

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT: WINFIELD SCOTT HANCOCK, OF PENNSYLVANIA.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT: WILLIAM H. ENGLISH, OF INDIANA.

REPUBLICAN ENIGMA,

Joe S. Fowler, Jas. H. Embury, George Williamson, William A. Gutherie, E. P. Phelps, John Pool, Daniel Coleman, Wm. G. Riley, Solomon Pool, John Tyler and Alexander White, all hitherto prominent Southern Republicans, have united in an address, rebuking the sectionalism of the Republican party as sought to be perpetuated by the election of Garfield, (whose hatred of the Southern people was fully shown up in our last week's paper), and demanding the election of Gen. Hancock as the surest means of securing national harmony and a government based on the principles of the constitution and the laws. The signers of this address, which is a clear and able review of the situation, have done what they could to promote the cause of truth, and deserve credit for it.

DON'T DO IT!

There are abundant and paramount reasons why every good citizen should cast his vote with the Democrats at the coming election. We have already laid before our readers numerous deformities illustrative of the crooked ways of Radicalism, hence will only now give a brief rehearsal of one of their most prominent characters—a perfect paragon of corruption, villainess, dissimulation, and bigoted malignity—one Jas. A. Garfield. This man was the main instrument which brought about the grandest fraud that ever cast a blot on the pages of our political history: The steal of a Presidency; the steal of the electoral votes of three sovereign States of this Union; the theft of the political rights vouchsafed to the citizens of these United States by the constitution as handed down to them by our fathers.

This he (Garfield) did with the hope of giving his party a longer lease of power. By this act he virtually placed his foot upon the necks of millions of free-born voters, striving over the prostrate form of civil liberty itself, for no other reason than to keep in power the most corrupt party ever known to us. This man who has made it the greatest aim of his life-work to keep in servile subjugation the suffering, down-trodden South, by nourishing hatred, fermenting discord, stirring up strife, and in every way possible attempting to keep burning in the minds of the people of the North and Northwest the fires of distrust and jealousy. This man has aided, whenever he could, the party which well-nigh crushed into the dust the highest prerogative of the American people—the voice of the ballot box. White man—born free—can you vote for such a man? Black man, you love your freedom; then why vote for the man who would not scruple to take from you the right of voting whenever it will benefit the Republican party to do so.

The above is a revolting picture, but is not overdrawn, and we are confident that there is not a Democrat in North Carolina who will cast his vote for Garfield. But we hear it said that there is dissatisfaction as to some of the Democratic nominees. This is unavoidable. Every voter cannot have his individual preference, nor never will. But to vote for Buxton, or any Republican candidate, is just to that extent endorsing the one thousand villainous acts of the Republican party.

To vote for Bringle is to go with him into the dark-lantern meetings, where he has taken so much pleasure and pains to array the poor ignorant blacks against their best friends, the Democrats of the South.

To vote for Bringle is to endorse all the low-down, unprincipled measures to which he has resorted for the sake of retaining office.

They tell you that Grant is a great and good man; and that Garfield is a great Christian Statesman; yet these two men of all others, did their utmost to degrade the patriotic statesman and soldier, W. S. Hancock, because he was unwisely engaged, during the darkness that once overshadowed our dear Southern land, to declare that "the military should be subordinate to the civil law." And now fellow Democrats, in the face of all this, can you vote for any Republican, of whatever degree, or for any office in your gift?

The New York Tribune pretends to give a speech of ex-Governor Vance, delivered in Warren county, N. C., in which the Governor is represented as saying that the time is coming when southerners will demand compensation for homes destroyed and negroes set free by the federal army. The Raleigh News says Gov. Vance has not made a speech in Warren county in four years; and volunteers to say further that Governor Vance never uttered the sentiments attributed to him by the Tribune in Warren county or any place else. But the Tribune lies will not be overthrown by the truth before the Presidential election is over.

The New York Sun has submitted the square issue of the Presidential fraud of 1876. If you approve of that greatest of all crimes against the rights of the people, vote for Garfield for President, and Furches for Congress, and they will carry out Radicalism in all the various ways in which it is possible to do so. But if you do not approve of it, serve your country by voting against Radicalism from President down.

Every man who votes on the 2nd of November must vote for or against the great fraud of 1876. If he votes for the Republican he embraces the fraud. There is no escape from this; in so doing he ratifies and approves the greatest piece of political villainy ever perpetrated against the American people.

The Charlotte Observer of this morning contains reports of the 2d day of the great King's Mountain Centennial celebration. Thousands of people are there, and numerous military companies in encampment and participating in the ceremonies of the occasion.

CONCORD PRESBYTERY.

This body met in the new Presbyterian Church at Newton, Catawba county, Thursday evening last. Rev. Mr. Glasgow, pastor of Bethel church, was moderator. The business of the Presbytery was almost exclusively routine. Prof. Martin, of Davidson College, delivered an address on the College and its affairs, which was listened to with much interest. There was considerable discussion, Friday afternoon, on the transmontain mission, the Committee having that subject under control reporting their inability to do anything without money. The discussion resulted in the adoption of measures which it was thought would relieve the Committee of embarrassment, and they were urged to renewed efforts in the cause. Presbytery closed its labors Saturday night, and adjourned to meet in Raleigh at the meeting of Synod. The next semi-annual meeting of Presbytery will take place at Rocky River church in Cabarrus county, Wednesday before the 1st Sabbath in April, 1881.

