This exhibit, the commissioner says, "shows ours is pre-eminently the agricultural country of the world. The ble space in his report to the subject heretofore made. The juices of forty- erner. two varieties of sorghum which were planted in the department grounds were subjected to daily examination and analysis all through the maturing season and late in autumn. This work served to sustain every statement in relation to these sugar-producing plants, and affords a sure basis for estimating the profit that may be derived from the manufacture of sugar from these varieties of cane. From the torty-two varieties of sorghum which were planted in the Spring, many werefound when grown to be identical, but the commissioner says that at least twenty-five varieties were grown in this country valuable for making sugar, concerning which there remains only to be determined what soil and climate is best suited to any particular variety. In concluding this topic he says "On the whole, the experiments, al though made under very unfavorable circumstances, have been attend ed with so fair a measure of success as to give assurance that, while the machinery is now in position, and an adequate amount of cane planted at the right time and cultivated in the right way, both sorghum and cornstalks can be profitably employed in the production of sugar for market. It is hoped Congress will vote the funds necessary to continue these experiments as long as they promise to be of great value to the people."

A tabular statement accompanying the report and showing the condidition of this industry among the people at large is referred to by the commissioner. By it, he says, "it will be seen that very decided progress has been made during the past year in the direction I had the honor to propose some two years since, to-wit: the manufacture at home of all the sugar we consume, with some to spare for export. This statement and many letters upon the subject from intelligent correspondents in the country justify the belief that the crop of 1884 will terminate the dependence Duke of Shrewsbury (owner of the upon foreign nations for this article of Shrewsbury Oyster Mine) the Queen

A valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, as outirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions and Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal Seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles, Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostate Gland, and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, and does not interfere with the ordinary pursuits of life; it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wracked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the Dinness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, etc., etc., and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for yaar. This mode of treat ment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much proscribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear with ness to, with but little if any pormanent good. There is no Nonsease about this Freparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very provalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold mistry to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nestrums and big fees.
