

Animals that Love Music.

Music affects animals differently. Some rejoice, and are evidently happy when listening to it, while others show unmistakable dislike to the sound.

For some years my father lived in an old hall in the neighborhood of a large town, and there I saw the influence of music upon many animals. There was a beautiful horse, the pride and delight of us all; and like many others he disliked being caught.

One hot summer's day, I was sitting at work in the garden, when old Willy, the gardener appeared, streaming with perspiration.

'What is the matter, Willy?' 'Matter enough, Miss. There's that Robert, the uncanny beast he won't be caught, all I can do or say. I've given him corn, and one of the best pears off the tree; but he's too deep for me—he snatched the pear, kicked up his heels, and off he is, laughing at me from the bottom of the meadow.'

'Well, Willy, what can I do? He won't let me catch him, you know?' 'Ay, but miss, if you will only just go in and begin a toon on the peanner cook says he will come up to the fence and hearken to you, for he is always doing that; and maybe I can slip up and catch him.'

I went at once, not expecting my stratagem to succeed. But in a few minutes the saucy creature was standing quietly listening while I played "Scots wha w' Wallace bled." The halter was soon around his neck, and he went away to be harnessed, quite happy and contented.

There was a great peculiarity about his taste for music. He never would stay to listen to a plaintive song. I soon observed this. If I played "Scots wha hae," he would listen well pleased. If I changed the measure and expression, playing the same air plaintively, he would toss his head and walk away as if to say, "That is not my sort of music." If I changed to something martial, he would return and listen to me.

In this respect he entirely differed from a beautiful cow we had. She had an awful temper. She never would go with the other cows at milking time. She loved the cook, and when not busy, the cook would manage Miss Nancy. When the cook milked her, it was always close to the fence, near the drawing room. If I were playing, she would stand perfectly still, yielding her milk without any trouble, and would remain until I ceased.

As long as I played plaintive music—the "Land o' the Leal," "Home, Sweet Home," "Robin Adair," and sweet tender airs—she seemed entranced. I have tried her, and changed to martial music, whereupon she immediately walked away.

Newspaper Nettles.

The way Ransom, of North Carolina, and Vest, of Missouri, were cut up by two Little Thumb Sheets.

It is no stretch of facts, says Don Platt, to set down Senator Vest, of Missouri, as the best story-teller and mimic in either branch of Congress. He was telling yesterday, in his own inimitable way, about an interview he had with Senator Ransom. They were taking breakfast together not long ago, or rather, waiting patient till John Chamberlain's oven had warmed the terrapin over from dinner. 'I was mad as the devil,' said Vest, 'and displayed my feelings so well that Ransom wanted to know what was the matter. "Matter!" said I, "just look at this!" and I pulled out of my pocket the copy of a country sheet in my district which contained a mean, spiteful attack. "Mat," I observed, with the proper amount of warmth, 'what relief have we fellows got from this sort of thing? How can we get redress? Why several years ago there was a small bore editor out my way who got smart one day and printed a beastly libel on me, and to make the unpleasantness complete, the rascal actually sent a copy of it into the bosom of my family. I did the first thing that occurred to me, and I wore both myself and came back with a libel. He recovered about $700 and had me put under bonds to keep the peace, and I'll swear he had me advertised as a rascal in every issue of his paper for a year. That's the relief I got. There must be some law passed to protect the public, and I swear I'm going to lead the crusade.'

'Well, Ransom took a look in the glass, put his hand under his coat-tail, and coming up to me with the air of an elder brother remarked: 'Vest, my dear fellow, my dear boy, why can't you take these things in the spirit of a philosopher? If we men in public life should allow all these floating trifles to worry us we wouldn't have time for anything else, eh? Take it like a man, Vest. Go and eat your breakfast, Vest, and settle your mind.'

'Coming to the conclusion that Ransom was as much of a philosopher as a statesman, I turned in and tore that breakfast to pieces and pitched the offensive sheet in the fire. Well, about a week after that I went to the Senate cloak-room one day, and there was Ransom walking up and down like a disturbed ghost. There was a notably nervous twitch at his mustache, and a peculiarly perturbed clutch at the coat-tail, and I knew he was in trouble of some kind. So I said, 'What's the matter, Ransom? Ain't you well?'

'No I ain't Vest. You know I never am. Can't hardly find energy enough to transact my public duties.'

'Nothing worse than the chronic ailment?' 'Yes there is. Look here, damn it. Look at this! Ain't it enough to warm a man up? and he jerked out of his pocket a small paper, about the size of a Sunday school card. You could set the whole damned thing up on the end of a barrel; and I'll bet a pair of cuffs the editor took all his subscriptions in cord wood and onions.'

It was called the Goosecreek Tribune, or something of that sort. Well, at the head of a column was the offensive article. It said that North Carolina had but one Senator. There was a man there by the name of Ransom, who claimed to have credentials and was trying to represent the State, but the only real Senator was the Hon. Z. B. Vance. When I finished it, I looked at Matt, and he had eaten off five finger nails and torn out three locks of his front hair. So I put on the highly sympathetic and philosophic, and said:

'Ransom, my dear fellow, take it cool. We public men can't afford to wrase time over these flippant matters.'

