radical saints and bull dozers are wide-awake and specially active in South Carolina. They have not forgotten the days of 1872 and '74 and '76, and they are still experts in the persecuting and brow-beating business, as well as in ballot-stuffing. The Sumter Free Southern reports some cases of Radical outrages that are specially atrocious, as the negroes are persecuting each other for daring to exercise the rights of freemen. Not only so, but negro women take a hand and beat and maim a helpless cripple because he voted with the Democrats. Read the following startling report of the way in which Democrats are hounded and injured and maltreated for daring to exercise their right of suffrage. Let the Philadelphia Press put the following gist in its outrage mill and grind away. The Southern says:

"Hiram Poole, Charles Wesley, Ben Boone and Abram McDaniels, all colored, have been arrested and confined in jail upon a warrant of Trial Justice L. L. Lowry, Jr., charged on the oath of Toby Lawry, colored, of the Swimming Pans neighborhood, with the crime of arson, burning his house containing 2,500 pounds of fodder, 500 pounds of hay, 500 pounds of rice straw and a lot of chickens. The house was within twenty steps of his dwelling house. No fire had existed between the parties further than that Toby Lawry is a Democrat and voted the Democratic ticket in the late election. It is rumored that the testimony will be that they threatened to burn out all the 'Democratic niggers,' and then begin on the whites.

"On Sunday, the 10th instant, a colored man, deformed and quite crippled, named Golden, who lives on Dr. C. R. F. Baker's place about eight miles from town, was brutally beaten by Sarah Webb and four other negro women, on the place of the estate of Henry Spann. The reason given by them was that he voted for the Democrats. One of them had a hoe, one a fence rail, and the others clubs."

County Commissioners Presented by the Grand Jury.—At the session of the Superior Court for Buncombe, just adjourned, the Grand Jury presented the County Commissioner in several cases for refusing to pay the State's witnesses without the signature of the Judge presiding in each individual issue of a ticket. Judge Avery instructed the Jury that this proceeding was in violation of all law, and that the Commissioners were indictable therefor, himself refusing to sign the tickets, only entering his instructions upon the court docket in each case.—Asheville Citizen.

Yancey Apples.—Capt. J. R. Neill, of Yancey, the real founder of the apple interest in this county as now developed, was in town last week with several varieties, which were equal to any ever produced in our mountain country, and which indeed are not surpassed in any section for beauty, size and flavor. Capt. Neill left with us an apple of last year's growth, which, though "stunk up," like Vance's cat-fish, still retained the properties of an apple, and was not far from being good.—Asheville Citizen.
