The Stream of Death.

There is a stream whose narrow tide, The known and unknown worlds divid Where all must go, Its waveless waters, dark and deep, 'Mid sullen silence downward sweep With moanless flow.

I saw when at that dreary flood A smiling infant prattling stood, Whose bour had come; Untaught of ills it neared the tide, Sank, as to cradle rest, and died Like going home.

Followed with languid eye, anon A youth, diseased and pale and wan, And there alone He gazed upon the leaden stream, And feared to plunge—I heard a scream And he was gone,

And then a form in manhood's strength Came bustling on till there at length, He saw life's bounds. He shrank, and raised the bitter prayer Too late-his shriek of wild despair The waters drowned.

I saw-and to that surgeless shore A being bowed with many a score Of toilsome years. Earth-bound and sad he left the bank, Back-turned his dimming eye and sank Ah! full of tears.

How bitter must thy waters be, Oh, Death! How hard a thing (Ah me!) It is to die! I mused-when to that shore again another form of mortal man With smiles drew nigh,

"Tis the last pang," he calmly said,
"To me Oh Death!—thou hast no dread; Savior, I come! pread but thine arms on yonder shore; see! ye waters bear me o'er, There is my home."

Keep Borax in the House,

Having long used borax for various domestic and hygenic purposes, I very convenient and useful article, In the laundry it is economical, as it saves both labor and soap, and is really cheaper than the latter. For offers a simple solution of the liveliblankets and other large articles it is hood problem to all who are willing especially valuable, and in all cases to work, and it is gratifying to find the use of a little borax will save that the fact is beginning to be realizhalf the labor when articles are much soild. It is perfectly effectual in driving away red ants, cockroaches, etc., if sprinkled around on, pantry shelves, or put in small quantities on paper and placed in the runways of the insects.

Borax is also of great value for toilet uses. For removing dandruff and cleansing the hair it is unequaled. It is also a good remedy for rough face and chapped hands. Its application to wounds, sores, bruises, sprains, etc., proves very salutary, and is often the only remedy required, even in severe cases. Indeed, borax is one of the best remedies for many buriene, and keeps ready for use when wanted. There are many other uses for borax which I need not specify, but those I have mentioned are alone enough to satisfy any family of the value of the article and to all such, as well as those who do not understand its properties. repeat, keep borax in the house .- A Housekeeper in New York Advo-

Beware of Chufas,

Last year I planted 11 acres in Chufas and was well pleased with the result, but this spring I have not been able to get any stand of corn where the chufas was planted on account of a peculiar bug, a specimen of which I herewith enclose. I have planted this ground three times, and it had come up beautifully each time, and now there is not one blade to be found within fifty yards of where the chufas grew, the ground is full of these bugs, and I have finally abandoned the idea of corn and planted it in peas. The bug thrusts his bill into the stalk of the young corn and sucks the life out of it. Several of my neighbors say their experience is the same as mine, they having been entirely unable to get corn to stand on the same ground where chufas grew last year. One of my neighbors plan- GEORGE ted chufas again in the same place, and reports that this same bug has killed all the chufas. This is the experience of every one so far as I have heard who planted on stiff land, some that it is made from the very finest who planted on light sandy land do not complain. This bug is not a new comer, but has been here for years; but it is certainly raised and encouraged in some way by chufas, to an extent never known before.

I write this to put my brother farmers on their guard, and would advise ever produced in spoolcotton, being dyed by a system patented by ourselves. The colors are dyed by the those who have not tried chufas to wait awhile and see what people say one year from now, for I fear that in this instance all is not all it. this instance all is not gold that glitters. prices painted pictures of fortunes in all kinds of city and town vocations vield wealth without limit, and when Don't be humbugged by cheap imitations. it was believed that fortunes could be made by merely organizing some sort of stock company, and puting the No20:1y shares on the market-there was a general flocking of young men from farms to cities and towns, to get rich without labor. But the delusion has ended in bitterness and disappointment, to thousands all over the land, and proved that the living by the wits is one that very few can thrive at. We are beginning to reallize that farming possesses pre-eminent mer it-it will yield a living if nothing more, and that is more than can be said of many city pursuits. It is generally esteemed a plodding unroman ic sition in city life. It requires but a small capital to go to farming. This ed by many weary of prolonged idleness in cities .- St. Louis Republican.

Remarkable Cure of Scrofula, &c. CASE OF COL. J. C. BRANSON.

KINGSTON, GA., September 15, 1871. GENTS :- For sixteen years I have been a great sufferer from Scrofula in its most distressing forms. I have been confined to my room and bed for fifteen years with scrofulous ulcerations. The most ap-proved remedies for such cases had been used, and he most eminent physicians consuited, without any decided benefit. Thus prostrated, distressed, de-sponding, I was advised by Dr. Ayer, of Floyd Cour-ty, Ga., to commence the use of your Compound Extract Stillingia. Language is as insufficient to de-scribe the relief I obtained from the use of the Stil-lingia as it is to convey an adaquate idea of the intensity of my suffering before using your medicine sufficient to say. I abandoned all other remedies and continued the use of your Extract of Stillingia, until I can say truly, "I am cured of all pain," of all diseases, with nothing to obstruct the active pursuit of my profession. More than eight months have elapsed since this remarkable cure, without any re-