'But, Great Lord! just think, Vest, of all I've done for that State. Why, Vest, I've got more appropriations on the river and harbor bill than any one before me, and then to have such a snarl from a dog.'

'But be a philosopher, my dear fellow. Go on with your breakfast.'

Well, the took another clutch at his coat-tail, and remarked with decided emphasis; 'Vest, you're a fool!'

A Colonial Building Destroyed.

The residence known as the "Hermitage," located in Cape Fear township, in this county, and about eight miles from the city, was destroyed by fire on Sunday last. It was occupied by Mrs. Margaret Johnson and owed by her brother, Mr. H. W. Burgwyn, formerly of this county, but now a resident of Pittsburg, Pa. Mrs. Johnson and her daughter, Miss Sallie Burgwyn, were in the city at the time, and her son, and his sister, were at home and at the dinner table, when the cook suddenly rushed in and announced that the entire roof of the house was smoking, and by the time they could get out of the house the roof was one sheet of flame. Nearly all the furniture was destroyed, including a valuable piano, the family silver and other valuables. The building, which was covered by insurance, was an old landmark, having been the homestead or family seat of the Burgwyn family. It was built in colonial times, and cost an immense amount of money, all of the material having been brought over from England.

A glass dress is being made for Fanny Davenport in Pittsburg. It will have a long train of woven glass and be elaborately trimmed with glass lace. To make the texture the glass is first spun into fine threads and then woven.

FACTS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES!

Health is a great blessing. Disease is a want of ease, and without the easiness and comfort of health, what is wealth worth? What happens can there be in life? If we are old, well, it is a blessed thing to know how to regain health. I offer this knowledge, freely and without price, to the whole world: "Take BRANDRETH'S VEGETABLE PILLS whenever you are sick." It is now nearly fifty years since I introduced these pills to the American people, and, after using fifty millions of boxes, the verdict of the great jury of American sovereigns is, that they are the best and safest purgative ever known.

They have completely superseded mercury and bleeding, which was found in very general use in this country fifty years ago. I said that the one was poisonous and the other a murderous treatment, the remedial power of nature had not only to cure the disease, but to eradicate mercurial poisons and supply new streams of blood to exhausted patients, which was too much for any constitution; that my plan of treatment was to remove disease by purifying the blood with Brandreth's Pills, for when the blood was thus made pure, the medicinal force of nature came into full play, and, unless God willed otherwise, the patient was sure to recover. Brandreth's Pills assist nature in all her efforts. It is a nature that cures disease and not medicine. Every other course of treatment only throws great obstacles in the way of the constitution. I am happy to say that bleeding, which I said was always improper, has been generally abandoned by the medical profession, and that the poisonous qualities of mercury have been so far recognized that the use of it has been forbidden in the United States Army, by the Surgeon-General. In the calendar for 1881, I publish numerous cases of cures by Brandreth's Pills, some of them so remarkable as to be little less than miracles. But they are true, and the witness can be seen and consulted. If Brandreth's Pills were used in every family, each box would be a magazine of health and a perfect medicine chest.

OBSERVE, that Brandreth's Pills, taken on an empty stomach, create no nausea, vomiting, or griping. They do good and do not hurt, but are most effective and agreeable taken on going to bed, when little, or better still, no supper has been eaten.

COSTIVENESS AND DISPESIA CURED. ELIZABETH FALLS, Maine, Oct. 31, 1880. Hon. B. BRANDRETH: My Dear Sir—I like to have a good supply of Brandreth's Pills in my house, and therefore enclose you a order for ten dozen boxes. I first learned the virtues of these Pills, when I was troubled with obstinate costiveness and dyspepsia. By taking Brandreth's Pills, two every night, for a month, my digestion was restored, and I became perfectly regular.

CURE OF COUGH. NORTH FAIRFIELD, Hudson County, Ohio, October 6, 1879. Hon. B. BRANDRETH: My Dear Sir—Some years ago I was a broken down invalid, with a bad cough, and pain in my side, which the doctors thought came from liver complaint, but none of them could do any good. I commenced using Brandreth's Pills, taking three the first night, and increasing one every night for a week, then rested a week, and commenced again. In six weeks I grew well and strong, entirely recovered my health, and have remained so ever since. F. E. JACKSON.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA. To the Sheriff of Davidson County greeting: You are hereby commanded to summon George Leonard, Josephine Leonard, O. F. Brown, Alphus Brown, Joseph Brown, W. C. Brown and Charles Bodenhamer, the defendants above named, if they be found in your county, to be and appear before the Clerk of our Superior Court, for Davidson County, at the Court House in Lexington, within 20 days from the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and answer the complaint which will be deposited in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of said county, within ten days, and let the said defendants take notice that if they fail to answer the said complaint within the time prescribed by law, the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.