The members of Presbytery were very handsomely entertained by the citizens of Newton who really made the occasion exceedingly pleasant. The attendance of the people on religious services was good, both day and night.

THE TOWN OF NEWTON

In the beautiful agricultural county of Catawba, although only seven or eight miles distant from the briskly growing town of Hickory, is yet progressive. It may be termed the town of comfortable distances and airy divides: the residences of her people having an abundance of room for yards, gardens, and lots for stock, and these, many of them, are handsomely laid out and ornamented with trees and shrubbery. The location is on a dry and somewhat sandy ridge, which rarely if ever becomes miry or uncomfortable to the pedestrian. Her business houses are chiefly located on the four squares fronting towards the Court House, which latter occupies exclusively, the enclosed central square in the plat of the town; which arrangement is convenient to the public, and secures the safety of the Court House from fire. The whole town might burn without endangering the Court House and the valuable records there kept.

EVIDENCES OF THIEF.

Several new buildings are in process of erection, and these are brick structures. Many others seem to be of recent date, mostly dwellings, in groves of oak or on ample grounds capable of adornment. The German Reform people are making a large addition to their College in the south-western suburbs, to accommodate the growing prosperity of that institution. Two steam mills have been put up within the last 12 or 15 months, and are in active operation, sawing lumber, grinding grain, ginning cotton, &c. The wheat drill is a popular agricultural implement, no less than a dozen of them were seen standing in different parts of the town. The stores open early in the morning and the clerks are active in making ready for business. The sales of fertilizers here run up to a pretty high sum, from thirty to forty thousand dollars worth this season. The depot was almost walled in with bags of guano and barrels of fertilizers.

The people look easy and good natured, which indicates clearness of debt. It was Catawba, we believe, which had fewer bankrupts than any other county in the State. And last, but not least, she is the banner Democratic county. It is a pretty country and a good place to live well. The railroad facilities, when the "Narrow Gauge" shall be completed, will be equal to the requirements of the present population.

THE GREAT ISSUE.—The chief issue in the approaching election is the condemnation or the approval of the electoral fraud of 1876.

If the majority of the people wish to condemn that fraud, they will vote against the Republican candidate; if the majority wish to approve it, they will vote for him.

Since the death of Zach Chandler there is no one alive who embodies, represents, and personifies this fraud more perfectly than James A. Garfield. If the Republicans had sought out there candidate merely that they might take the people's verdict upon the subject, they could not have made a more perfect selection. As Mr. Hendricks has well expressed it, "Garfield's nomination means the endorsement and approval in the most positive and offensive manner possible of the Presidential fraud."

Thus there can be no doubt regarding the question. All citizens who believe in the wisdom and safety of putting a man into the Presidency who is not elected, and in keeping out the man who is elected, can express their faith in the most conclusive manner by voting for Garfield. On the other hand, all who believe that the voice of the people should be respected, and the candidate who receives a majority of suffrages should have the office, can vote against him.

The Republicans did far better than they thought when they nominated this man. N. Y. Sun.

A Circular From Hon. Wm. M. Robbins.

To the Voters of the Seventh Congressional District: You have heretofore conferred upon me the high honor of electing me, in the most flattering manner, as your Representative in Congress. I shall ever be grateful for this mark of your kindness and confidence. Will you pardon me, now, and not think it presumptuous, if I venture a word of counsel to you and especially to those of you who so earnestly wish me returned this year to that high trust? I had intended to say these things more fully to you in person, and face to face in public speeches. But as the executive committee have pressed me into service to canvass other parts of the State most of the time between this and the election, I find I shall not be able to see you so generally as I had expected. I gave utterance to these same sentiments in my speech at the Yadkinville convention. But I desire for you a wider circulation in the district than they could have from that circumstance. These are my reasons for addressing you in this form.

It is reported that some of you are so displeased because I was not nominated for Congress as to talk of with-holding your votes from my worthy and distinguished competitor, Hon. R. F. Armfield. Pardon me, my friends. Your devotion to me deeply touches my heart; yet pardon me for saying that I think duty to our cause now calls you and me to a better and nobler course than that. If I have deserved your confidence, it is because I love our principles more than my own promotion. In my judgment, the success of our party is essential to the safety and purity of our institutions and to the welfare of our country. This success requires that we elect not only the President but also a majority of Congress to sustain him and give effect to his policy.

I have no doubt of Col. Armfield's election; but I learn that our adversaries are indulging the pleasing hope that some of my special friends will prove so indifferent or unfriendly to his success as to enable his opponent to gain at least some partial advantage over him, or at any rate to so divide and distract our forces as to weaken our general ticket in the district, and permanently injure our party.

