

That Span New Umbrella.

If all the flustered grandpas and grandmas knew how much they contribute to the humor of common life and the keen enjoyment of children by the fun they innocently make while hunting for their spectacles while they are all the time perched on their heads, they would often be quite reconciled to such mistakes.

'There!' she cried, in an excited voice, 'I should like to know what's become of that ambril! I set it up again the counter when I come in, and afore I could turn round it's gone—and it was only on a Monday that I gin four and six for it.'

'What kind of an umbrella was it, ma'am?' asked the polite clerk in his blandest tones.

'A spick and span new gingham, young man,' was the response, 'with an iv'ry handle on't and a—'

'Like the one in your hand, ma'am, for instance?'

'Sakes alive!' she exclaimed. And one might have thought she saw a serpent rather than her own 'spick and span gingham,' with 'iv'ry handle' clutched fast in her hand.

A Bird's Fear of the Dead.

It is not mere sentimentalism that leads in favor of the most merciful form of death being adopted in case of the slaughter of animals intended for human consumption.

Not easy is it to conceive the kind of torture they feel and cannot express. How observant are animals is proved by a case which came under my own observation.

Among the inmates of my house is a jackdaw, an ill-grained and vituperative bird as ever accepted, under protest, human companionship and human attention.

He prefers so distinctly sleeping in a cage where no enemy can assail while he is off his guard that he is allowed to have his own way about the matter.

One day, while he was in the cage, some dead pheasants, which had just arrived in a hamper, were placed beside him.

His dread of these was remarkable to witness. A bird whose time was passed in defiance of things stronger than himself, in aggravating a staff that would not make two bites of him, or in pinching surreptitiously the flamboyant tail of his arch enemy the cat when it came within reach of his cage, went at this sight into an ecstasy of terror which could not be appeased until the uncanny objects were removed.

What instinct caused this strange demonstration in the presence of death shown in one of its own race, albeit so different a species, is not to be guessed. Much food for reflection and speculation is however, afforded.—From the Gentleman's Magazine.

Saturn's Rings—Appearance, &c. Providence (R. I.) Journal.

We had a view of Saturn a few evenings since through the fine telescope in Mr. Seagrave's private observatory, that will long be remembered for its exceeding beauty.

The night is rarely favorable for star-gazing, the definition perfect and the atmosphere serene. The picture is one of surpassing loveliness, the most superb telescopic scene in the heavens.

The orb is replendent in coloring, bluish at the poles, pale yellow elsewhere, crossed by two creamy central belts, and flecked with spots that suggest light sizzling clouds.

with what she had, and warned her not to speculate in hope of getting more. But she insisted, and as business was business, he took the job, invested the $1,000 in something that tumbled, and she lost two thousand dollars by the operation.

Executed on His Wedding Day.

On the 22d of August a melancholy marriage ceremony was celebrated in the principal jail of Madrid. Some days previously a young man, named Alvarez Oliva, and his betrothed, of whom he had lived for several years, were tried for murder by the criminal tribunals in the Palacio de Justicia, and having been proved guilty, were sentenced, the former to death by the garote, the latter to ten years' imprisonment with hard labor.

Shortly after the condemnation they received permission of the authorities to be united in matrimony ere the dread sentence of the law should be carried into effect, in order that their only child, a little girl five years old, should be legitimized. Their petition was granted, and the jail chaplain pronounced the blessing of the church upon their union on the morning of the day appointed for Alvarez's execution.

Having duly exchanged rings and pronounced vows of mutual fidelity "till death should part them," they took an eternal and affectionate leave of one another, after which the bride was removed to the scene of her future punishment, and the bridegroom was conducted to the condemned cell, where, having confessed his sins and received absolution, he was pinioned and conveyed to the scaffold.

A few minutes later he had ceased to live. Surely no grimmer expiation of a capital offense has ever been suffered by the most atrocious of criminals than to be inexorably strangled on his wedding morning by the public executioner.

SALE NOTICES. Administrators, executors, commissioners, sheriffs, constables, agents, &c., are advised to call on us for printed sale notices. It is certainly an injustice to owners to put up their property at public auction without first giving ample notice of the sale. The requirements of the law on the subject every body knows are insufficient. Property is often sacrificed from this cause when a dollar or two spent in advertising might have saved it and made it bring its value. We furnish sale notices promptly and cheap.