Now, my friends, I ask you to join me in disapproving these fond dreams of the enemy. Allow no apathy to cool your zeal, and cherish no feeling of personal spleen on my account. Our cause is far above mere individual interests and individual ambitions. Let us, then, be true to ourselves and secure the imperishable honor and undying satisfaction of having done our duty. Let us go to the polls in November and vote the ticket—Hancock, Jarvis, Armfield, and in no grudging spirit. Let us elect them handsomely, triumphantly; yes, and mortifyingly to those who have falsely justified that we loved ourselves better than our country and liberty.

It seemed to me that it might not be unbecoming nor without utility under the circumstances, thus to declare in brief the course I intend to pursue, and in this manner to point you, my friends, to what I conceive is the plain path of duty, and lead the way. In doing so I am aiming only at what is right and manly, as it is given me to see it; and I trust that neither now nor ever shall any of you have cause to blush for having been the friends of

Your humble servant,
Wm. M. ROBBINS.
Statesville, Sept. 29, 1880.

Card From Hon. R. F. Armfield.

Fellow-Citizens of the Seventh Congressional District of North Carolina: So far as I am informed no charge has been brought against my personal or political integrity; and my opponents have not been able to complain of anything I have done or omitted to do while I have been your servant in Congress. Yet I have received information that a base attempt is being made in the counties of Iredell, Davie and Rowan, and I doubt not it will be carried by the unscrupulous men engaged in it to every part of the district, to prejudice one of the largest and most respectable religious denominations against me, by alleging and industriously circulating that I have spoken disrespectfully of it. I denounce this as a base fabrication and slander. To give color to their slander they make use of the statement, which is probably true, that on some occasion years ago, now forgotten by me, I said in private conversation, that "the Methodist Church stuck together," and used a rough metaphor, such as most of us use sometimes to illustrate the fact, and they allege that by this I intended to slur the Methodist Church. Such a charge is as base and as false as its authors and circulators, and all who know me know that I am incapable of any such thing.

Very many of my warmest friends and most constant supporters are Methodists. I was brought up in the Methodist Church. My father and mother lived and died here. Can you believe that I am capable of wantonly wounding my best friends and casting a slur upon the memory of my parents? But the malice of a dying party, struggling in vain to hold its grasp on power and place, stoops to anything and hesitates at nothing.

My opponent, Judge Furches, obeying the dictates and carrying out the unmanly policy of his party, declines to meet me before the people in a joint canvass, and persistent efforts are constantly made to prevent Republicans from going to hear Democratic speakers; so I cannot answer this charge to the Republicans from the stump, and I doubt not the vile slander will be privately whispered into the ear of hundreds of Democrats whom I shall not meet before the election. I therefore denounce it through the newspapers, and I respectfully ask every newspaper in the district that believes in fair dealing and abhors private slander to publish this refutation of a baseless calumny.
Respectfully, R. F. ARMFIELD.

A NEW KIND OF WATCH CASE. New because it is only within the last few years that it has been improved and brought within the reach of every one; old in principle because the first invention was made and the first patent taken out nearly twenty years ago, and cases made at that time and worn ever since, and nearly as good as new. Read the following which will show you that it is a new kind of watch case which only one of many hundreds, your jeweler can tell of similar ones: MANSFIELD, PA., May 28, 1875. I have a customer who has carried one of Boss' patent cases fifteen years and it looks two years better than the new ones. It is now as good for ten years longer. R. E. OLNEY. Remember that Jas. Boss' is the only patent case made of two plates and one outside and one inside covering every part exposed to wear or sight, the great advantage of these plates over the old kind is apparent to every one. Boss' is the only patent case with which there is given a written warranty, of which the following is a facsimile: 50:4t

THE UNANIMOUS TESTIMONY OF PROMINENT FARMERS IS THAT THE PACIFIC GUANO CO.'S WHEAT BRANDS ARE EXCELLENT. For Sale by J. Allen Brown, Salisbury, Rowan County, N. C., July 3, 1880. John Allen Brown, Esq.: The Soluble Pacific Guano I bought of you last fall for my wheat crop has paid me nobly. It pushed forward my wheat the whole time. I consider the Pacific as good a Guano as I want to use on wheat. It even did better for me than the Peruvian I used several years ago. J. D. A. BROWN. JULY 15, 1880. Mr. J. Allen Brown: The Soluble Pacific Guano bought of you for my wheat last fall paid me very well. It made me ten bushels to one and would have made me fifteen had the season been so common a better one. I have only made four bushels to one where no Guano was used. M. BEAVER. Jacob A. Best, of Arcola's Township, says: The Pacific Guano paid me very well on my wheat, considering the unfavorable season. I expect to use it again. Have used—and other brands, but can say the Pacific has paid me better than all any other I ever used. Mr. J. R. White, Rowan Co., says: My half ton Soluble Pacific Guano paid him very well indeed as to the quality of the manure and it did better than the manure. Had it not been for the heavy freeze it would have paid him a great deal better. JULY 15, 1880. Mr. J. Allen Brown: The six sacks Soluble Pacific Guano bought of you last fall I used on four acres of old worn-out land, which had not been cultivated for a number of years. Altho' the season was very unfavorable, yet it turned out nearly 15 bushels to one sown. I am so well pleased with the Pacific that I will want double the quantity for my next wheat crop. J. R.
